TWO GOVERNORS FIGHT TO GAIN DAKOTA TROOPS

Militia Sides with Langer's Enemy.

BULLETIN.

Bismarck, N. D., July 18.—(AP)—National Guardsmen tonight were posted before the home of E. A. Willso, head of the federal relief setup in North Dakota, following reports of threats that he would be tarred and feathered.

Bismarck, N. D., July 18.—[Special.]—Federal troops from Fort Lincoln were reported standing ready tonight to take charge of North Dakota's capital, in the face of threatened violence in the struggle for political control of the state.

Two "governors" were issuing orders to the National Guard and legislature, and disorderly elements were reported mobilizing for an attack on federal relief agency offices. In addition these groups were said to be prepared to storm the capitol if Gov. William Langer were ousted.

Langer Calls Out Guard.

The bayonets of National Guardsmen, whom Langer called out yesterday, bristled about the capitol as Langer held physical possession of the executive mansion by military force while he fought a battle of wits with his political opponent, Lieut. Gov. Ole H. Olson. Several demonstrations by Langer partisans were staged in various parts of the city, but no violence resulted.

Olson was declared acting governor by the State Supreme court after it had held yesterday, by a ruling of four justices to one, that Langer's conviction of conspiracy to defraud the federal government by soliciting political funds from federal relief workers disqualified him from holding office.

Langer, however, contended that his authority did not cease with the issuance of the court's decision and proclaimed a state of martial law throughout the state, though the militia appeared for duty only in Bismarck.

Olson Countermands Orders.

Olson promptly countermanded the call for the state militia and ordered the state adjutant in command to withdraw the guardsmen.

Olson's order proved a victory for his new legal strength. Adjt. Gen. Sarles said he would carry out Olson's command.

Langer issued a call for a special session of the state legislature to convene Thursday. Olson countermanded that call, notifying each legislator not to appear for the session.

Langer renewed his call and urged the legislators to disregard Olson's orders.

Whose orders were to be followed in the confusing situation became a moot question, and those called upon to act expressed their uncertainty by delaying their decisions.

Indications were tonight that the federal government recognizes Olson as the legal governor. It was said the federal bureau of public roads will withhold federal grant of funds to North Dakota while Highway Commissioner Frank A. Vogel, convicted of a felony with Langer, serves as highway department head.

Challenges Court Decision.

Langer indicated his intention of challenging the State Supreme court's action by taking the case to the nation's highest judicial body, in a petition his attorneys filed with the Supreme court today.

The petition asked a rehearing of the proceedings in which the court ruled Langer was disqualified to hold office, and also requested that judgment be withheld pending United States Supreme court action.

The Supreme court, however, also took action in the case today. It abandoned its plan to issue a quo warranto writ to be served on Langer as notice he is no longer governor and filed a judgment in the case which "ordered and decreed" that the entrenched governor "deliver over to Olson the office of governor and all state documents."

Olson Revokes Martial Law.

Following filing of the court's judgment, Lieut. Gov. Olson, who had made his previous demand for the recall of the militia to Assistant Adjutant H. A. Brocopp, issued an order direct to Adjt. Gen. Sarles that Langer's martial law edict be vacated. Then he ordered Sarles to maintain the National Guard to preserve order. Sarles said in a statement: "... recognize the legal governor."

DROUTH MAKES WEST A PICTURE OF DESOLATION

Vast Areas Wither Under the Heat.

Kansas City, Mo., July 18.—(AP)—Has nature walked out?

Farmers in the great plains area were asking this question today. They are helpless, they say, against this kind of a strike—one in which vegetation refuses to grow and streams and springs dry up.

Trees with leaves blighted, shriveling and falling with every gust of furnace hot air, produce little or no shade. Cattle are starved for nourishment. Clouds will not form in the skies, or, if they form, refuse to disgorge any moisture. Soil, turned to dust, drifts over once fertile grazing lands, unrestrained by grass roots that are brittle and crumbling.

Long Spells of Heat.

It has been a period of almost unbelievable heat. Some idea of it can be gained from today's announcement of the Topeka weather observer, who said only twice in 27 days has the temperature failed to reach 98 degrees; only four times has it fallen at night below 70.

And if you consider the last week alone, the average daily maximum temperature throughout the south central west has been 107 degrees. Temperature maximums in scattered communities have been 114 degrees often, sometimes as high as 117 degrees.

The produce truck has been replaced on the highways by the water wagon. There is little produce to ship, but farmers are trying feverishly to keep stock alive. And many are failing.

Cattle Rushed to Market.

The Kansas City live stock market has had the greatest cattle run in its history—animals rushed to the butcher because they cannot be kept alive on the pastures. There were reports in Oklahoma City today that 600 head of western Oklahoma cattle had been shot, humanely, after a futile search for water. Hundreds of others were to be destroyed. Thousands were being moved sluggishly across burning plains, gasping for breath, in search of greener pastures.

Hundreds of carloads were moving eastward by rail, Wichita railroad officials reported.

And there were new terrors. Twenty-five dairy cows of the herd of H. S. Funk, Lees Summit, Mo., were dead an hour after they were turned into a fresh pasture. A chemist determined that the sudan grass in the pasture, drouth retarded, had developed potassium cyanide. Warnings went out from farm agents. Grasshoppers and bugs were an added scourge.

The drouth has brought a real "depression" to the farmers of the stricken areas. During the moneyless years when produce prices were often too low to pay the cost of shipments to market they managed to eat well by canning and preserving meats, vegetables, and fruits and laying up feed for poultry and live stock. Now they have found themselves, still short of cash, with gardens burned, fruit trees blighted, fields sizzling. In some cases corn has tasseled at two feet high and stopped growing.

Share Croppers Quit Farms.

Share cropping farmers in eastern Oklahoma were reported to be deserting their farms and seeking help from federal agencies at Fort Smith, Ark. More than sixty Oklahoma counties and 42 in Kansas were added to federal drouth relief areas as the heat and drouth continued.

In one Kansas county announcement was made today that farmers had 2,070 head of distressed cattle to sell to the government for processing or shipping elsewhere. There were no feed and no water for them.

The weather bureau at Washington, in its weekly bulletin, said today that crops and pasture lands were stricken in Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, eastern Colorado, eastern Wyoming, eastern Montana, and western North Dakota—all the plains region, in fact, from the Missouri river to the Rockies.

Most Crops Are Failing.

"In these drouth sections," said the bulletin, "nearly all crops, except cotton in the northwestern portions of the belt, show steady deterioration, and numerous cultivated crops have been irreparably damaged."

It was disaster to the farm country, and to all the hired workers in fields and gardens, in processing and canning factories, in some branches of the transportation industry, who suddenly had nothing to cultivate, can, process, and haul—except water. It was also bringing distress to the cities.

As for water, even in largely urban ...

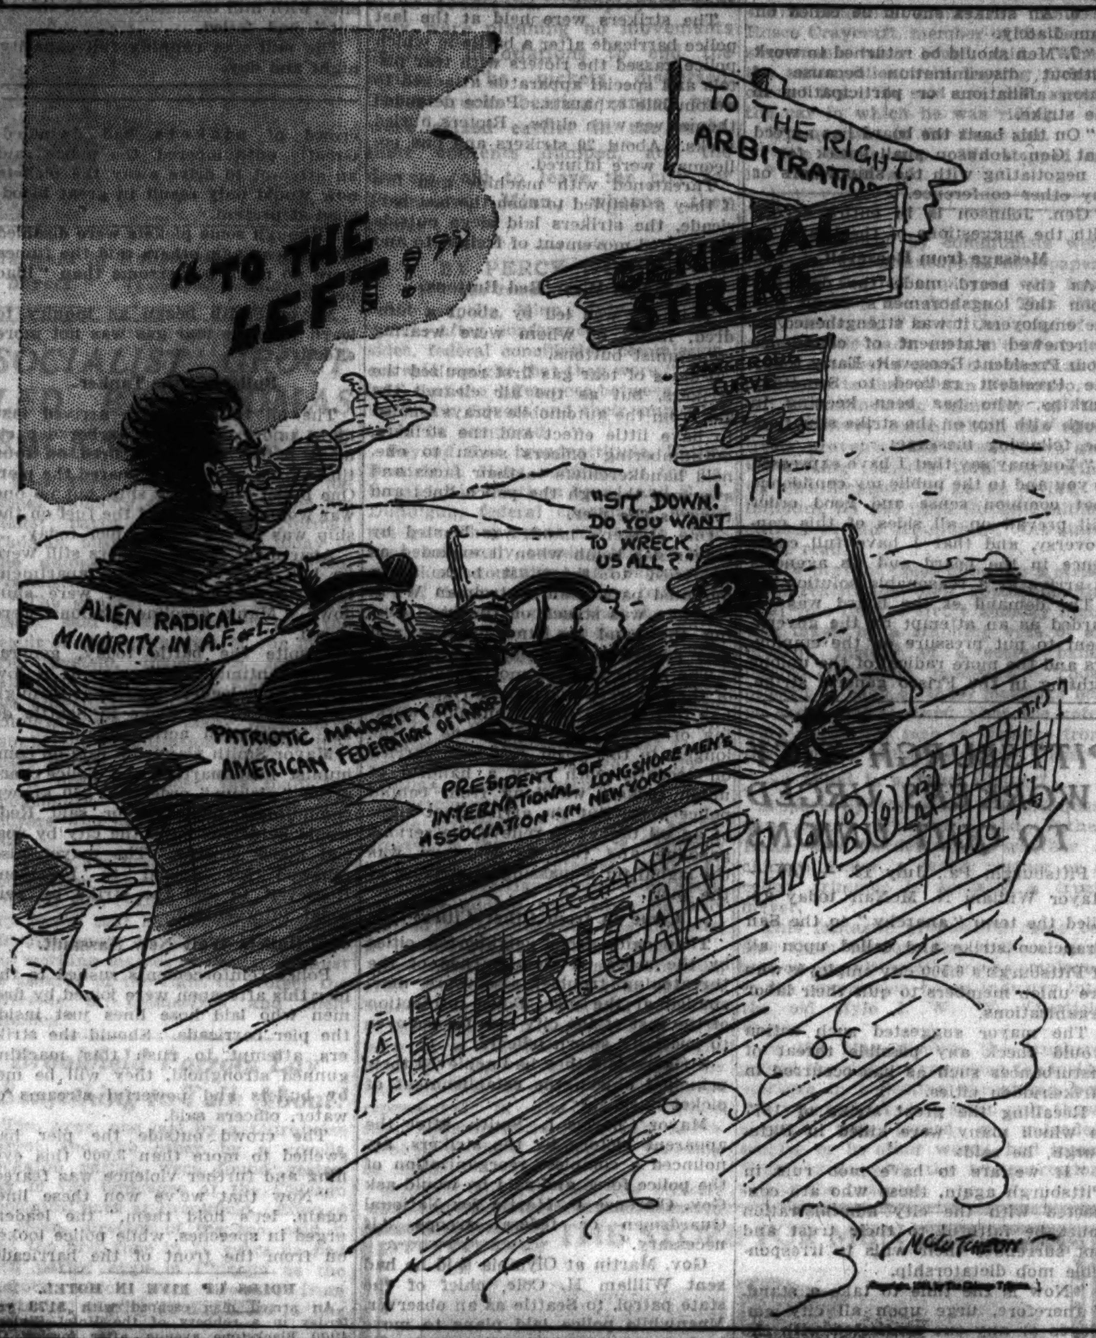
THE BACK SEAT DRIVER



Panama Hit by Quake; Homes at David Fall

BY GERALD MARTIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DAVID, Panama, July 18.—Arriving here this afternoon with Panama's premier, Galileo Solis, THE TRIBUNE correspondent found the 25,000 inhabitants of David, Panama's third city, panic stricken after 31 severe earth tremors which crumbled to powder many of the city's adobe buildings.

The series of quakes, beginning shortly after 8 o'clock last night, continued through today and were felt all through Panama and Costa Rica. No deaths were reported here, but more than 200 persons were injured. The only death was that of an American soldier at Fort Davis, army post near Gatun locks, on the Atlantic side.

At Fort Davis, following the shock at 11 p. m. yesterday, two soldiers jumped from a barracks window. One, Private Kenneth L. Kiernan of Elmira, N. Y., was killed. The other, John Conroy, suffered an injured leg.

Debris Fills Streets.

In a lightless city the residents slept in the open air last night, and this evening they fare the same. The schools, stores, and public offices that remain standing are closed. Trafic is impossible through the débris and furniture which fills the streets.

There is no food scarcity, but the water is cut off, although wells are operating. Panama City is rushing tents via airplanes, with the United States army assisting.

Throughout the afternoon there were intermittent earth shocks. THE TRIBUNE correspondent counted eleven houses which were destroyed and 250 which were seriously damaged. Within the partially destroyed, trembling telegraph office this message was sent to Chicago via Panama City.

To the north, at San Jose, Costa Rica, residents also took to the streets when church bells rung wierdly, electric lights twinkled, and strong stone houses shuddered. Some windows were broken and one cable was broken somewhere off the Pacific coast.

Fruit Port Is Damaged.

At Puerto Armuelles the United Fruit company's Pacific side banana headquarters, dock, and conveyors were damaged. Oil and water lines parted with considerable oil loss at the dock and much breakage of stored merchandise. There was much breakage in residences also. Telephone lines are down. Several hundred Americans, mainly New Englanders, are employed there.

THINKS HOLDUP A JOKE; SLAIN IN TAVERN ROBBERY

Carl Anderson, 64 years old, was shot and killed by one of three bandits in the Grandview tavern, 6401 Grand avenue, last night when, in the belief the bandits were joking, he refused to lie on the floor. One of the bandits struck him on the head with the barrel of a shotgun and the weapon exploded, the charge hitting the victim in the head.

Thirty customers were in the tavern, according to Sergt. Edward McBride, when the bandits entered, two carrying shotguns and the third armed with a revolver. George Brown, owner, and his two bartenders, Nick Stathopulos and John Best, as well as the others, obeyed the order to hold up their hands.

"You can't kid me," said Anderson. The shooting followed.

The robbers fled without loot.

Anderson's body was identified by his son, Henry Anderson, 2751 North Oak Park avenue, who did not know his father's address.

German Battleship Rises from Sea, Then Sinks Again

LONDON, July 18.—The former German battleship Bayern rose like a ghost today from its grave at the bottom of Scapa Flow, where the kaiser's fleet was scuttled in 1919. Salvage workers were astonished to see the 28,000 ton hulk float mysteriously to the surface, 120 feet above the sandy bed where it had been lying. The Bayern floated bottom upward for half an hour and then, just as mysteriously as it had risen, it sank.

Engine Blaze Forces Down Moscow Plane

Cleveland, O., July 18.—[Special.]—The big Sikorsky biplane in which five Americans started a "good will" flight from Chicago to Moscow, U. S. S. R., was forced down here this afternoon by fire in one of the two engines after a flight of 350 miles. Lieutenant Commander William H. Alexander, former chief instructor at the United States Naval Training station at Pensacola, Fla., who was at the controls, was forced to make a swift landing in Lake Erie 1,000 feet out from the Edgewater Park breakwater.

In landing in the semi-darkness the plane narrowly missed a motorboat, whose occupants, thinking the plane was merely flying low, had guided their craft beneath it for a closer look.

Two Flyers Burned.

As soon as the plane touched the water Maj. William C. Brooks and Lieutenant Commander John Wycliffe Iseman, co-pilots, climbed out on a pontoon and vainly tried to put out the fire with their hands. They sustained burns and the blaze had to be put out with a fire extinguisher.

Officials of Skyways, Inc., at the Cleveland airport, who were called to work on the disabled engine, said the fire started in the carburetor when an impeller shaft broke. The repairs will delay the flight three days.

PLANE CARRIED EIGHT.

The Sikorsky biplane took off yesterday from the waters of Lake Michigan, just north of Navy pier. Besides the five men in the crew three mechanics, who will leave the ship at New York, were aboard.

The members of the crew in addition to the three co-pilots are Capt. Arthur Finch, radio officer, and John Fikalo, a mechanic. Because of the added passengers, as well as the load of 850 gallons of gasoline, the plane had considerable difficulty in lifting itself from the water.

The flight was originally scheduled to begin last Sunday afternoon, but defective radio apparatus necessitated a postponement to Tuesday. On Tuesday the start was again delayed until yesterday.

Man Drowned After He Saves 8 Year Old Boy

Streator, Ill., July 18.—[Special.]—George Zalaha, 40, of Streator, was drowned in the Vermilion river about eight miles north of here today after he had rescued an 8-year-old boy. Zalaha, his bride of less than a year, and a boy neighbor were in a boat when the latter slipped overboard. Zalaha dived in and grabbed the boy. Several men on shore put out in a boat. They pulled in the boy, but Zalaha sank.

State Gives Widow Work; U. S. Forbids

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 18.—[Special.]—The flames of hope burned hot and cold in quick succession tonight for Mrs. Kathryn Budd, Brooklyn mother who has been trying to support two fatherless children by making artificial flowers in her home.

She was made happy for a while by action of the state labor department in issuing her a permit to resume her home work under the protection of a new state law, and despite "cracking down" upon her by the NRA of the federal government.

But the boon vanished quickly when it became known that Nathan Straus Jr.—of the wealthy Strauses—who is state director for the National Emergency council, had decreed that her permit must be revoked.

It Conflicts with NRA.

As soon as Mr. Straus heard of the action of the state labor board he sent word through legal channels to have the permit canceled on the ground that it conflicts with the federal inhibitions against home work.

"I really don't know what it's all about," said Mrs. Budd after her smiles had turned to tears. "First I'm told I can't work at home, then they say I can work, and now it is ruled that I can't work. I used to earn between $18 and $25 a week making artificial flowers. That was before the NRA got me several weeks ago. Since then I have had no income. I do not want charity—I want the right to work in my own home."

There was little food in the Budd home while the state and the nation clashed over the momentous question of whether the mother could work under the state industrial laws or whether she would have to bow to the edict of Nathan Straus.

"By Order of President."

The troubles of Mrs. Budd began on June 29, when a representative of the NRA informed her that under the "executive order of the President of the United States" she could not be classified as a person permitted to work in her home. She did not understand this "cracking down," depriving her of the chance to support her brood by working with her hands and needles in her own home.

Friends and neighbors heard of her predicament and a neighborhood attorney visited the offices of the state labor department of the NRA in her behalf.

"Mrs. Budd's application was refused because the NRA representative, in passing upon it, said she did not qualify under the President's executive order of June 1," the lawyer stated. "The NRA representative notified Mrs. Budd that her handicaps were not such as set forth in the executive order and that a literal construction of the order forbade her working in her home."

Can't Neglect Children.

The mother explained that she could not work in a shop, since to do that would result in the neglect of her children. Her attorney filed a petition for a mandamus to force the issuance of a working permit, and the NRA officials were placed in the admittedly embarrassing position of fighting the petition of a mother with dependent children for the right to earn her living.

With the mandamus suit slated to come up Friday, the state labor department stepped into the breach. Acting under a new state law affecting home work—the Neustein-O'Brien law—which went into effect on July 1, Deputy Industrial Commissioner William J. Picard issued a permit for Mrs. Budd to resume. The woman's attorney, Julius W. Hockfelder, hailed the issuance of the permit as a complete victory for his client and other distressed home workers and prepared to withdraw his mandamus suit.

A few hours later, however, it was learned that Mr. Straus, clothed with

RADICAL CHIEF OF DOCK UNIONS ADMITS DEFEAT

BULLETIN.

Oakland, Cal., July 18.—(AP)—The Alameda county strike "strategy" committee tonight decided that it would be "unfair" for the unions of the Oakland district to continue their general strike and announced plans for a vote tomorrow night on a proposal to call off the strike. About 42,000 workers were affected by the strike call.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

San Francisco, Cal., July 18.—[Special.]—The general strike in San Francisco is in a state of collapse, but it still is clamped on and no settlement is to be considered by the strikers until the shipowners agree to arbitration of all issues of the maritime workers.

A declaration that the general strike is broken came from Harry Bridges, the Australian radical, who is head of the maritime strike committee, after conservatives at Labor Temple had removed the embargoes on food, gasoline, restaurants, and the municipal street cars. He declared the longshoremen's strike would continue and that the issue of control of the hiring halls would not be submitted to arbitration.

"The general strike has failed through mismanagement," said Bridges. "But the longshoremen's battle will go on. The general strike was broken by the return of the Municipal carmen and the lifting of the embargoes on food and gasoline."

Johnson Demands Settlement.

Gen. Hugh Johnson, NRA administrator, declared today that before the government can take any steps towards arbitration the general strike must be lifted. Mayor Rossi made similar statements.

"The government cannot act under coercion of a general strike," said Johnson. "The first step to peace is to lift the general strike. Until that is done I have nothing to offer."

But tonight from Labor Temple came an announcement that no settlement of the general strike would be considered until the shipowners have conformed with the proposal for strike peace put through by the conservatives on the general strike committee last night.

This called on all waterfront employers and recognized organizations of employés to submit to arbitration all questions involved in the dispute.

On this two points of trouble came up today. The longshoremen insisted they would not submit to any arbitrators the question of management of the "hiring halls," or unofficial employment agencies. The water front employers had already agreed to arbitration of all issues.

New Issue Involved.

In the case of the maritime workers, the seamen and other seagoing crafts, the shipowners weeks ago agreed to collective bargaining with representatives elected by the men. But the matter of whether they will agree to arbitrate the issue of wages, hours and working conditions in case of disagreement with representatives of the employés is new.

The strike committee says no settlement of the general strike will be considered until this is done. The shipowners as yet have not indicated whether they will agree.

The question still is in dispute as to who are representatives of the maritime workers, and the Roosevelt board has proposed that an election be held under its direction.

Although the general strike is accounted crumbling by Bridges, leader of the radical minority, there are indications that the situation still has plenty of dynamite. Some of the mayor's citizens' committee seem to be urging that a showdown contest be made of the affair, especially as it appears to be breaking up rapidly. Some associations, too, are urging that military occupation be extended from the waterfront to cover the whole city.

Grip Begins Loosening.

Transportation and food were the two items on which the general strike relied. After 48 hours, however, the grip clamped on at 8 o'clock Monday morning began to show signs of breaking so far as its affect on the conveniences and necessaries of life is concerned.

As food convoys began pouring into the bay cities under guard, and tank cars ran in gasoline under escort of soldiers, the general strike committee lifted its embargoes on food and gasoline. [illegible] Labor Temple announced [illegible] would not interfere with distribution of gasoline or fuel oil.

This embargo lifting, in fact, was started yesterday when the conservatives on the committee acted to permit union members to drive trucks bearing meat and other provisions to wholesalers and retailers and to make deliveries to customers.

Since then for 24 hours food has been arriving by truck, both union and nonunion. Convoys of produce and meat have been brought in under military guard, and other trucks filled with meat and produce have been moving in without a solitary policeman on guard, but with a union permit on the hood.

Street Cars Running.

Meanwhile the municipal street cars, a government institution, have been running, and with transportation and food and restaurants no longer much of a problem for the bulk of the populace, the pressure eased up.

The strangulation was rapidly vanishing. On the streets people were saying the strike was all over, while headlines in the newspapers said it was conceded by the radical minority to have broken down.

Back of all this was the pressure exerted by the presence of the National Guard, almost in its entirety, the activities of the police, and the preparations of the mayor's citizens' committee for vigilante groups. Both state and city governments insisted they would go the limit and exhaust all their resources to keep the food supplies moving and to protect the citizens from violence.

Long a Union City.

This is traditionally a union town, one of the greatest in America, and the unions have generally had public sentiment with them. The conservatives were for keeping this feeling intact as much as possible, hence one reason for the easing up of the food embargoes.

Out of all this came the showdown between radicals and conservatives last night at Labor Temple, and the adoption of the resolution calling for arbitration of the waterfront labor trouble. This, it was held by its backers, would open the way for a settlement.

It would also show just where are the elements that are against arbitration of controversial matters and show where the onus lies.

Even opponents of the unions declare that it was smart tactics by the conservative laborites.

The action of Gov. Merriam in throwing in the troops after the riots and shootings of July 5 is accounted the pivotal action, perhaps. Since then there have been no riotings except the ordinary run of disturbances.

Just now, however, nobody is discounting the possibility of outbreaks of violence by hoodlums and disturbers, a small minority fringe.

"Vigilantes" Raid Two Places.

"Vigilantes" were busy again today, falling upon two alleged headquarters of radical organizations in smashing raids. One was the "Open Forum club," said to be a communist meeting place and headquarters of the International Workers of the World.

Crowds gathered outside as the so-called vigilantes smashed in, swinging clubs and breaking everything in sight. Occupants of both places fled the civilians' wrath and the raiders had vanished also by the time police arrived.

One widely circulated conjecture that if the maritime strike committee rejects arbitration because it insists on no arbitration of the question of union control of the hiring halls the conservatives might be in a position to call a union referendum to determine whether the unions now out on sympathetic strike should return to work, putting the strike back to its original water front dimensions.

Fear of Recoup Groundless.

It was feared the Bridges forces might gain enough for a majority in view of the vote of 207 to 180 last night. Tonight, however, it was reported that the general strike committee reaffirmed its action, despite a spectacular floor fight led by Bridges.

Underneath the situation, too, is a feeling among many union men of conservative views that there is involved the question of whether San Francisco is to be open shop or closed shop. It has been one of the great union labor cities of America for more than a generation, but in the last decade unions have been slipping in some lines.

This tendency is dated from the post-armistice era around 1920 and 1922, when throughout the country was the prolonged mad chase around the circle of wages and prices, of jurisdictional disputes and of strikes to keep wages advancing in pace with prices.

Citizens Break Tieup.

Oakland, Cal., July 18.—(AP)—Armed with weapons ranging from shotguns to pick handles, thousands of citizens in Oakland, Berkeley and other strike-bound east bay communities formed committees today and opened channels for the flow of food and fuel into those communities.

Despite the lifting of the blockade from several vital lines of business, however, National Guard troops were asked to guard the waterfront and industrial area in neighboring Richmond, whose mayor, George Imbach, told Acting Governor Merriam that "tumult and riot exist." Guard officers said his appeal probably would be granted.

Oakland had 3,000 registered volunteer citizen committeemen tonight. Berkeley reported 1,500, Piedmont 400 and other communities proportional numbers. These committees established themselves throughout Alameda and Contra Costa counties, opening the flow of supplies without the consent of strikers.

End General Strike, Demand Made Through White House

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 18.—[Special.]—An immediate cessation of the general strike in San Francisco was demanded this afternoon by the national longshoremen's board in a statement issued through the White House.

The demand was made public before receipt of news that Harry Bridges, strike leader in San Francisco, had admitted the general strike had failed.

The longshoremen's board is a group set up by the federal government to deal with labor problems in the maritime business.

The board called on the steamship companies, the International Longshoremen's association, and the Maritime unions to agree at once to submitting the dispute to arbitration. The board pointed out that the general strike committee and the waterfront unions already had so agreed, and demanded that the other parties also come into the arbitration arrangement.

Sends Plan to President.

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins immediately communicated to President Roosevelt at sea the seven point peace demand made by the longshoremen's board. Earlier in the day the President had expressed through Secretary Perkins his confidence in the ability of the board to settle the dispute.

General Hugh S. Johnson, chief of the NRA, who is vacationing on the Pacific coast, was put in charge of the peace negotiations. The board announced that the peppery general will speak for it "in negotiating with the shipowners or at any other conference."

In demanding that the strike be called off immediately, the board also stipulated that the employers take back their workers without discriminating against union members or against workers participating in the strike.

Seven Point Pronouncement.

The seven point pronouncement of the board, as made public at the White House this afternoon, reads:

"1. The general strike committee of the San Francisco labor council has declared itself in favor of immediate submission to arbitration of all questions involved in the dispute.

"2. The waterfront employers' union has agreed to submit to arbitration by this board issues in dispute in the longshoremen's strike and to be bound by the decision of the board.

"3. The International Longshoremen's association should agree likewise and should so agree now.

"4. The steamship companies should agree that if collective bargaining with elected representatives of their respective employés does not result in agreement within thirty days after the election the steamship companies will submit to arbitration issues in dispute with respect to wages, hours and working conditions, and they should so agree now.

"5. The maritime unions should agree likewise and they should so agree now.

"6. All strikes should be called off immediately.

"7. Men should be returned to work without discrimination because of union affiliations or participation in the strike.

"On this basis the board has agreed that Gen. Johnson shall speak for it in negotiating with the shipowners or any other conference.

Message from Roosevelt.

As the board made the demands upon the longshoremen's union and the employers, it was strengthened by a renewed statement of confidence from President Roosevelt. Early today the President radioed to Secretary Perkins, who has been keeping in touch with him on the strike situation, the following message:

"You may say that I have expressed to you and to the public my confidence that common sense and good order will prevail on all sides of this controversy, and that I have full confidence in the board and its agencies to arrive at a reasonable solution."

The demand of the board was regarded as an attempt by the government to put pressure on the employers and the more radical of the unions fighting in the Frisco general strike.

READY FOR TIEUP IF IT COMES, OFFICIALS OF LOS ANGELES SAY

Los Angeles, Cal., July 18.—(AP)—Law enforcement officers met today to discuss what plans for policing the city should be taken in event of a general strike in this area.

District Attorney Buron Fitts expressed the opinion that a general walkout, however, was "exceedingly improbable."

"We have agreed that we are ready," he added. "We have studied our general plans, previously made, for policing this territory in event of an emergency, and we feel that our preparations are ample to meet any situation."

Police raided the headquarters of alleged communists in San Pedro, seized a quentity of literature, and arrested three men for suspicion of criminal syndicalism.

The Mission Hosiery mills resumed operations with nonunion labor after the collapse of negotiations among employers, representatives of strikers, and the Los Angeles regional labor board.

SEIZE BANK BANDITS.

Albany, Tex., July 18.—(AP)—Two young desperadoes who raided the First National bank here today, surrendered after a running gun fight with Sherif Arch Holmes. One was wounded in the leg.

TWENTY INJURED AS MOB STORMS SEATTLE DOCKS

Machine Guns Halt Riot at Last Barricade.

Seattle, Wash., July 18.—[Special.]—A yelling mob of more than 1,500 marine strikers and sympathizers stormed the police lines guarding the publicly owned piers 40 and 41 here today in an attempt to halt the handling of cargo by 400 nonunion workers.

The strikers were held at the last police barricade after a battle in which police gassed the rioters with tear pistols and special apparatus attached to automobile exhausts. Police defended themselves with clubs. Rioters hurled rocks. About 20 strikers and one policeman were injured.

Threatened with machine gun fire if they attempted to rush the last barricade, the strikers laid siege outside and halted movement of freight to and from the dock.

Leaders Wear Red Buttons.

The mob was led by about a hundred, many of whom were wearing communist buttons.

Fumes of tear gas first repulsed the strikers, but as the air cleared the gas from the automobile sprays seemed to have little effect and the strikers, outnumbering officers seven to one, held handkerchiefs to their faces and swarmed through the police lines and towards the pier.

One striker's hand was blasted by a tear gas bomb when it exploded as he tried to throw it back at a mounted patrolman. Patrolman W. J. Sheehan was struck on the head during the hand to hand fighting and was rushed to a hospital.

The battle was the most spectacular of the ten week maritime strike which has tied up the port. Nonunion working of cargo at the pier, one of the longest in the world, had been carried on recently with only a handful of union pickets watching from behind police lines. But the arrival last night of an oil tanker to relieve the serious gasoline and fuel oil shortage was the signal for a massing of strikers at the pier.

Come in from Other Cities.

They came from neighboring cities by the score. Police, warned of the threatening trouble, also were marshalled at the pier. Police protection of the rest of the city was turned over to specially sworn officers.

Mayor Charles L. Smith, after the apparent victory by the strikers, announced a complete reorganization of the police force and said he would ask Gov. Clarence D. Martin for National Guardsmen or federal troops "if necessary."

Gov. Martin at Olympia said he had sent William H. Cole, chief of the state patrol, to Seattle as an observer. Meanwhile police laid plans to move back the strikers picket lines and open roadways to the pier, as soon as the crowd of pickets had dwindled. Greatly outnumbered, the police said an attempt to drive away the pickets now would only result in great bloodshed at present.

Although some pickets were disabled by the tear gas, others said the fumes were no more bothersome than "lilac perfume."

Bullets Strike Tanker.

The oil tanker which arrived last night under convoy of harbor department patrol boats was fired on four times from shore as it neared the pier. One bullet struck the ship, but no one was wounded. None of the fuel on the ship was moved off the pier today.

Apartment house dwellers still were on hot water rations and apartment laundries in most places were shut down. Many gasoline stations were closed.

Despite the battle today, general strike sentiment here was at a low ebb. Labor leaders who went through the 1919 general strike in Seattle do not favor such action again.

Mayor Smith planned a raid on communist headquarters and police were given "pickup" orders on 250 known communists. The mayor said Reds would be driven from the city by special police squads. The mayor also renewed his appeal to President Roosevelt to end the strike by personal intervention.

Bullets Wait New Aassault.

Police reinforcements rushed to the pier this afternoon were joined by firemen who laid hose lines just inside the pier barricade. Should the strikers attempt to rush this machine gunned stronghold, they will be met by bullets and powerful streams of water, officers said.

The crowd outside the pier had swelled to more than 3,000 this evening and further violence was feared.

PITTSBURGH CITY WORKERS URGED TO QUIT UNIONS

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 18. — (AP) — Mayor William N. McNair today applied the term "anarchy" to the San Francisco strike and called upon all of Pittsburgh's 6,500 city employés who are union members to quit their labor organizations.

The mayor suggested such action would check any possible threat of disturbances such as has occurred in strike-ridden cities.

Recalling the great strike of 1877 in which many were killed in Pittsburgh, he said:

"If we are to have mob rule in Pittsburgh again, those who are connected with the city administration must be faithful to their trust and not surrender their wills to irresponsible mob dictatorship.

"Now is the time to take a stand. I therefore, urge upon all city employés or any one connected with the city administration to show their loyalty to the community by withdrawing their membership cards from their union until reason again gains ascendancy in the minds of those who are destroying the orderly process of government in other municipalities.'"

City officials estimate more than 1,300 city employés belong to labor unions, among them approximately 850 firemen.

WAITER PLEADS "NOT GUILTY" OF TRUNK MURDER

BRIGHTON, Eng., July 18.—(AP)—Tony Mancini, a "stuttering waiter," pleaded not guilty today when formally charged with the hammer murder of Mrs. Violette Kaye, 42 year old professional dancer.

Mancini, who was charged under the name "Jack Notyre," was remanded to jail for a hearing July 26. Mrs. Kaye's body was found stuffed in a trunk in the cellar of a lodging house here Sunday and Mancini was arrested in London yesterday after a widespread search.

In the trunk were the head and arms of another woman, believed those from the torso found a month ago in a trunk at a railway station here.

Watervliet, Mich., July 18.—[Special.]—Three hundred and fifty employés of the Watervliet Paper mill remained idle today as the deadlock continued in the strike called Monday.

The strike was alleged to have been stirred up by radical leaders of a younger element at the mill. Picketing was increased today. No violence was reported.

A three hour conference failed to bring results. Another conference between mill officials and employés is expected. Workers demand an average of 7 cents more an hour and recognition of the union.

G. K. Ferguson, mill president, and Supt. E. H. Gilman assert the hourly scale is standard under NRA ranging from 38 to 70 cents an hour. Harry Niver, secretary of the Watervliet union, said many efforts for a conference with mill officials to "talk things out" had failed.

The mill was running full capacity night and day.

HOLDS UP FIVE IN HOTEL.

An armed man escaped with $173 yesterday in a robbery of the Hotel Riviera, 4900 Blackstone avenue, after forcing the clerk, Ray Welty, and four guests to lie on the lobby floor.

'GLORIOUS STRIKE' WIRE TO MOONEY HELD BY WARDEN

San Francisco, Cal., July 18.—[Special.]—Efforts of a communistic organization in New York to wave the Tom Mooney specter were repulsed today by Warden James B. Holohan at San Quentin prison.

Holohan had intercepted two telegrams from the Daily Worker addressed to Tom Mooney and James McNamara, Los Angeles dynamiter, asking them for comment on "the glorious general strike now going on."

Here is Warden Holohan's reply, wired immediately:

"Your revolutionary and seditious telegrams that you 'insist' be handed to Mooney and McNamara will under no circumstances be delivered. Therefore do not expect the statement from them through me that you demand as to their reaction on 'the glorious general strike now going on.' Disloyal and communistic communications are not delivered to prisoners."

Akron, O., July 18.—(AP)—A four week old strike of 1,100 workmen at the General Tire and Rubber company was settled tonight, and the strikers as well as 500 office workers who have been idle will return to the factory next Monday.

William O'Neil, president of the company, and a committee representing the union workmen reached an agreement which was accepted unanimously at a massmeeting of the strikers tonight. O'Neil already had signed it.

Under the terms of the settlement the company will show no discrimination in taking the strikers back to work, and an adjustment upward of the wages to workmen for all operations in which the rate may be lower than those for corresponding operations in other Akron rubber plants will be made.

DEPORT ALIEN REDS FROM U. S., CALIFORNIA ASKS

A. F. of L. Says Moscow Plots Revolts Here.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 18.—[Special.]—Deportation from the United States today threatens alien radicals who have taken part in violence in the general strike in San Francisco. Orders have been sent to that city for prompt action "in any case where there is evidence indicating that an alien is deportable."

This order followed an appeal from Gov. Merriam of California to Secretary of Labor Perkins and Attorney General Cummings. Mr. Cummings decided that the problem was one for her department. Secretary Perkins replied to the California governor that the district director of the immigration service had been watching the situation from the start and that additional instructions had been sent to him.

Green Report Tells Plots.

This situation gave point to the report that was prepared by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor for President Roosevelt. In that it was charged Russia was instructing communists in the United States how to prolong strikes, on tactics of street fighting, on propaganda to obtain control of the union labor movement, how to bring about revolution in the United States. The intricate scheme of "boring from within" was described in the Green report.

"My Dear Madam Secretary:

"For your information, I am sending you herewith a copy of message sent today to President Roosevelt at sea because of the gravity and urgency of the problem confronting the people of California with respect to radical agitation and communistic activities in this state.

Asks for Deportations.

"I respectfully request that you instruct the federal immigration authorities to arrest and hold for deportation aliens in this state who shall be found guilty of participating in or in any way aiding any violent and unlawful action or riot.

"The state of California is prepared to maintain law and order and to protect the liberties and persons of its citizens, but I feel justified in seeking the support and coöperation of the federal government in ridding California and the nation of men and women who are not citizens of the United States and whose active willful purpose is to cause disruption of our governmental institutions and destruction of our economic and social organizations."

To Follow U. S. Laws.

"Answering your telegram to me in regard to action by the federal immigration authorities, I assure you that the department of labor will coöperate with California officials to the full extent authorized by law.

"The applicable immigration statutes authorize the department to take into custody and deport—first, any alien who has entered the United States unlawfully; second, any alien who advocates disbelief in or opposition to all organized government or teaches communism or otherwise falls within the scope of the act of Oct. 16, 1918, as amended by the act of June 5, 1920; third, any alien who is sentenced to imprisonment for a term of one year or more because of conviction in this country of a crime involving moral turpitude committed within five years after the entry of the alien to the United States, or who is sentenced more than once to such a term of imprisonment because of conviction in this country of any crime involving moral turpitude committed at any time after entry.

Prompt Action Directed.

"The San Francisco district director has been keeping in close contact with the situation.

"The commissioner of immigration and naturalization of Washington has today again wired to the district director at San Francisco to act with promptness in any case in which there is evidence presented to or discovered by him indicating that an alien is deportable under these provisions of law."

Although Mr. Green's report on communistic activities was written for the White House a year ago, it formed today a telling background for the trouble in San Francisco and the general labor unrest in this country. The report, though, a year old, was kept secret until recently.

An A. F. of L. official who recently made a trip around this country said the Green report still applied. He added the communists "are getting pretty bad," having tinged the steel, automobile, and textile strike threats, the three major attacks on industry this year prior to the San Francisco strike.

Blames Some Employers.

The A. F. of L. spokesman also charged that employers have backed communism in an attempt to break up and discredit more conservative organized labor. Employers have countered this charge with the assertion that communists are sweeping control of the labor movement out of the hands of the A. F. of L.

Mr. Green, in his report to President Roosevelt charged that Russia had instructed American communists to form illegal 'nuclei' in plants and shops in order to start trouble and to further revolutionary aims.

"Revolution or the attempt thereat, in the United States on the part of international communism, is distinctly a thing that can happen. It is in the program," Mr. Green warned President Roosevelt.

Reds Busy Among Dockers.

Disclosing communist influence among longshoremen, and especially among those on the Pacific coast, the Green report said:

"The National Marine Workers' Industrial union, a branch of the Moscow controled Trade Union Unity league, held its second annual convention in New York City recently. The hall was jammed to the doors with marine workers, including 98 delegates representing seamen, longshoremen and harbor workers from New York, San Francisco, Seattle, Baltimore, New Orleans, Savannah, Norfolk, and Philadelphia.

Mr. Green added:

"The United Textile Workers have been forced to expend much money and some lives have been sacrificed in an effort to thwart Red penetration. The International Ladies' Garment Workers have been compelled to fight vigorously to maintain the organization in freedom from communist influence.

"The Auto Workers' union, also a branch of the Trade Union Unity league, held its national convention in Detroit June 24 [1933] to prepare for an open fight in the auto field."

Run Away with Union.

Mr. Green disclosed how the communists had at one time actually taken temporary control of the labor situation away from the steel union, the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel, and Tin Workers, at the Republic Steel company's Warren, O., plant. The company recently has broken off relations with the steel union at that plant on the grounds of communist resurgence within the union.

The Green report told of instructions in a Red pamphlet called "The Fight for the Street." He quoted it as saying:

"The present demonstrations 'should serve as training for civil war. It is especially recommended to organize marches of workers and the starving poor in quarters inhabited by the rich.'"

The report told how Reds have trouble-causing nuclei in factories.

GREEN DISCLAIMS RESPONSIBILITY OF A. F. OF L. FOR STRIKE

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who arrived in Chicago yesterday en route to Racine, where he will address a convention of the Wisconsin Federation of Labor, stated emphatically that the general strike in San Francisco was neither ordered nor authorized by the A. F. of L., and has no national significance so far as organized labor is concerned.

"At no time during the strike has the American Federation of Labor's counsel or advice been solicited," the labor leader said. "But even though the national organization is not directly involved its directors and members are deeply concerned over the existing situation and are hoping for a speedy and satisfactory settlement."

The strike in San Francisco is purely local in character, Mr. Green said, and was ordered by local representatives, who must accept full responsibility for their action.

SOCIALIST GROUP LED BY THOMAS BACKS BIG STRIKE

New York, July 18.—(AP)—The national publicity committee of the Socialist party, headed by Norman Thomas, pledged its support today to the unions now on strike in San Francisco.

"The general strike in San Francisco," said Thomas, "is in part the result of the breakdown of our industrial system, inadequate measures taken to relieve human distress, and the anti-social attitude taken by the employers who for many years have fought the organization of labor into trade unions.

"If disorder comes the main responsibility will rest with the employers who have provoked this situation.

"Plans are now under way for wide coöperation throughout the nation with all who realize that the reactionary forces that have precipitated this struggle must be defeated and that the working masses of California must be assured of the right to protect the interests of themselves and their families."

2 Brookfield Parrots Lay Something to Talk About!

Two eggs, one laid by a tourquoise parrot and the other by a corella cockatoo parrot, were found yesterday in the birdcages at the Chicago Zoölogical park at Brookfield. Edward H. Bean, director of the zoo, said it was the first time in 25 years he had seen parrot eggs in Chicago as the parrots, which were brought from Australia, usually do not breed in this climate.

ARBITERS 'HOPE' FOR AGREEMENT AT MINNEAPOLIS

No Trucks Move During Parleys.

BULLETIN.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 19 (Thursday).—(Special.) — Picketing truck drivers early today swarmed into the market place believing efforts would be made to move foodstuffs. Employers said they were planning no movements pending negotiations to end the strike. The pickets dispersed. Three trucks bearing canned peas were seized earlier in the night, their contents dumped, and the drivers told to leave the city for Plainview, Minn., whence they came.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., July 18.—[Special.]—After conferences with both sides, federal conciliation commissioners said tonight that they were "hopeful" that the differences between striking truck drivers and their employers could be composed.

Beyond that broad attitude, Father Francis J. Haas, member of the national labor relations board, and E. H. Dunnigan, federal conciliator, would not go. They spent the entire afternoon and early evening talking with a strikers' committee and representative of the owners and they felt, after these exhaustive talks, that the opposing factions "were not far apart."

Calls Both Sides "Reasonable."

"Of course," said Father Haas, "the ultimate aim is to bring them together. We can't say when that will be possible. Tomorrow we plan to see Gov. Olson. After that we will try to arrange a joint meeting of strikers and employers."

The attitudes of each side, as expressed in the meetings, is "entirely reasonable," the referees said, although Father Haas qualified his statement by adding that since he only arrived in Minneapolis this morning he is still "in the learning stage."

Spokesmen for the employers said, after the meeting, that they did not believe any attempts would be made to move trucks tomorrow. They have been at a standstill since midnight Monday. That was not accepted as meaning that all of the 162 employers represented in the meeting would cease shipping activities but the movement of goods, if made, will probably be small.

Outright charges that the strikers were influenced by communists were made in the Minneapolis newspapers today by the 162 employers who have been fighting the drivers. This city, they declared, "is in the grip of a communistic-made, communist-led strike of lesser degree, but identical in character to that in San Francisco.

"A domineering minority of the truck drivers' union which has effectively prevented the conservative and law-abiding majority from registering its unwillingness to go on strike, is inflicting its will upon the half million citizens of this community," the statement read.

"To prevent those opposing a strike from registering their opposition, the final vote for the strike Monday night was taken by a standing vote of all present, instead of a secret ballot limited to union members. Those present at each of these meetings had no choice but to stand when the votes were taken, for fear of violence from the shouting agitators around them."

What Is a Truck Driver?

Apparently the most difficult question before Dunnigan and Father Haas was to determine whether a chicken picker, a radish cleaner or a celery trimmer is actually a truck driver.

This fantastic proposition came before them because the strikers seem bent on organizing all persons employed in the commission house industry into the old style I. W. W. "verticle union."

In the May dispute the truckers gained the right to represent the inside workers in collective bargaining but this was construed to mean only those persons who loaded or unloaded trucks, or in other words, had something to do with the transportation end of the business.

GENERAL STRIKE FOR PORTLAND SHUNTED INTO BACKGROUND

Portland, Ore., July 18.—(AP)—With a general strike shunted into the background for the present, Portland longshoremen and marine workers divided their attention tonight between strike settlement efforts afoot here and at San Francisco.

Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York maintained silence upon the situation while he continued to confer with all contending and interested factions to get an insight on the controversy which has affected coast shipping more than two months.

Mayor Joseph Carson reported that a special policeman at municipal terminal 4 opened fire when Senator Wagner and a group of strike confreres visited the terminal.

Two automobiles drove on terminal 4 and remained about 15 minutes, Rosco Craycraft, member of the Longshoremen's labor board, said. When the automobiles were leaving pickets opened fire. He said one shot struck the car in which he was riding.

Wagner was in the front car.

"We didn't stop. We stepped on it." Craycraft said.

KOHLER BLAMES OUTSIDERS FOR LABOR TROUBLE

Many Pickets Aren't His Workers, He Says.

Kohler, Wis., July 18.—[Special.]—"Inspiration" by outside labor agitators was charged by ex-Gov. Walter Kohler today as the real cause of the strike at his company's plant here. The statement was made just a few minutes before Mr. Kohler went into conference with the Rev. J. W. Maguire of Kankakee, Ill., a member of the Chicago regional labor board and the mediator of the strike.

Insisting his company has complied with NRA requirements, Kohler declared that many of those picketing the plant "never worked for us. They were imported from other cities and have no direct interest either in the company or its employés."

Adamant on Bargaining.

He said he would continue to refuse to bargain with such "representatives."

At Father Maguire's request, the strikers' committee decided this morning to open the blockade to allow company executives, the office force, maintenance men, and others not strictly "industrial workers" to leave and enter the building. It was said the maintenance men are necessary to prevent damage to the delicate pottery kilns and enamel vats.

Meets With Both Sides.

Father Maguire conferred with union leaders late Tuesday night and with Kohler officials today. Following the conference, Mr. Kohler had planned to call a meeting of the executive committee of his company to go over union demands and the proposals of Father Maguire, but this turned out to be impossible as many of the committee were out of the city. The meeting will be held tomorrow.

A number of workers, inside the plant since the strike began Monday as virtual prisoners, still are there. It is not known exactly how many of them there are. Pickets remained on duty all last night to prevent them from leaving or others from entering.

Mr. Kohler, late tonight, issued a second statement saying he had called Father Maguire's attention to the fact that the village of Kohler will be without water if coal is not permitted to enter the factory yards. The village is supplied with water through an artesian well in the factory yards. Father Maguire promised to talk with union officials on the water situation tomorrow.

Evanston Policeman's Wife Ends Her Life with His Gun

OPENS INQUIRY ON 40 MINUTE DIVORCE OF MRS. W. G. M'ADOO

Los Angeles, Cal., July 18.—[Special.]—Investigation was begun today into the speed with which the famous White House romance of Senator William Gibbs McAdoo and Eleanor Wilson McAdoo, daughter of the late President Wilson, was shattered here late yesterday by a divorce.

Mrs. McAdoo received an interlocutory decree about forty minutes after she filed her divorce complaint. She charged cruelty, declaring that the senator's "tastes and interests" had come to differ so widely from her own that they had become incompatible.

Informed of the unusual speed with which the case was filed, tried and settled, Presiding Judge Frank C. Collier of the Superior court declared he would investigate the manner in which the suit was expedited.

"My inquiry will not void the decree, but if there were any irregularities in the way in which this case reached department 2 so rapidly I want to know about them," Judge Collier declared.

CODE OFFICIALS TO HEAR JOHNSON IN ADDRESS HERE

Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, will address a meeting of code administrative officers Aug. 2 at the Congress hotel, it was announced yesterday by F. L. Roberts, executive assistant to the state compliance director of NRA.

Gen. Johnson will be at a luncheon in the Gold room of the hotel preceding a business session of the code officers. Present will be several hundred representatives from the 215 national, state, regional, and local code authorities which are located in Illinois.

The main purpose of the national administrator's visit will be to attend NRA day at the World's Fair. He will speak there in the evening.

NRA ON WAY OUT, SAYS RUSSELL OF DARROW'S BOARD

Russell wrote the Darrow report which sharply criticized the NRA.

Embarking for Ireland on the liner Manhattan, Russell said the NRA could not succeed "because it is founded on two economic fallacies."

"The first is that you can restore prosperity by raising commodity prices, and, second, that you can't compel fair competition when everybody knows that in the present social era all competition is unfair."

VERDICT IN KOHLER'S DEATH.

A coroner's jury investigating the death of Deputy Sherif Carl Kohler, 34 years old, 7352 Rhodes avenue, who died at his home on July 4, decided yesterday that heart disease had caused his death.

HOLD 2 SUSPECTS IN $225,000 MAIL THEFT MYSTERY

Arrests Follow Cashing of Missing Draft.

Two taxicab drivers were held at the detective bureau yesterday in connection with the mysterious disappearance June 8 of negotiable drafts issued by the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad and totaling approximately $225,000.

Police admitted they had not definitly linked those held with the disappearance of the package, but declared that one of the smaller drafts was returned with the indorsement of one of the prisoners. He had cashed it in a south side saloon.

Those held were Charles Herman Miller, 30 years old, 10129 South May street, who indorsed the $16.89 draft, and Joseph Guidara, 460 West 28th street. Both denied knowledge of the robbery. Guidara said he found the check and had given it to Miller to cash while both shared the proceeds.

Packet Sent by Messenger.

According to police, Joseph Fuscone, 23 years old, 500 South Morgan street, a messenger for the railroad, left the Union station offices between 6 and 6:30 o'clock on the evening of June 8 to take the package containing the drafts and other papers to the new postoffice.

Several days later it was discovered that although some of the deeds and letters had been delivered the drafts had not reached their destinations. Lawrence Benson, chief of the railroad's police, and postal agents began a secret investigation.

Fuscone, a trusted employé for the past seven years, was questioned. He declared he had delivered the package to a clerk at the postoffice, as was his custom. Nothing further developed until the $16.89 draft, payable to the Shell Petroleum corporation of St. Louis, was cashed by John J. Oreske, owner of a tavern at 3157 Fox street.

Trace Draft To Guidara.

Sergts. John Devane and William Anderson questioned Oreske, who named Miller as the man who had cashed the draft. Miller at first asserted he had obtained it from a passenger in payment of a cab bill, but later admitted having obtained it from Guidara.

Guidara, seized for questioning, declared he had found the draft in a bag on the running board of a car at Chicago and Michigan avenues.

He at first denied writing the indorsement "Shell Petroleum corporation" on the back, but admitted it later when specimens of his handwriting were compared with that on the paper. He adhered to his story, however, of finding it.

Of the missing drafts, one of $100,000 and another of $19,000 were payable to the First Wisconsin National bank of Milwaukee. Another for $100,000 was payable to the Northwestern National bank of Minneapolis.

"ALLEN FRAMED," DEFENSE STORY IN ORGY TRIAL

Los Angeles, Cal., July 18.—[Special.]—A succession of defense witnesses testified today. One of them swore that Pearl Owings, prosecution witness, had talked to June De Long, chief state's witness and self-admitted "wild party" accomplice, about the possibility of surprising Dave Allen, casting bureau head, in an incriminating position. Others testified that Pat Harmon, movie villain, also a state witness, had expressed a desire to be revenged against Allen. Allen and Gloria Marsh are on trial in Superior Judge Ray Schauer's court.

Into this defense Prosecutor Veitch thrust his cross-examination. He demanded of one witness after another if he or she had at any time been engaged in or aware of the activity of other witnesses in collecting complaints and affidavits against Allen. Defense Counsel Jerry Geisler objected each time. Prosecutor Veitch later said unofficially he will get an answer before the trial ends.

By direct examination of Myra McKinney Russell, 17, who also goes by the name of Miss Myra McKinney, the defense counsel obtained a story of conversations with June De Long. June already has testified she was an accomplice in the unclad revels in her apartment April 26. Miss McKinney said she heard June tell Mrs. Owings: "How wonderful it would be to catch Dave Allen."

HOTEL EMPLOYE ROBBED.

Charles McKane, an employé of the Mira-Mar hotel, 6218 Woodlawn avenue, was robbed of $26.85 early yesterday by an armed man who forced McKane, Frank J. King, a watchman, and T. B. Craft, a guest, into the hotel elevator before making his escape.

BUILDING OWNER CONFESSES FIRE PLOT; 4 INJURED

Jury Votes to Indict 17 as Arson Gangsters.

State's Attorney Courtney and his assistants yesterday struck two decisive blows at the Chicago arson ring, members of which are alleged to have collected a share of more than $1,000,000 in insurance as their reward for starting fires.

Seventeen men, alleged members of the gang, were reported named in seven true bills voted by the Cook county grand jury.

At the same time a fire in which four persons were injured at 6401 Irving Park boulevard a year ago was added to the growing list of incendiary blazes charged against members of the ring. John Condiss, owner of the apartment and store building, where the fire occurred, confessed that he had conspired to have the building burned in order to get the insurance.

Six Others Are Implicated.

Five men already indicted as members of the arson ring were implicated in the confession. They are Valentine Notari, said to be the leader of the gang; Harry Brown and Abe Satrin, public insurance adjusters; Sam Cohen, a contact man for the gang; and Rudolph Pisani, alleged professional incendiary. A sixth man implicated, prosecutors said, is Brown's son, Leonard, who has not been mentioned previously in the investigation.

Condiss said that he first negotiated with Satrin an Cohen, but later gave the arson job to Notari. He had to pay $1,100 to Notari, Condiss said, on the representation that a new and expensive incendiary bomb was to be used in the fire.

Condiss collected $2,064 insurance, according to his confession, and when he paid for the incendiarism and other expenses found himself with $100 less than he had before the blaze.

Incendiary Bomb Used.

The incendiary bomb, which was used in setting the fire, was made of a large rubber beach ball filled with gasoline, Condiss said. A lighted candle was placed on the floor of an apartment on the second story of the building and the beach ball, which was attached to the ceiling by a string, was set to swinging back and forth across the room, Condiss declared. When the ball came to rest over the candle the flame caused the gasoline to explode and set fire to the building.

Florence Benedetto, 19 years old, 1527 North Lockwood avenue, and Rose De Cola, 20 years old, 1118 North Spaulding avenue, who were in a drug store on the first floor of the building, were injured in the explosion. Capt. Fred Retka and Battalion Chief John O'Malley of the fire department were hurt fighting the blaze.

Eleven New Defendants.

The true bills voted yesterday by the grand jury brought to 36 the number of defendants named in connection with the arson investigation. Eleven of the seventeen men named are new defendants, the six others having been previously indicted. These six are Notari; Harry Brown, Milton Goldberg, and Satrin, the latter three public insurance adjusters, and Jack Brown and Salvatore Roman, alleged incendiaries.

One of the new true bills grew out of a fire 18 months ago in the South Chicago Bottling Works, 2940 East 96th street, on which the gang was alleged to have collected $24,000 in insurance. Reported named as defendants are Tom Chelemangos, then president of the bottling works; William H. Jackson, public insurance adjuster; Harry Brown and Notari. Chelemangos, solicited by Notari, is alleged to have paid $2,000 to have the fire started.

Dave Levy, once president of the Silver Cup Beverage company, 251 North Maplewood avenue, a man known only as Augustine, alleged contact man for the ring, and Jack Brown are named in a second true bill growing out of a fire in the beverage company plant on Sept. 22, 1930.

A third true bill was voted as the result of investigation of a fire in an apartment building at 3152 Shields avenue in July, 1933. Tony Radich, who owned the building at that time, Joseph Catalinich, alleged contact man, and Satrin and Roman were reported named in this true bill.

Sam Friga, owner of the Mexico Publishing company, Harry Brown, Notari, and Roman were reported charged with arson in a fourth true bill growing out of a fire in August, 1932, in the publishing company plant.

Louis Rosensweig, who owned a clothing store at 123 Broadway, Melrose Park, when the store burned in February, 1929, was named with Jack Brown in another true bill charging arson.

A fire in a sandwich shop at 1652 Howard street in July, 1929, brought a true bill against the joint owners, Joseph Baker and Edward Steinberg, and against the Browns and Milton Goldberg.

The seventh true bill was directed against Jack Brown and Harvey Goldstein, sor of a former owner of a house at 2508 Eastwood avenue which burned. The parents of Goldstein, who were in Kansas City at the time of the fire, were not implicated.

ROBBED OF $24,000 JEWELRY

Mrs. J. Russell Forgan of Chicago, from whom necklace of 105 matched pearls, worth $12,000, and other jewels were stolen at her summer home in Watch Hill, R. I. Three recently employed servants were questioned.

Servants Quizzed

Westerly, R. I., July 18.—[Special.]—Police today questioned three recently employed servants in sifting the possibility that theft of $24,000 worth of jewels from Mrs. J. Russell Forgan of Chicago at Meadow Crest cottage, in the exclusive Watch Hill colony, was an inside job. They refused to state tonight whether their investigation had thrown any light on the mysterious robbery of Sunday night or Monday.

Inspection of the summer home disclosed that entrance had not been gained by force. Police explain, however, a thief might have entered unnoticed while members of the family were at the beach.

Mrs. Forgan discovered her loss Monday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock and notified her husband in New York by telephone. He in turn informed an insurance company and two private detectives were sent from New York. Local police were called into the case last night.

Mrs. Forgan wore pieces of the stolen jewelry Saturday night and, upon retiring, placed them in a drawer in her dressing table. She wore other jewelry Sunday and left it on top of the dressing table that night. The thief took none of the latter, although it was worth about $4,500, and police believe this was left in order to hide disappearance of the other pieces temporarily.

$10,000 SUIT FILED BY SUMNER OVER FLOGGING CHARGE

Stephen C. Sumner, secretary-treasurer of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union, filed suit for $10,000 damages in the Circuit court yesterday against Henry Bresler, owner of the Blue Ribbon Dairies, Inc., 3659 West Harrison street, charging malicious prosecution.

Several days ago five employes of the dairy company were flogged by hoodlums, who represented themselves as being union men. Bresler then signed complaints charging Sumner and two other union officials, James G. Kennedy and Jack Smith, with disorderly conduct.

They were acquitted by Municipal Judge Robert J. Dunne and the filing of the damage suit followed. Sumner's bill sets forth that he has suffered "irreparable damage to his good standing as a citizen" and adds that his good reputation has never before been questioned.

THREE CHILDREN INJURED.

Rock Island, Ill., July 18.—[Special.]—Running across the street to their home when caught in a sudden shower, Kenneth, Marjorie, and Dorothy Knoefel, brother and sisters, ranging in age from 4 to 8 years were seriously hurt today when struck by a truck driven by Max N. Fagin.

WIFE GRANTED DIVORCE FROM HOWARD BROWN

Mrs. Eleanor Hayes Brown, daughter of Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, was granted a divorce yesterday by Judge Joseph B. David on the grounds of desertion from Howard M. Brown, manager of the automobile division of the Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty company.

Brown was not in court, but his attorney, John McMahon, stated that an out of court settlement had been made whereby Mrs. Brown was to receive the home at 5001 Woodlawn avenue, its furnishings, and the income from a $200,000 trust fund established several years ago.

The income is for herself and the support of three children, Betty, 12 years old; Charles T., 11 years old, and Dorothy, 9 years old, of whom Mrs. Brown was given custody.

Prior to the granting of the divorce and following the separation March 28, 1933, Mrs. Brown had been living with her parents at 483 Sheridan road, Winnetka, and Brown had been staying at the Medinah Athletic club.

CHICAGO'S SOUND FINANCIAL BASIS SHOWN BY REPORT

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

A statement showing the progress made during the last year in putting the city of Chicago on a stable financial basis was issued yesterday by Mayor Kelly and City Controler Robert B. Upham. The remarks were prompted by reports circulated in publications of other cities to the effect that Chicago had gone into default on its bonded indebtedness.

The mayor declared that, despite the unfounded bond default rumors, buyers of Chicago securities in other cities are increasing. Upham expressed the belief that the defaults of other municipalities in Cook county had brought about confusion in regard to the financial position of Chicago. He said that there had been a delay of 22 days in paying the principal of bonds maturing on Jan. 1 of this year, but that this was merely a technical default and was not a default in fact.

Lists Fiscal Achievements.

The fiscal achievements of the city administration were recounted by Controler Upham as follows:

1. Tax levies for city corporate purposes have been reduced in the year 1934 by $30,581,000 below the amount levied in the year 1930, a reduction of approximately 41 per cent.

2. The total amount of city and school taxes collected in 1933 was $121,384,000, compared with $97,299,000 in 1932, or an increase of $24,085,000.

3. On July 1, 1933, the city owed its employés for corporate pay roll purposes $11,600,000, and owed $9,250,000 to creditors, or a total of $20,850,000; while on July 1, 1934, unpaid corporate pay rolls amounted to only $4,700,000, and unpaid corporate vouchers $6,400,000, or a total of $11,100,000.

Rapid Bond Recall.

4. Six months after the issuance of refunding bonds, bearing 5½ per cent, dated Jan. 1, 1934, $2,800,000 of these obligations were called for redemption and paid.

"The reduced cost of borrowed money and the rise in value of the city of Chicago securities," said Upham, "is due not only to the general improved conditions, but is mainly due to the fact that Chicago is steadily and rapidly reducing its outstanding liabilities, as well as reducing the cost of government to the taxpayers."

The "reduced cost of borrowed money," Upham explained, was effected in the slicing of 1 per cent off the interest rate on tax anticipation warants sold by the city. The city has been selling the warants at 5 per cent interest since March of this year, as contrasted to 6 per cent previously. Upham also said that the city probably would be able to deliver refunding bonds at 4½ per cent interest when bond obligations fall due again Jan. 1, 1935, instead of paying 5½ per cent as formerly.

LINCOLN PARK CUTS DEBT

Operating economies and improved tax collections will permit the Lincoln park district to pay up $1,582,355 in bond principal and interest and to retire $600,000 in 1932 tax anticipation warants before Dec. 1, according to the report issued by Phillip Sanders, controler, yesterday.

The payments will reduce the Lincoln park bonded debt to $18,698,000 and will save $55,920 in interest charges. In addition, it will bring the bonded debt well under the 5 per cent of assessed valuation limit fixed by state law, and will thus qualify Lincoln park for a $1,489,000 federal loan to complete its share of the outer drive bridge over the mouth of the Chicago river.

The improved financial position of the district is expected to speed the outer drive project, according to James M. Slattery, attorney for the district and for the consolidated park district board. "While the consolidated district board can go ahead with the bridge project, if the State Supreme court hands down a decision affirming the legal existence of the board the way will be smoothed by the improved status of the bonds, and the project will not be halted if the decision is adverse," he explained.

The bridge program has been delayed because the government refused to accept Lincoln park bonds issued over the 5 per cent limit.

A report of the Park Employés' Annuity and Benefit fund, presented yesterday to the Chicago park district board by Edward N. Heinz, president of the fund, disclosed that there has been a 50 per cent decrease in labor turnover in Lincoln, south, and west park districts during the fiscal year ending July 1.

Fund in a Strong Position.

The report showed total assets of the fund to be $9,340,000, an increase of $300,000 over last year. Sick benefits decreased 25 per cent during the year, and disability benefits declined 15 per cent.

"The consolidation of the Chicago park districts will have a distinctly favorable effect on the fund and its future operations," Mr. Heinz said. "Besides broadening the scope of its activities through participation by employés of nineteen additional park districts, consolidation will bring about greater stability for the fund."

The park district board yesterday approved the issuance of $49,075 in tax warants by the west park district to meet current expenses and authorized the North Shore park district to issue $7,545 in warants to pay salaries.

ORDER SALOON RAIDS IN NO MAN'S LAND; VIOLATIONS CHARGED

Acting on complaints that beer and liquor were being sold in No Man's Land, which was voted dry this spring by residents of New Trier township, Emmett Whealan, president of the county board and county liquor commissioner, last night directed the sherif's office to close the places where violations were found.

Fifty other taverns, roadhouses, and barbecue stands located mostly in the north and northwest sections of the county were also ordered closed by Mr. Whealan for failure to make application for liquor licenses.

No Man's Land, a small area lying just outside the incorporated villages of Wilmette and Kenilworth, has long been a source of irritation to the dry villages of the north shore. Village petitions have been presented to the county board, asking that the wet spots in the district be wiped out as soon as possible.

"We have refused to accept licenses for taverns in No Man's Land, because this territory was voted dry," Mr. Whealan declared. "I feel it is my duty to act when the law is ignored. I have asked the sherif to raid those places that persist in selling liquor in forbidden territory."

STATE STREET FULL OF DOLLAR BARGAINS TODAY

Stores Ready for Great Shopping Crowds.

Chicago housewives and visiting housewives from cities, and towns, and throughout the country who are here for A Century of Progress are expected to fill the loop as State street stores open their doors at 9 o'clock this morning for their fifth Dollar day sales event.

Today State street merchants will offer merchandise items for $1 which, they say, exceed in value any offered heretofore on Dollar days. These include items of dress for the entire family, candy and grocery bargains, electric goods, manicure sets, makeup boxes, thermos bottles, picnic jugs, and many home furnishings.

More Stores Take Part.

Officials of the State Street council, which sponsors Dollar day, said that more stores were taking part in the event than had in any previous Dollar day. They also predicted that the day would set a new high mark in the number of transactions and the volume of business recorded by the stores.

Early shopping was pointed out as the wise buyer's only safe course, for while the buying power of State street has been directed for months toward the assembling of merchandise for the event, many lines invariably sell out early, merchants said.

State Street in Gay Array.

State street has been colorfully decorated with flags from Lake street to Congress street for the occasion. In many of the stores mannequins will parade in Dollar day merchandise, including dollar shoes, stockings, dresses, hats, handbags, and jewelry.

Chicago women have become educated to the significance of Dollar days and know that through them they can save on such standard budget expenses as yard goods, toilet goods, and lingerie, representatives of the council pointed out. These dollar items extend from basements up to household furnishings floors, and include children's wear, men's wear, and all lines of women's wear.

KILLS SELF ON STREET CORNER.

Charles Urbanski, 26 years old, 4435 South Wells street, shot and killed himself yesterday at 47th and Federal streets. Police were told that Urbanski had been despondent over his inability to get work.

COUNTY WORKERS WILL GET $450,000 APRIL PAY TODAY

A pay roll of $450,000, covering the salaries of some 4,000 county employés, as well as blind and widows' pensions for the last half of April, will be distributed today, according to Edward J. McCabe, secretary to County Treasurer Thomas D. Nash. As soon as the anticipated sale of $3,000,000 worth of tax warants goes through, Mr. McCabe said, steps will be taken to bring the pay rolls up to date and keep them there.

$1,930 Jewelry Stolen from Doctor's Automobile

Thieves who broke into an automobile owned by Dr. W. G. Johnson, 732 Bittersweet place, while it was parked on 59th street in Jackson park last night obtained jewelry worth $1,930 and $145 in cash. Dr. Johnson, his niece, Miss Virginia M. Hardesty of Baltimore, and Miss Twanette Thomas, 6147 Greenwood avenue, a friend of the Johnson family, were at the beach at the time. Most of the stolen jewelry belonged to Miss Hardesty.

SIDEWALK CAFE PERMITS ISSUED BY SOUTH PARKS

Temporary permits authorizing the opening of sidewalk cafés on Michigan avenue were issued yesterday by the south park district, bearing the signatures of Mayor Kelly and Commissioners Benjamin Lindheimer and Philip S. Graver. The permits will be effective until the south park board passes a sidewalk café ordinance. It is expected that this will be done at a meeting of the board Monday.

The Stevens hotel, the Blackstone hotel, and a fish bar at 22 South Michigan avenue are scheduled to receive their permits today. Managements of the hotels said they expect to open their cafés next week. C. R. Spear, assistant manager of the fish bar, said he is ready to open his sidewalk café immediately.

MAN FOUND DEAD.

Evansville, Ind., July 18.—[Special.]—An unidentified man, apparently about 60 years old, was found dead today under a bridge over Toops creek about two miles south of Fort Branch. He had been dead about a week, according to the Gibson county coroner.

RULES SALES TAX SHOULD BE PAID ON GAS AND LIGHT

Judge Fisher Holds Both Are Tangibles.

Gas and light, as dispensed by public utilities, are "tangible property," and as such are subject to the state retailers' 2 per cent occupational tax [the sales tax], Judge Harry M. Fisher ruled yesterday in the Circuit court.

If this ruling, which came at the end of a series of hearings begun last autumn, is upheld by the Illinois Supreme court, it will mean that the state treasury will receive between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 a year from gas and electric companies.

The ruling was made in the cases of the Commonwealth Edison company, the Peoples Gas, Light and Coke company, and the Central Illinois Public Service company, but if upheld it will affect all other public utility companies which sell gas and light in Illinois.

Case Started Last July.

The case began in July last year after the occupational tax law became effective. At that time the companies in question sought and were granted a temporary injunction restraining Knowlton L. Ames, state director of finance, from collecting the tax from them.

The main hearings opened when the companies sought to make the injunction permanent. In the hearings scientists, leaders in the fields of physics and chemistry, took the stand as witnesses both for the state and the defense to show the tangibility or intangibility of the products in question. The companies contended that gas and electricity are intangible and that their supply is not the sale of a commodity, but the peformance of a service which is exempt from the tax.

For the state, Dr. Arthur H. Compton, Nobel prize winner in physics, and Dr. Anton J. Carlson, both of the University of Chicago, were called to testify that electricity could be felt, heard, and even tasted, and that at times it possessed weight in a power line.

Defines Tangible Property.

In his decision Judge Fisher held that "tangible property" included any property which might be bought or sold, with the exception of legal rights, this upholding the contention of Assistant Attorneys General James G. Skinner and Montgomery S. Winning.

After the decision attorneys for the companies said they would take an appeal immediately. By agreement of counsel, however, the temporary injunction will remain in effect until the Illinois Supreme court has had a chance to rule on the question.

In the meantime the companies will put aside the amount which might be collected in tax, to protect themselves in the event of the high court's upholding Judge Fisher's decision.

G.O.P. CHIEFS OPEN NEW OFFICES FOR FALL CAMPAIGN

Without horn blowing or any especial political trumpeting, the western headquarters for the Republican fall campaign were opened yesterday at 332 South Michigan avenue.

In addition to the space reserved for Representative Chester C. Bolton of Cleveland, chairman of the congressional campaign committee, and for Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa, who is to represent the campaign committee of the other house in this section, rooms also were taken for National Treasurer George F. Getz of Chicago and Justus L. Johnson of Aurora, chairman of the party's state committee.

Earl Venable, executive secretary of the congressional committee, also was on hand prepared to take up his task of working between here and Washington. Present also was Representative Leo E. Allen of Galena, who will be Chairman Bolton's principal contact man in Illinois and the adjoining states.

DEPUTY MARSHAL DRAGS BOY FROM PERILOUS LEDGE

Far up, just under the rotunda of the United States courthouse and overhanging a sheer eight story drop to the marble floor of the lobby, is a narrow, decorative ledge.

Deputy United States Marshal Benjamin Goldberg was on the eighth floor of the building yesterday when he observed an 18 year old boy perched precariously on this ledge and gazing pensively downward.

Goldberg stealthily approached the balustrade, seized the youth by the neck and dragged him to safety and asked him what in blazes he was doing there.

"O, nothing," explained the boy, who identified himself as Edward Nyack of Poughkeepsie, N. Y. "I came here—hitch-hiked—to see the Fair, and I haven't any money. I was just thinking about the man who jumped off of here once."

Goldberg gave the boy some money for food and advised him to start back for home, forgetting people who jump from high places.

URGES STIFFER LAW ON PAROLES FOR GUN TOTERS

Ex-Board Member Suggests Five Year Limit.

More stringent parole restrictions in gun toting convictions were urged yesterday by Albert B. George, a leading colored member of the bar, who formerly was a member of the parole board and a judge of the Municipal court.

"The man who carries a gun is a potential murderer and as such should be properly punished by society," Attorney George said. "There are no extenuating circumstances for the man who puts a gun in his pocket and goes out bent on robbery.

A Potential Murderer.

"He may say he does not mean to kill, but in the vast majority of cases he sets out with the premise nothing shall bar his way, even murder. At least his is not a crime of the moment but one of deliberation."

Under the present law, Attorney George said, the sentence for robbery is from one year to life in the penitentiary with eligibility to parole at the end of the first year. The law was passed by the legislature in 1926 to succeed a former law which did not allow parole until 10 years had been served.

Advocates Five Year Minimum.

"If the former law was too severe the present one is too mild," Attorney George said. "I believe it should be changed to provide that parole shall not be granted until the prisoner has served five years.

"In the three years I served on the parole board, which ended in June of 1933, we adopted a stern policy toward gun carriers, which should be approved by legislative enactment. By the same token confidence game operators and forgers should also be subjected to more stringent legislation, because these classes of criminals rarely reform."

Urges Full Punishment.

Attorney George said he believes the first duty of the parole board is to punish offenders and the second to return them as useful members of society after they have been punished. Toward this end, he said, the prisoner who does not show possibility of reform should be kept in prison for a full term, while others should be released as soon as they receive adequate punishment.

Teamster Released After Killing in Gasoline Theft

Emil Mahr, 36 years old, 1473 Clybourn avenue, a Willett Teaming company employé, who shot and killed Frank Ellis, 19 years old, 629 Willow street, Tuesday night when he found him and other youths stealing gasoline from his car, was released by the Hudson avenue police yesterday. His release was ordered when the inquest was continued until July 24.

GUNMAN DROPS BAG FULL OF GEMS IN FLIGHT FROM SHOP

New York, July 18.—[Special.]—Four gunmen seized jewels of undetermined value today in a raid on the manufacturing plant of Charles P. Goldsmith & Co., in West 36th street. The gunmen nearly were trapped by the police, dropping a bag with gems worth nearly $300,000 as they fled.

The owners reported there were jewels valued at $1,000,000 in the plant when it opened for business this morning. An inventory is being taken to determine what was stolen. Among the jewelry recovered was one lot of forty-eight diamond rings, another of eighty-four diamond rings and a third of fourteen uncut marquise diamonds.

PRISON TERMS GIVEN CUSACK AND M'CARTHY

CRIMINAL COURT.

Florian Sienkiewicz and John Motycha, automobile larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in the penitentiary by Judge James F. Fardy.

Edward Thornton, Andy Cox and Sam Ferguson, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary by Judge Benjamin P. Epstein.

Edwin J. Cusack, 39 years old, a former policeman, and James McCarthy, 47 years old, a garage owner, each were sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary yesterday by Judge Grover C. Niemeyer on charges of assault with intent to kill. The defendants were found guilty by a jury Tuesday night of the attempted murder of John Joseph French, 4903 Lake Park avenue, who was a witness against them in a government hijacking case.

The state case was begun after Cusack and McCarthy had been sentenced to seven years in the penitentiary in the federal court on charges of intimidating a government witness. Judge Philip L. Sullivan characterized the crime as the most brutal in his experience and recommended prosecution in the Criminal court.

It was decided yesterday that Cusack and McCarthy should serve the federal sentence first. They will be taken to Leavenworth penitentiary with other prisoners Friday.

Cusack and McCarthy shot French Jan. 6 and left him for dead in the Little Calumet river at 145th street and Ashland avenue. French crawled to Halsted street and obtained help after his assailants had gone.

KING ALFONSO'S CAR FIGURES IN FATAL ACCIDENT

VIENNA, July 18.—(AP)—Former King Alfonso of Spain figured prominently in an automobile accident today in which one man was killed.

An automobile owned by a Dane attempted to pass Alfonso's car but skidded, damaging the former king's automobile and crashing into a post.

GUARD WEALTHY FAMILY AFTER THREE THREATS

$10,000 Is Demanded of Rich Widow.

Lincoln, Neb., July 18.—(AP)—Armed guards protected members of the wealthy Sidles family in Lincoln and at Troutdale-in-the-Pines, Colo., tonight following receipt of extortion letters and an unsuccessful attempt to trap the letter-writer with a package of dummy money.

Officers thought, however, that publicity would cause the blackmailer to abandon the attempt.

Four notes, demanding $10,000 be left by a country road, were addressed to Mrs. H. E. Sidles, widow of a pioneer Lincoln business man who died last January.

She was under the protection of department of justice agents at the Troutdale-in-the-Pines hotel, which the family owns, along with Mrs. Harry Sidles and Mrs. Lois Sidles.

Denies Fleeing to Colorado.

In Colorado Mrs. H. E. Sidles denied that the family had fled to Colorado because of the extortion notes which were delivered at her Lincoln home.

"We come here every summer about July 1, and the notes had nothing to do with our trip this year," she said.

In Lincoln Harry Sidles and Fred Sidles, former husband of Lois, were guarded by police, whether at their rooms in a hotel or at their business. Harry and Fred are sons of Mrs. H. E. Sidles.

"It's just a little scare," they said, but official vigilance was unrelaxed.

The letter threatened harm to "some member of your family," but federal agents said they had been forwarded to Washington and their exact contents was not divulged here.

Because the letters, written with pen and ink, were addressed to Mrs. Sidles in Lincoln when she actually was in Colorado, officers thought the writer was not well acquainted with the family.

First Received Last Week.

The first of the series of four letters arrived last week, and was followed by others which said instruction would be given for payment of the money. Later yesterday postal authorities intercepted a note which instructed Mrs. Sidles to drive south on 27th street to the Auto club park and then turn east until she found a white flag on a fence with further instructions.

Werner Hanni, chief of the Omaha federal bureau of investigation, impersonated Mrs. Sidles' chauffeur. Accompanied by a woman and with two other officers hiding in the back seat of the Sidles car, he drove down the road and found the rag and note. A police car approached the spot from another direction.

Following instructions again, the agent found another note which directed him to a culvert. Hanni had the two officers get out and hide in the culvert. Just then the police car zoomed down the hill to the culvert. The policemen feared something had happened to the occupants of the Sidles car, but they passed on.

Hidden in the culvert, the two officers waited a long time for something to happen, but nothing did.

DROUTH MAKES WEST A PICTURE OF DESOLATION

St. Louis county, Mo., 1,000 suburbanites and farmers were forced to haul water for personal use and live stock. The average charge was $2 a load when they hired haulers. Many smaller municipalities faced water famine and were already rationing their limited supply.

Cancel College Classes.

All afternoon classes at the State Teachers' college at Springfield, Mo., were canceled today and the morning classes were advanced to earlier hours. The temperature had passed 100 there every day this week.

At Jefferson City, Mo., three cases of typhoid were reported in hospitals and several others out in the county. The temperature there has ranged from 104 to 108 maximum the last seven days.

NOTES DROUTH INCREASE

Washington, D. C., July 18.—(AP)—Increase of the drouth over a major part of the country was reported today by the weather bureau in its weekly bulletin.

Abnormal lack of rainfall caused new damage to crops in north central, midwestern, and southwestern states. Crops and pasture lands deteriorated from the great plains westward, with conditions especially bad in Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, eastern Colorado, eastern Wyoming, eastern Montana, and western North Dakota.

Nearly All Crops Affected.

"In these drouth sections nearly all crops, except cotton in the north western portions of the belt, show steady deterioration, very rapid in many places, and numerous cultivated crops have been irreparably damaged," the bureau declared. "Pastures have dried up, and in many places the water situation is critical."

The hint the spring wheat crop was being reduced considerably below last week's estimate of 89,394,000 bushels was contained in the statement today that fall grains in the spring wheat area, particularly in Minnesota, "are mostly beyond redemption, with many fields being pastured or plowed under." Most of the late planted grain continued to deteriorate, with many fields being abandoned.

Iowa Corn Crops Good.

Progress of the corn crop in the Ohio and upper Mississippi valleys was reported to be "good to excellent." In Iowa, principal corn producing state, progress was reported good except in the south central and south western portions where many fields have been ruined by the heat and lack of moisture.

However, in a large portion of the southwest, including Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, and Texas, extreme heat caused "heavy, irreparable damage."

ROOSEVELT BOYS AT WASHINGTON; INCOGNITO FAILS

Washington, D. C., July 18.—(AP)—The President's sons, James and Elliott, individually attempted dropping incognito into Washington today but didn't get away with it.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt registered at the Hotel Shoreham last night. James arrived at the same hotel this morning.

Before either had reported to the White House, no longer a home to the family since it is in the throes of cleaning and remodeling, a hotel press agent had told the newspapers.

At his press conference, Stephen T. Early, the President's press secretary, said Elliott had called him up to ask for a state department letter for a friend going abroad, and that James, phoning later, learned to his surprise that Elliott was in town staying at the same hotel. Early said both sons had arranged their trips to Washington so informally neither knew the other was in the capital.

Los Angeles Youth Dies in Twelve Story Leap

Los Angeles, Cal., July 18.—(AP)—A well dressed youth, identified as Robert Lansdowne, about 24, of Los Angeles, leaped from the roof of a 12 story building at 9th and Hill streets today and was killed instantly. Letters in Lansdowne's pocket were addressed to him as a major in the British army.

JAPAN NIPS NEW PLOT; NABS FOUR SUSPECTS IN RAID

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, July 18.—Police officials reported today that they have unearthed another reactionary plot directed against government leaders, similar to that of May 15, 1932. Wearing bulletproof vests and carrying revolvers, which is unusual in Japan, a squad of policemen raided the headquarters of the East Asia Supremacy society late last night and arrested four of the group's eighteen known members.

Pamphlets denouncing the Okada cabinet and revolvers and swords were seized in the raid.

According to the newspaper Jiji, the group was organized on Hokkaido Island in January under Masao Okubo, who knew well the Priest Inouye, Blood Brotherhood leader, and attended at least one meeting of the May 15 plotters. The society aimed to join with other patriotic societies and train youths to work for the so-called "Showa restoration, removing all government members who do not follow Japan's ancient spirit."

STEEL MILL WORKER KILLED.

Bruno Crispe, 27 years old, was killed in the strip mills of the Inland Steel company at Hammond yesterday when an acetylene tank exploded.

FAIR WILL HONOR HOOSIERS TODAY; M'NUTT TO VISIT

Record for Nonholiday Wednesday Set.

Gov. Paul V. McNutt of Indiana will be received with military honors at A Century of Progress exposition this morning as the chief guest on Indiana day. Thousands of Indianans, including state and city officials will participate in the day's celebration.

Fair officials were hopeful that the day's attendance would compare favorably to yesterday's, which set a new record for a nonholiday Wednesday. At midnight 95,012 persons had passed through the turnstiles.

Gov. McNutt and his party will arrive aboard a yacht at the 23d street dock. He will be taken by automobile to the Court of Honor where troops will fire a 19 gun salute.

Following the reception, Gov. McNutt and his wife will tour the grounds with their 13 year old daughter, Louise. They will lunch with other Hoosier statesmen and favorite sons in the directors' room of the Administration building.

At 8 p. m. there will be a formal program in the Court of States. Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Fair, will deliver an address of welcome. Gov. McNutt will reply and a short talk by John T. McCutcheon, THE TRIBUNE cartoonist, will follow.

Children on Program.

Mayors R. O. Johnson of Gary, William Hinkle of South Bend, and Harry B. Tuthill of Michigan City, will be introduced from the stage. Musical selections by the Emerson high school band of Gary, the Arion Male chorus, the Mundy jubilee singers, and Joel Lay will complete the porgram.

Today also is Children's day, the eighth of the year. All children under 12 years will be admitted to the grounds and most of the concessions for a nickel. A program of entertainment with prizes has been arranged by officials and concessionaires.

Elmer Layden and Dick Hanley, football coaches of Notre Dame and Northwestern, will act as official starters at a series of competitive events at the Court of States at 1 p. m. There will be potato, sack, and three-legged races and a greased pole climb.

Yesterday was Electric day, sponsored by the Electric association, the Chicago section of the Illuminating Engineering society, the Chicago Lighting institute, and the Institute of Electrical Engineers.

In an address in the Hall of Science before members of the association, Edward J. Doyle, vice president of the Commonwealth Edison company, reviewed the history of electricity since the Fair of '93 and predicted the development in the electrical industry will be as great in the next 40 years as it has in the past four decades.

FRANCE PROBES FALSE REPORT OF BANK CLOSING

AURILLAC, France, July 18.—(AP)—Officials of the Culan bank of Foziers tonight were investigating the source of an erroneous announcement that the bank had closed its doors.

Everything was said to be normal at the bank, which is the oldest in this region, and played a large part in the commercial development of the department of Cantal. All persons connected with the bank profess to be mystified as to how the report originated.

The report was widely published throughout France while the bank was operating normally with its doors open.

Technicalities involved in the school board's title to properties which it will pledge as security for the loan were ironed out at the conference, Mr. Folsom said. 1,000 CHICAGO JEWS IN TRIBUTE TO POET BIALIK

More than 1,000 Chicago Jews paid tribute to Chaim Nachman Bialik, foremost poet of the Jewish race, at a memorial service held last night in the La Salle hotel. The poet died in Vienna on July 4 and yesterday, the day of his burial in Palestine, memorial services were held by Jews throughout the world.

Rabbi Solomon Goldman of Temple Anshe Emet said that the works of Bialik would last forever among the Jewish people and predicted that in two or three hundred years the Talmud would be amended to read: "There came a great defender of our people, Bialik." The poet was described by Rabbi Samuel M. Blumenfield, who presided, as one idolized by the Jewish people, and one who spoke as the old prophets.

Bialik's poems were read and sung by the Halevi Choral society. A memorial scroll was read in behalf of Chicago Jewry by Dr. Meyer Waxman, Hebrew writer and scholar.

CHILE PROVES RED REVOLT FINANCED BY ALIEN AGENTS

Differed Totally from All Latin Revolutions.

BY NORMAN INGREY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 18.—The communist revolution which caused so much innocent and rebel blood to flow for four weeks in southern Chile was not a mere effort of political "outs" to become "ins." It differed from the classic style of Latin American revolt because it was financed and directed by foreign paid agents, according to information which was verified by government officials here today.

Large scale operations were necessary to quell the latest outburst. Hundreds of civilians, including foreigners, were slain in the mining zone and joint military and naval operations were necessary to end the butchery. The Reds were shelled by heavy artillery before they surrendered. Scores of rural folks were done to death because they dared to defend their property and isolated police officers perished in unequal combat.

Reds Avoid Real Battles.

It has been abundantly proved that foreign money and propaganda were back of the mischief. Gen. Humberto Arriagada, who commanded the punitive expedition and captured 500 of the Red rabble, was indignant because the theorists and foreign financed leaders were not to be found on the battlefield. He declared to THE TRIBUNE correspondent:

"It is obvious to any one that these country workers did not plan the revolt. The majority of them could not understand the printed subversive literature thrust into their hands. They were exploited by alien influence."

The general's opinion was confirmed by the discovery in Temuco, the nearest town in the revolutionary territory, of secret arsenals and barracks, financed from Montevideo, the communist headquarters in South America. All instructions for the revolt emanated from that center. Occupants of the offices fled before the raid.

Agent Collects "Revolt Levy."

John Levia Tapia, the only leader who was caught and killed, possessed no definite nationality, but had lived well off the workers he converted to communism. Tapia collected a "proletarian revolution levy" of $1 per man per month from 3,000 rural workers in the territory assigned to him, and within a few months accumulated sufficient money to acquire a large stock of arms. A fair portion of the money also found its way into Tapia's pocket. An eyewitness account declared that he was forced by the workers to lead the fight in the south after he had planned to direct operations far from the battlefield.

Right and Center blocks in the Chilean congress have been united by the disclosures of the activities of foreign paid agents, just as they have been amazed by the facility with which subversive propaganda was smuggled into the country. A movement has been initiated which may result in a protest to Uruguay, whose government permits continued international plotting from her territory. A concerted South American protest to Montevideo is suggested.

Communism 100 Per Cent Alien.

Radicalism is a home made, largely academic product in South America. It is a time honored parliamentary and revolutionary fashion to "swing to the left" when the other side is in power. Communism, however, with its violence and bloodshed, is a 100 per cent imported product. It was first "sold" to the new world when the Mexican and Uruguayan governments, after the war, foolishly conceded a footing to the Moscow organization. There has been trouble ever since.

FIRE THREATENS WATER SUPPLY.

St. Joseph, Mo., July 18.—(AP)—The town of Stansberry, Mo., was threatened with a water shortage today as the result of a fire that destroyed the waterworks building and damaged the pumps.

World's Longest Underwater Tunnel Opened by King George

LIVERPOOL, July 18.—(AP)—The largest underwater highway of its kind in the world, the Mersey tunnel connecting Liverpool and Birkenhead, was officially opened today by King George of England.

More than half a mile longer than the Holland tunnel of New York, the tube under the Mersey river stretches 11,380 feet from the main entrance in Liverpool to the main entrance in Birkenhead.

In addition to the main tunnel, which accommodates four vehicles abreast, there are two-lane tributaries connecting the docks which give the whole undertaking a length of 15,465 feet.

Hundreds of Americans Present.

Hundreds of Americans, including many vacationing college students, swelled the crowd of natives who are celebrating the completion of the eight-year project with a seven-day pageant called "The Festival of the Seven Lamps" in which 20,000 persons are taking part.

The engineers responsible for the design of the $35,500,000 tube, chief among whom is Sir Basil Mott, concede they owe much to the experience American engineers gained on the Holland tunnel.

They waited until the American tunnel had been operated before completing their plans for the Mersey project's ventilation plant. Sir Basil decided to have all the Holland tunnel's ventilation machinery duplicated for the British project.

Six huge ventilating towers house the duplicated plant, which was designed to remove 2,500,000 cubic feet of foul air a minute.

Regards Tunnel with Awe.

"Who can reflect without awe," he asked, "on that will and power of man which in our time has created the noble bridges of the Thames, the Forth and the Sydney harbor, and has driven also tunnels such as this in which many streams of wheeled traffic may run in light and safety below the depth and turbulence of tidal waters bearing the ships of the world?

"I thank all those whose effort has achieved this miracle. I praise the imaginations that foresaw, the minds that planned, the skill that fashioned, the will that drove, and the strong arms that endured in bringing this work to completion.

"May our peoples always work together thus for the blessing of this kingdom by wise and noble uses of power that man has won from nature."

May Permit Brown Shirts to Wear Uniforms.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 18. — The Storm Troopers may soon reappear in Germany in their familiar brown uniforms.

The Essener National Zeitung today reported that Victor Lutze, who succeeded the executed Capt. Ernst Roehm as chief of staf of the Storm Troopers, fears that the rank and file of this private political army, which placed Chancellor Hitler in power, may be compromised in the eyes of the public if they fail to reappear.

Accordingly, the newspaper said, he is discussing the advisability of terminating the forced vacation of the Storm Troopers and raising the ban on the wearing of uniforms in a few days to show the public that they are not in disgrace as a body. The ban will be continued in a few districts until the extent of the "Roehm plot" is cleared up, the paper said.

Denounces "Tattle Tales."

That the Storm Troopers are in disfavor among large sections of the German population was clearly shown tonight when Lutze found it necessary to issue a proclamation "to guard the honor of the S. A. [storm troops].

"From numberless informers through letters I have perceived that there is among the German people a whole group which feels constrained to expose respectable S. A. leaders and men," the proclamation said.

"As chief of staf it is my duty to protect the honor of my upright leaders and men. Aside from the fact that as a soldier I understand tale bearing, I am not willing to be a tool of petty and vindictive persons.

"I demand, therefore, that all so impelled cease their denunciations. If this is not enough I will give further denunciations to the public prosecutor."

Hitler Youth Leader Expelled.

Chancellor Hitler's recent purge of the Nazi party also extended to Baldur von Schirach's 6,000,000 Hitler Youths, it was learned today. The Hitler Youth leader of Kiel, named Hartleben, was stripped of all his honors and expressed from the organization because "he attacked cross, altar and parents."

Workers who failed to attend the Nazi May day festivities honoring labor may be fired from their jobs, the Berlin labor court ruled today. A group of workers who lost their jobs appealed to the court on the ground that they could not attend because of "their Christian conviction and because the Bible ordered them to worship only God, and not humans." The court, in dismissing their appeal, held that the honors given Nazi leadership in the May day celebrations were not of a divine nature and that, moreover, it was the legal duty of workers to attend prescribed exercises.

The London Daily Telegraph has been prohibited in Germany until July 27. Numerous French papers, including Le Journal, Le Matin, and the weekly Grigoire, and the Hungarian daily, Pester Lloyd, were also prohibited for a fortnight. No reason was given for the government's action.

Fear Further Slaughter.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAMBURG, July 10.—[By courier and mail.]—Germany today knows only one worry: will Chancellor Hitler be strong enough to keep the reins of government in hand and to steer his course away from the sinister forces which exploited his suppression of the "Roehm conspiracy" and who now seek to slaughter their personal enemies—men and women hated by these Nazi chieftains for the last ten or twelve years.

Capt. Ernst Roehm, chief of staf of the Storm Troopers; Edmund Heines, and Hans Heyn, group leaders of the Storm Troopers, were branded as the worst bloodhounds in the excesses against foes of Naziism which shocked the world last year. Now they are dead.

Political murders, however, continue. The Roehm blood bath to end revolts and plots taught rivals for Hitler's favor how easy it is to "rub out" a conspirator.

Hitler Crazed with Grief.

Today, twelve days after the demise of Roehm, his closest friend, Hitler is crazed with grief. He has wept openly at cabinet meetings. He knows that from a soldier's and statesman's viewpoint he had to order the execution of his pal—if what he was told about him was true.

The scores of murders of innocent men and women carried out in the dark under cover of the guise of squelching a revolt makes Hitler fear trickery.

Hitler's fear for his own life, fear for the lives of all Nazi leaders, has increased since his propaganda chief, Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, exposed the immorality of some of the men executed. The Nazi chiefs fear members of the Roehm circle who escaped execution will attempt to avenge the deaths of their friends.

CHICAGOAN'S BROTHER FEARED SLAIN DURING HITLER'S NAZI PURGE

Ludwig Neumeyer, 30 years old, brother of Anton Neumeyer, 2025 Sedgwick street, is believed to be one of those killed in Chancellor Hitler's purge of the Nazi ranks on June 30, according to cable reports reaching here yesterday. Ludwig was Capt. Ernst Roehm's chauffeur.

While the dispatches, which gave a partial list of the victims, did not name Neumeyer, they contained the information that Capt. Roehm's chauffeur was one of the victims. A valet, also unnamed, was included in the list.

At the Neumeyer home on Sedgwick street Mrs. Fannie Neumeyer, 58 years old, mother of the storm trooper, was grief stricken.

Other members of the family tried to assure her that her son may not have been the victim of Hitler's wrath.

Mrs. Neumeyer, who has been here for the last two and one-half years, will have to return to Germany in the next few weeks, as the temporary stay in this country permitted by her passport will end.

"Ludwig was my only child living in Germany," she sobbed. "I have no reason now to go back to Munich."

Besides Anton, Mrs. Neumeyer has another son, Frank of Glen Ellyn, who is trying to get reports from Germany concerning his brother.

"I would like to keep mother here," he said, "but the immigration laws will not allow it. It will be a tragedy if mother has to return to find her only child there dead."

NAZIS QUIET AS AUSTRIAN BOMB ULTIMATUM ENDS

Heimwehr Given Orders to Shoot Terrorists.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

INNSBRUCK, Austria, July 18.—Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss' ultimatum, threatening the hanging of any persons found possessing explosives after noon today, expired without any apparent outbreaks on the part of the terrorists against whom it was directed.

Here in the Tyrol, supposed to be the Nazi stronghold, the day and night passed off without any happenings, explosions, or signs of resistance. Here, if any place, trouble might have been expected.

Heimwehr Warns Terrorists.

Innsbruck, the Tyrolese capital, closely in contact with the Nazis of Bavaria, showed no signs of political animation. The green uniforms of the state police appeared a little more numerous in the streets and all were well armed, but they found nothing to do. Local authorities said they had some explosives brought into them in response to the government's amnesty offer.

Posters were stuck up throughout the Tyrol at all public places warning that the heimwehr militia [home guard commanded by Vice Chancellor Prince Ernst von Starhemberg] and other special patriotic organizations were authorized to shoot any terrorists at sight.

Grenade Kills Three Children.

Dollfuss, according to what was learned tonight, will meet Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy at Riccione July 28. The newspapers report that Prince Starhemberg, who is now at the Lido, Venice, will remain in Italy to be present at the conversation between Dollfuss and Mussolini.

Three children were killed near Braunau, home town of Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany, when a hand grenade exploded. They had found it in the attic of their home and were playing with it. One employé of the Vienna State Riding school was seriously hurt tonight when a bomb exploded.

Austria Confiscates "War" Book by American Writer

VIENNA, July 18.—(AP)—The state's attorney today ordered the confiscation of H. R. Knickerbocker's book "Will War Come to Europe?" He charged the American writer with "unjustified attacks on the government of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss."

Galesburg, Ill., July 18.—[Special.]—Earl Howater, 19, of De Long was drowned while swimming in Lake Storey here today.

RUSSIA EXECUTES SIX GERMANS; ONE SON OF A BISHOP

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, July 18.—The arrest of a number of soviet Russian citizens of German nationality by the Moscow G. P. U. [secret police] on charges of promoting Nazi doctrines among Germans in Russia, which was reported by THE TRIBUNE'S Baltic bureau on March 11, has been followed by the execution of six of the prisoners. Among those executed was the son of the Lutheran Bishop Meyer of Moscow.

Accused of Spying.

The fate of another prisoner, a former German merchant of Moscow whose daughter is married to an American mining engineer who was employed by the soviet government and who at present is residing near Chicago, has not been learned. In Moscow it was announced that the executed men were charged with spying for the German government.

It is also reported that the chief of the Kiev G. P. U., Rasianov, has been arrested with fifty other G. P. U. leaders on charges of permitting merchants and speculaters to obtain foodstuffs and clothing from the special G. P. U. stores and selling them in private shops. G. P. U. stores are permitted to sell their wares only to members of this organization, who pay in special scrip.

Home of Chief Raided.

When members of the Moscow G. P. U. arrived in Kiev with special authority to control the Kiev branch, the home of Rasianov was searched and eighty carats of diamonds were discovered.

The prisoners have been transported to Moscow, where, following the usual procedure in such cases, they will be sentenced without trial. The mildest sentence the prisoners can expect is a transfer to some concentration camp in the far north.

SEXTUPLETS, IT SEEMS, ARE ONLY A PAIR OF TWINS

BUCHAREST, Rumania, July 18.—(AP)—Hopes of Rumanian scientists of observing and reporting an event eclipsing the Corbeil, Ont., quintuplets, collapsed today when they learned that the Jordas family has only twins instead of sextuplets.

A report that six babies had been born to Mrs. Joha Jordas in the village of Jonesti and that "mother and babies are doing well" caused a flurry in medical circles yesterday.

A number of medical scientists prepared to go to the village, but abandoned their plans today when it developed that a message regarding the twins which was sent to a Bucharest newspaper had been garbled to read that there were six babies instead of two.

U. S. AGENTS HERE MOBILIZE TO WIPE OUT ILLICIT RUM

Assistant United States Attorney Alfred W. Bosworth yesterday filed an action before Federal Judge William H. Holly for the destruction of 18 stills seized in raids by government agents during the last two months. The stills had a total capacity of 20,000 gallons of alcohol daily.

At the same time government agents were questioning eight prisoners seized Tuesday night in a raid on a still and mash vats found in a junk yard at 123d street and Michigan avenue.

Both developments substantiated the belief of federal authorities that Chicago has been flooded with illicit booze in the period following repeal. Prosecutor Bosworth declared that government forces are being mobilized for a determined drive to do away with the repeal bootlegger.

Found in Stolen Car Hunt.

The raid on the South Chicago liquor plant occurred when state's attorney's detectives stumbled on the still while they were searching for stolen automobiles in the junk yard. They found three mash vats in dugouts beneath three wooden garages, to which entrance was gained through a manhole in the garage floor. The vats held a total of 120,000 gallons of mash.

Also discovered in the raid was a still hidden in a wooden shed, camouflaged by automobile parts piled high about the building.

This still, federal agents said, was capable of turning out 150 gallons of illicit booze daily. Agents planned another visit to the junk yard in the belief that other stills may be located there. They said that the still discovered was not large enough to account for the large quantity of mash.

Five men and three women were seized by the raiding party and held for questioning. They identified themselves as Tony Guarniere, 3919 West Adams street; Jim Antucelli, 311 East 116th street; Andrew Fulco, 11618 Prairie avenue; Louis Lazarretto, 141 East 143d street; Francisco Cluaraniouto, 15406 Broadway, Harvey; Miss Esttra Hiz, 1410 South 50th avenue, Cicero; Mary Sola, 121 East 123d street, and Miss Gaia Romano, 12346 Michigan avenue.

Another Arrest in Still Seizure.

Bernard Galasso, 38 years old, 2840 Fillmore street, was arrested by the state highway police of the Des Plaines district last night for questioning in connection with the finding of the huge still on a farm at Higgins and Wolf roads near Des Plaines on Sunday night. Galasso will be turned over to federal agents this morning.

The still was found shortly after Policemen Fred McAllister and Gilbert Cross, both of Oak Park, had been wounded when they tried to question the occupants of three automobiles near the intersection. The policemen are at Passavant hospital, where it was reported early this morning that they are expected to recover from their wounds.

The stills against which the libel actions were filed were seized in 50 raids conducted by E. C. Yellowley, director of the alcohol tax unit. Besides the stills, Prosecutor Bosworth said, the government has also seized a quantity of illicit liquor in small lots.

Criminal charges probably will be filed against the still owners before the pending actions are closed, the prosecutor said.

Coast Guard Seeks Overdue Cruiser with Two Aboard

The coast guard early this morning was searching the lake for a 35 foot cabin cruiser with a man and woman aboard which left Michigan City yesterday afternoon bound for Belmont harbor in Chicago. The cruiser, the Petrel, is owned by Clarence Vanderveer, who is aboard with Norma Axman, both of Michigan City. Robert Brooks, 841 West 51st street, a friend of Vanderveer, notified the coast guard when the cruiser failed to arrive last night. Radio messages were sent to ships plying between Chicago and Michigan City to be on the lookout for the cruiser.

POLISH FLOODS SPREAD; PEOPLE ORDERED TO FLEE

Villages Ruined; Warsaw in Path of Water.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, July 18.—Western Galicia has been devastated by the worst floods in Poland's history, according to reports received here today. The reports estimated that at least 100 lives have been lost, most of the victims being peasants and shepherd boys attempting to rescue livestock from rivers swollen by cloudbursts in the Carpathian mountains.

Premier Leon Kozlowski, accompanied by four cabinet ministers, is now in Krakow directing the rescue work of army detachments. All boats have been commandeered. The city is full of refugees.

Rescue 500 Boy Scouts.

Two soldiers lost their lives today while assisting in the rescue of 500 Boy Scouts who had been camping at Sromowcy Nizny and who had been marooned in trees for 24 hours. Authorities were unable to ascertain whether any of the Scouts had lost their lives.

According to a cabinet minister, the damages amount to upwards of $5,000,000, and an appeal was made to all Poland to help the sufferers. Hundreds of bridges and roads have been washed out, farms have been destroyed and villages have been gutted by the unprecedented rains, which continued today.

The Polish government has notified the Ukrainian and Rumanian governments that a wall of water 24 feet high is moving down the Dniester river into the Ukraine, while the Vistula river, which is 20 feet above normal, has begun to flood villages south of Warsaw, where the floods are expected to arrive tomorrow night.

Warn Farmers to Flee.

Police are warning farmers above and below the city to evacuate to higher ground.

Reports from the Galician oil fields said a number of refineries, one belonging to the Standard Oil company, have been seriously damaged, while the Moscicki chemical works, organized and planned by President Ignatz Moscicki, also suffered.

Boys at the American Y. M. C. A.'s summer camp near the Polish mountain resort of Zakopane organized themselves into rescue squads.

Latest reports here said six soldiers lost their lives rescuing marooned peasants. The city of Tarnov is threatened. The suburbs already are flooded. The authorities also fear for the safety of numerous camping and hiking parties vacationing in the mountains.

BRITISH CABINET APPROVES BIG AIR FLEET PROJECT

LONDON, July 18.—(AP)—The finishing touches were put on Great Britain's plans to double its air force at a cabinet meeting today.

It was understood the cabinet agreed on an increase of at least 50 squadrons during a period of years. When such extension should be completed, Great Britain would have an air force equal to any nation "within striking distance."

Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the council, and the Marquis of Londonderry, secretary for aviation, are in charge of the program. They discussed the plans at great length with their colleagues, who approved the making of a complete statement on the subject in the House of Commons. Baldwin indicated he hopes to read the statement tomorrow.

Decree Annuls Limit on French Army Recruiting

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, July 18.—By a decree promulgated in today's Official Journal, an unlimited number of recruits will be accepted by the French army. This decree abrogates one of July 9, 1932, which set a limit on the number of recruits at a time when the economic crisis was driving youths, in larger numbers than were desired, to seek enlistment in the army.

U. S. PROFESSOR AND WIFE BEATEN BY TURK SOLDIERS

ISTANBUL, Turkey, July 18.—(AP)—Prof. Richard Carman Borden of New York university today described how a group of Turkish soldiers had assaulted him and his wife Sunday night and wrecked a canoe trip through Turkey.

The soldiers, after quick action by the United States embassy, are under arrest and the equipment which they stole from the Bordens has been returned.

The Bordens, making a trip down the Danube and through the Black sea toward Istanbul, had halted Sunday night at Bakirkeuy, on the shore of the Marmora outside Istanbul, and pitched their tent close to the military powder factory.

"Soldiers with bayonets took all our money, which amounted to $60, knocked me down, maltreated my wife, and kept us for seven hours in a guardroom, threatening us and not allowing us to communicate with our authorities," Prof. Borden said. "Finally they broke the rudder of our collapsible boat, pushed us aboard, and drove us out to sea with a heavy wind blowing. We ultimately regained land and made contact with the American authorities."

Blow Safe and Get $600 After Five Hours' Work

Two bandits worked five hours last night to break into the safe in the office of the Schellenberger Chevrolet Sales company at 4114 Irving Park boulevard, finally blowing it open with a charge of nitroglycerin and escaping with $600. The men drove up to the company office after it had closed early in the evening and forced Mal Griffin, colored, of 6401 St. Lawrence avenue, the night watchman, to let them in. Griffin was forced to watch while the men worked on the safe. After they left he notified the Albany Park police.

Woman Beaten and Kicked by Bandits; Loses Watch

Two Negro bandits kicked and beat Miss Maud Morris, 50 years old, 2908 Washington boulevard, last night and robbed her of a purse containing $1.75 and a watch valued at $60. Miss Morris was escorting a friend home when the bandits halted her at 47th street and Wentworth avenue.

LORD ROTHERMERE WITHDRAWS BACKING OF BRITISH FASCISTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 19 (Thursday).—A formal divorce between Sir Oswald Mosley and his one time most powerful supporter, Lord Rothermere, was pronounced today with the publication in the Daily Mail of an exchange of letters between the British Fascist leader and the newspaper magnate.

Rothermere, who for months had boosted the Fascist movement in the Daily Mail, which he owns, virtually withdrew his support following the recent events in Germany, and has now finally severed the connection.

The correspondence revealed that Mosley refused to tone down or abandon certain aspects of his policy with which Rothermere disagreed, including anti-semitism and the abolition of parliament.

SEIZE 5 YOUTHS AS MEMBERS OF CAR THEFT GANG

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Five youths were under arrest at the Maxwell street station yesterday and, according to the police, are members of a band of 20 who have stolen more than 150 automobiles during the last few months. Thirteen of the band have been arrested during the last two weeks and have been held to the grand jury. Two others are being sought.

According to Capt. John Norton, the gang also hijacked merchandise trucks. In nearly every instance, Capt. Norton said, the cars were stripped and the parts sold. A total of 25 cars have been recovered by the police.

One of those held by the police is Patsy Vermiglio, 1448 Elburn avenue, who is said to be the dealer through whom the gang disposed of their merchandise. The others held are Joseph Russo, 17 years old, 1511 Elburn avenue; Carlo Di Orio, 18 years old, 1521 Taylor street; Gasper Cascio, 18 years old, 730 South Loomis street, and Carmen Torotto, 18 years old, 916 South Laflin street.

FIRE CAUSES $20,000 DAMAGE.

The third fire in two months in the Container Corporation of America, 1003 Elston avenue, yesterday caused damage estimated at $20,000. The blaze, like the previous fires, is believed to have been started by spontaneous combustion.

NEW STAVISKY SCANDAL PERILS FRENCH CABINET

Tardieu Charges Name Was Forged on Check.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 19.—[Thursday.]—Smiling little Premier Gaston Doumergue had no sooner turned his back on Paris for a brief vacation than trouble broke out last night and observers are now predicting that he is near the end of the political truce he has been laboring for months to maintain.

The trouble started when former Premier Andre Tardieu, who is minister without portfolio in the cabinet of the national union, launched a bitter attack upon former Camille Chautemps before the parliamentary commission investigating the Stavisky scandal. It is upon Chautemps' party, the Radical Socialists, that the government depends for a majority.

Links Chautemps With Stavisky.

Tardieu charged that Chautemps, being then premier and minister of the interior, long knew of the Stavisky affair but did nothing. He also accused Chautemps of seeking to stifle the Stavisky scandal, and even of getting detectives to fake a check bearing the words "Camille Tardieu" to make it appear that he, Tardieu, was paid by the master swindler.

Just before midnight Tardieu and Chautemps were brought together before the commission, and a lively battle of words started.

Chautemps' first words were, "M. Tardieu is too clever not to know that the attitude he has adopted must imply the end of the political truce."

Then, after denying Tardieu's charges, Chautemps went off talking about the breakdown of the truce and threatening to bring it about.

Commission Members Angry.

Several Radical Socialist members of the commission felt and expressed themselves in the same manner. Chautemps charged flatly that Tardieu deliberately had sought occasions to smash the truce so as to dissolve the chamber of deputies and call new elections after slandering Radical Socialist chieftains.

Edouard Herriot, leader of the Radical Socialists in the Doumergue cabinet, was warned by telephone in Geneva of developments. He apparently took a grave view of the situation. His decision about the truce will be made known tomorrow.

The end of the truce would mean the collapse of the national union cabinet, which has been struggling against political and economic difficulties while trying to preserve the parliamentary régime. Observers believe the government will have no choice but to dissolve the chamber and call new elections. The only other time that was done, 50 years ago, a revolution nearly resulted. The Socialists' new alliance with the communists makes them undesirable bedfellows for the Radical Socialists, and no party is strong enough to govern alone.

Chautemps' Niece Suicide.

The threatened cabinet crisis was the second sensational development of the day in the Stavinsky scandal. Yesterday morning Jacqueline Chautemps, niece of Camille Chautemps, committed suicide. Friends said political attacks on the Chautemps family had preyed upon her mind.

Trouble of another sort developed early this morning when the lights on the whole right bank of Paris, or three-quarters of the city, went out suddenly at 12:50 a. m. No one knows why, but it is believed by some that communists may have done a piece of sabotage at the electric plant as retaliation for official testing of air raid sirens, which they had sworn to block. Boulevard crowds had great difficulty feeling their way home through the pitch dark streets.

Support for the sabotage theory was found in the fact that lights flickered on the left bank, which is served by a different station, but did not go out.

LENINGRAD, U. S. S. R., July 18—(AP)—Soviet aviation officials announced today that Nikolai Evdokimoff, a Red army aviator, had established a world's record by making a successful parachute jump from a height of 8,100 meters—26,575 feet. They declared the jump occupied 142 seconds and that Evdokimoff opened his parachute only 650 feet above the ground. It was the jumper's 100th leap in three years.

STATE ALLOWS MOTHER TO WORK BUT U. S. FORBIDS

NRA Cracks Down on Supporter of Two.

License "Issued by Error."

"It is apparent that, due to some error, a license was issued to Mrs. Budd by the industrial commissioner, which is being investigated," Mr. Straus said. "I have asked Assistant Attorney General E. F. Collins to instruct the industrial commissioner not to issue any further licenses, except in cases covered by the President's executive order. I have stationed two representatives in the office of the state department of labor to supervise applications for home work permits, and I have asked the industrial commissioner to take steps to have the license issued to Mrs. Budd revoked."

There was some doubt tonight whether the ideas of Mr. Straus would prevail. Before he poked into the case it was reported that the state attorney general's office had ruled that the NRA had no power under the constitution to forbid a mother to do home work to support her children. Under such a ruling the Empire state of New York would stand arrayed against the federal government, at least in the case of Mrs. Budd and her artificial flowers. The issuance of such a ruling, however, was denied by Attorney General John J. Bennett Jr.

State Permit Allowable.

What happened, according to the official version, was that an assistant attorney general, Joseph A. McLaughlin, advised the state labor department that since the new Neustein-O'Brien law did not restrict the issuance of home work permits in the artificial flower industry a state permit could be issued to home workers.

It was admitted, nevertheless, that there is another state law, known as the Shackno act, which makes provisions of interstate codes applicable in intrastate commerce if the codes are filed in this state. It is apparently under the Shackno act that Mr. Straus expects to put the Blue Eagle back in Mrs. Budd's sewing room.

But the case is not ended yet, and the courts may hear much of it in the next few days. In addition to the state mandamus, due for an airing on Friday, there is a suit in the Federal court here to have the NRA code provision declared unconstitutional. This suit is docketed for a hearing on next Tuesday. Meantime Mrs. Budd must put away her needles and let the Blue Eagle perch supreme in her home.

FOUR BOYS HELD FOR CUTTING RAIL TELEGRAPH CABLE

Four boys were held by the Englewood police last night on a charge of cutting the telegraph cable line along the right of way of the Pennsylvania railroad at 59th and Loomis streets on July 3. The cable, which consists of 130 wires, is the railroad's direct communication with New York and intervening points and while the wires were out of commission for several hours train schedules were delayed, according to Harry Flack, lieutenant of the railroad police.

Those held are Arthur Forster, 14 years old, 5924 Loomis street; Elmer Mulback, 13, 5804 South Racine avenue; William Scott, 13, 5919 Loomis street, and James Sexton, 12, 5942 South Laflin street. The boys, who were arrested at their homes, admitted selling lead from six feet of the severed cable for 50 cents to a junk yard in the neighborhood, according to the police. They will be arraigned in the Juvenile court today.

The wires are leased by the railroad from the Western Union and Postal telegraph companies. Flack said that these companies have suffered losses in business totaling nearly $500,000 since the first of the year from cut wires.

RAID LIQUOR FLAT AFTER SLUGGING OF SCHOOL GUARD

Launch Cleanup Drive; Four Seized.

Four men were seized by the police yesterday in a raid on a liquor flat at 834 Sedgwick street, near the Adams branch of the Lane Technical High school, where John Gelbert, school watchman, was beaten by hoodlums on Friday. Gelbert said he was beaten after he refused to act as "lookout" for the neighborhood liquor interests.

Gelbert, ordered to guard the school after repeated fires and vandalism had damaged school property, was reported in a critical condition at the county hospital last night, while the alleged leader of his assailants, Giuseppe Niscia, 1817 Townsend street, was free on a $50 bond.

Chicago avenue police, under Capt. Andrew Barry, conducted the raid on the Sedgwick street flat after Harry L. Yale, assistant attorney for the school board, had charged that saloons in the neighborhood had been selling liquor to students of the Adams branch.

Four Freed on Bond.

The four men arrested, Agisto Sylvester, 843 Sedgwick street, owner of the flat; William Richardson and Walter Harding, who said they live at the relief station at 64 West Austin street, and Walter Quist, 841 Sedgwick street, were released after posting bond. They are charged with operating a disorderly house and selling liquor without a license.

Attorney Yale last night declared that the move to clean up the region about the branch school must be continued.

Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli last night defended the release of Niscia on a $50 bond. "I did not fix the bond in my court," Judge Borrelli said. "It had been set by the police, as is done in misdemeanor cases. Further, Niscia was charged with assault and battery and $50 is a fair bond in such a case.

Borreli Defends $50 Bail.

"I invited the school attorneys to bring more serious charges against Niscia. If that is done the bond will be fixed at $2,000 or $3,000. The attorneys should take action."

Gelbert, who lives at 1924 Girard street, was assigned to the school guard position by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, and he was warned to leave the district soon after he started work. Failing to frighten him, saloon operators offered to pay him as "look-out" while he was pursuing his other duties. He refused this and was accused of "spying" on saloons. Last Friday, after Gelbert chased some youths for throwing stones at him, Niscia led a neighborhood mob after him. They caught Gelbert at the city pumping station at 405 West Chicago avenue and beat him so seriously that he may die.

Gelbert, a graduate of the University of Berlin and former German newspaper man, was chosen for his job from the emergency relief rolls. He was detailed three days a week at the Adams branch.

May Use Impeachment Weapon.

It was believed the Langer camp was stalling for time to bring the legislative assemblies into session in the hope that these Langer controled bodies would take some action that would supersede the Supreme court's ouster order.

Observers pointed out that the convicted executive held enough strength in the house to force impeachment proceedings against unfriendly state officials and the four Supreme court judges who ruled against him. Officials could be impeached and then suspended until their trials were completed in the senate.

Though the Langer group lacks a few votes of the two-thirds needed for a conviction, they have enough votes in the house for an impeachment. Some Langer leaders also were of the opinion that the legislature could meet on its own initiative. Consequently the legislators, most of whom are friendly to Langer, could ignore Olson's revocation order.

Prepare for Defeat.

Despite his summary tactics there were indications that Langer and his adherents expect eventual defeat and have expected it for some time.

Last Monday workmen began removing files and papers from Langer's office and those of other department officials, who expected to be ousted by Olson when he took over control of the state's affairs. Some officials removed confidential files from their offices to their homes.

Olson, who was one of the original supporters of the Nonpartisan league, Republican faction, was one of the first state officials to break with Langer. He joined the group that broke away from the chief executive's leadership. However, in the recent June primary Olson was defeated in the wave of ballots that renominated Langer and his entire slate.

7 Other Employes Fired in Check Fraud Cleanup.

Two relief fraud investigators and a stenographer were ordered discharged from the Illinois Emergency Relief organization yesterday for aiding in the defense of Louis Gillman, who recently was convicted of defrauding the commission of $2,727. At the same time it was learned that seven men employed in the mailing room at relief headquarters had been discharged in connection with the cashing of returned relief check totaling at least $500.

Those named in the discharge order yesterday are James J. Stahl, Roy A. Ferris, and Miss Marie Prefer, the stenographer. When they were subpenaed by the defense in the trial of Gillman, who formerly was head clerk at the Lawndale relief station, they failed to notify the prosecutors, Assistant State's Attorney Julius Sherwin and Assistant Attorney General Harry Muskat.

Testimony Surprises State.

The testimony of the relief employés was a surprise to the state. However, the evidence given by two co-defendants who had pleaded guilty made possible the conviction of Gillman. With Matthew Mertz, another former relief clerk, Gillman was sentenced to one year in the Bridewell and fined $500. Mrs. Mary Bartuska, a grocer, was given six months and a $500 fine.

The discharge order was drawn at the order of Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the commission, and approved by R. J. Dunham, the chairman. This action was recommended by Assistant Attorney General Harry Muskat on July 3 and again on July 6.

Concerning the discharge of seven mailing room employés from relief headquarters within the relief organization, Mr. Dunham said that three handwriting experts had been called in to endeavor to find the person responsible for cashing the stolen checks but had disagreed. While it was impossible to find the guilty individual, the certain knowledge that the guilty man was employed in one specific section of the mailing room caused officials to decide to "clean it out" entirely, resulting in the discharge of seven.

Returned Checks Intercepted.

Checks for work relief, in the amounts of about $30 each, are frequently returned to the state auditor's office at relief headquarters because of failure to find the addressee. Quite a few of these, it was found, had been intercepted in the mailing room and cashed in stores, poolrooms, and taverns. Eventually some of the intended recipients complained and the thefts were discovered.

One employé, George Bonkowski, 31 years old, a guard, was charged with forgery in connection with cashing some of the stolen checks. He was indicted on this charge and confessed that his gains totaled more than $500. Commission officials are hopeful that one of the discharged mail clerks will give information against the others on which criminal prosecution may be based.

5 DIONNE GIRLS PASS 51ST DAY OF LIFE: RECORD

CORBEIL, Ont., July 18.—(AP)—On the 51st day of their lives today the Dionne quintuplets established a record and continued to gain weight. Medical annals show only one child of a quintuplet had lived 50 days before the five daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne started their race for life May 28. The 50 day mark was set in Lisbon, Portugal, in 1866.

Dr. A. R. Dafoe, North country physician, said Yvonne and Annette, who each weigh over four pounds, were doing quite well now; that Cecile's chances of life were fair, and that Emilie and Marie, weighing less than four pounds each, while gaining steadily, were not so promising. The babies were born two months prematurely and none has yet reached normal life expectancy.

Hopes for the babies were considered fairly good generally if the local Red Cross is able to continue its work in maintaining the nursing staf and supplying medical needs.

REVISE SCHOOL CURRICULA, URGE EDUCATORS HERE

Shortened work hours have brought the need of revision of high school curricula, but teachers are neither trained nor equipped to make the change.

This was the consensus of educators at a round table discussion of the conference of administrative officers of public and private schools in Judson court at the University of Chicago last night.

William J. Bogan, Chicago board of education superintendent, presided. Dean Charles H. Judd of the school of education of the university and others called it a waste of time to drill most high school pupils in some of the scientific and foreign language subjects now in their courses.

One Illinois Student in 10 Gets Relief Aid During Year

COST OF RELIEF 57% TOO HIGH, QUIZ DISCLOSES

Waste Put at $7,000,000 for 29 Months.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Howard Hunter, district representative of the Federal Relief administration, told members of the state legislative committee investigating pay roll and other expenditures of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission yesterday that he considered administrative costs of the commission too high.

Hunter said the administrative costs should be 7 per cent of the relief expenditures instead of the 11 per cent which the Illinois commission has been paying. This would mean that the commission's cost is about 57 per cent above what it should be.

Translated into dollars, it means that during the month of June alone the commission spent at least $400,000 more on administrative expenses than Mr. Hunter considers necessary. The total expenditure in June was $10,000,000.

Auditors said last night that the administrative cost has not always been 11 per cent, but that it seldom has dropped below 10 per cent. They calculated, by a conservative estimate on the basis of Mr. Hunter's 7 per cent figure for administrative cost, that the state commission has needlessly spent about $7,000,000 during the twenty-nine months since it took over the dispensing of relief to the idle.

Mr. Hunter's assertion came as a surprise while he was appearing as a witness before the legislative committee during its afternoon hearing on the eighth floor of the relief commission building at 1319 South Michigan avenue. He made it with apparent reluctance after being pressed on the point by State Representative W. C. Chenoweth [Rep., Decatur].

Chenoweth Draws It Out.

Chenoweth informed Mr. Hunter that many of his constituents had been complaining that the administrative costs of the commission amounted to an exceptionally large percentage of all funds allocated for relief purposes.

The representative then asked: "Do you think the commission's administrative costs high?"

"The costs in Illinois now run 11.2 per cent," Hunter replied. "In most of the other states the costs run slightly under 10 per cent. As a matter of fact—basing my opinion upon what I know has been done in certain other states—the administrative costs for Illinois should be about 7 per cent instead of 10 to 11 per cent of all relief funds."

Legislators Are Startled.

The legislators sat forward on their chairs. Mr. Hunter glanced at Senator Louis O. Williams [Dem., Clinton], who is chairman of the committee, and then said: "I ask that the facts I just gave you be not made public."

Then he quickly went on: "The federal relief officials do approve of the Illinois commission. We think the commission is doing a good job."

The point was pursued no further by the legislators. Mr. Hunter related that since August, 1932, a total of $177,450,000 in federal funds has been allotted to Illinois for relief. Up to that time the state had supplied $52,000,000, making a total of $229,450,000 spent by the commission since it was established early in February, 1932.

Hear Complaints of "Clients."

Earlier in the day the legislative committee heard grievances of a number of relief "clients." At one time 200 of these persons jammed the entrance of the relief commission's building, but they were dispersed by the police after selecting spokesmen who stated the complaints of all to the committee. Most of these were requests for more than they are already receiving.

PLUMBER KICKS MAYOR TO DEATH IN BATTLE OVER A CITY PERMIT

Scott City, Kas., July 18.—(AP)—Mayor C. W. Cleecker of Scott City was knocked down and kicked to death here late today in an altercation with Joe West, a plumber.

West was placed in jail after witnesses said he and the mayor had clashed in a dispute over a plumbing permit.

The plumber was engaged in making a sewer connection for which the mayor contended no permit had been issued.

Witnesses said the mayor struck West and the latter then knocked him to the ground and kicked him in the head.

"Give me but the liberty of the press and I will give to the minister a venal house of peers. I will give him a corrupt and servile house of commons. I will give him the full swing of the patronage of office. I will give him the whole host of ministerial influence. I will give him all the power that place can confer upon him, to purchase up submission and overawe resistance; and yet, armed with the liberty of the press, I will go forth to meet him undismayed. I will attack the mighty fabric of that mightier engine. I will shake down from its height corruption and bury it beneath the ruins of the abuses it was meant to shelter."
—Richard Brinsley Sheridan.

THIS IS THE "PEACEFUL REVOLUTION."

Dr. Wirt gave testimony. The events are giving evidence and proof. A hostile senate committee could crack down on the Gary educator who said that communism was boring from within the government at Washington. The same committee would take to its heels in San Francisco, where, among other infected spots the country over, communism has come to the top.

Demonstrations seem to prove in California that the average citizen has his eyes full of the Moscow side of the New Deal, and his stomach full also. Among those viewing the scene with disgust appears to be even Gen. Hugh Johnson, although the general is noted for a loonlike ability to dive and come up in unexpected places. However, he calls the San Francisco strike insensate and predicts that a petty fraction of the people cannot terrorize the mass.

The disorders in various parts of the land now requiring the calling out of the National Guard, with the regular army on the alert, were inspired or provoked in Washington by theorists placed in administrative responsibility. Even Gen. Johnson based a campaign upon the announced plan of forcing a labor program through in spite of economic conditions or deterrents. He and Miss Perkins, the secretary of labor, encouraged the spread of the idea that private enterprise had lost its rights. The individual was under compulsion. The government would stand no nonsense. Every industrialist, every trader, every broker, and every banker would toe the mark.

The government announced, through the responsible outlet of the attorney general, that codes had taken the place of the constitution and that they limited the legal rights of the signers. Against nonsigners the government boycott was organized and the private boycott encouraged. Private rights under contract were impaired or abrogated. The currency was depreciated and the government set an example by taking a treasury department profit of over two billion dollars out of a default on obligations.

Administrators were placed above law and the courts interpreted the law to make lawless acts legal. On the agricultural side Mr. Wallace and Mr. Tugwell, readily assuming the duties of commissars of farms, put themselves not only above law but, what was more difficult, above nature.

What could give greater encouragement to people seeking to take what they did not own? If the great expectations had been realized along the lines predicted by the New Dealers there might have been tranquility even if it rested upon injustice, but tranquility seldom abides there. The great expectations were not realized. The injustices were done, causing resentment wherever they hit, and the failure of expectations completed the job. The opportunity was at hand for the soviet sickle and hammer.

No communist would take it as meaningless that the land of soviet autocracy had been recognized and taken into brotherhood by the republic of representative democracy. The communists understood what the radical New Dealers were saying and doing even if the unsuspecting average citizen did not. They could recognize their own dialectic when they found it in the text of American governmental pronouncements. The Californian who could not understand Tugwell when he spoke could understand when Harry Bridges, the Australian communist, expanded and illustrated the text.

That understanding, fortunately, is what is now coming about. The testimony of Dr. Wirt is being proved by evidence which can be grasped by the people. When San Francisco finds itself stopped in its tracks and fearful of hunger its citizens know what is going on. Gen. Johnson says it is in effect civil war. Back of that description is the fact that troops have been in the field in Minnesota, North Dakota, Ohio, Illinois, California, Wisconsin, New York, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, and elsewhere, state troopers or National Guardsmen, called into action by agricultural or industrial violence.

Langer in North Dakota is using the troops to keep himself in office against the ruling of the Supreme court. Olson in Minnesota is again using troops to keep peace in the city streets of Minneapolis. Merriam is using troops to get food to the people of San Francisco. Walter Kohler, former governor of Wisconsin, is the only person permitted to enter and leave his own plant.

The New Deal is looking at its progeny. The revolution, "if a revolution," is not a "peaceable" one. It is not the "peaceful transition" announced early in the New Deal by Gen. Johnson's legal adviser, Mr. Richberg. Gen. Johnson says it is "bloody insurrection."

AIR VERSUS HIGHWAY SAFETY.

During the eighties and nineties ingenious passenger representatives of trans-Atlantic lines in boosting foreign vacationing followed the practice of showing that fatalities to tourists who patronized their ships were far less numerous per mile of travel than to those who stayed at home and confined their excursions to railway coaches. The assertion that "the safest spot in the world may be found on the deck of an ocean liner" has been handed down to the present generation.

Now come the air lines to demonstrate from figures compiled by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce that an airway patron would require over seventy-one thousand hours, or more than eight years, of continuous flying at a cruising speed of one hundred thirty miles per hour to encounter a fatal accident in scheduled operations. Of course no account is taken of fatalities from private or stunt flying, nor army maneuvers, and there are no jay walkers to consider.

While the measure of safety demonstrated by this somewhat questionable method is still far inferior to that of the railways, a comparison with highway hazards is interesting. Figuring that each of the twenty-five million cars and trucks registered in the United States was driven an average of ten thousand miles during the year 1933, with resulting deaths to nearly thirty thousand passengers and pedestrians, it will be found that a fatal highway accident occurs every eight and one-third million miles of travel, whereas the air record is nine and one-quarter million miles of travel. That the air lines will improve their records rapidly is a foregone conclusion. Experts are at work on the problem night and day. Improvement in the highway record, however, rests with every citizen who operates a motor vehicle, who must also consider the additional hazard of accidents resulting in painful injuries, which outnumber the fatalities nearly thirty to one. It will surprise most of us to discover that the airways are able to challenge highway travel.

COL. SULTAN.

The transfer of Lieut. Col. Daniel I. Sultan to the board of engineers for harbors and rivers at Washington ends a period of two and a half years' service of that distinguished officer to this district and the larger community which is to be served by the waterway. Col. Sultan has directed the completion of the last link, that from Lockport to Utica, and his name will go down in the history of that great public work with the men who have had an important share in its accomplishment. He will leave Chicago with the regard and best wishes of all who came in contact with him in any relation.

SAFETY FIRST.

The maxim that discretion is the better part of valor is not one which the public cares to have policemen adopt in many of their encounters with the lawless, and the two officers who permitted gunmen to take their revolvers away from them, to say nothing of $2,800 in public money intrusted to their protection, seem to be misplaced. A transfer to the care of hospital patients would give them more congenial and suitable duty.

WHY THE DELAY?

Lawyers for a group of tax objectors have obtained from Judge Jarecki a continuance of their case until Aug. 2 on the plea that they needed that time to prepare arguments.

It is not easy to discover any justification for so extended a delay. Presumably the objectors knew what they were objecting to and why when they filed their suit. Certainly the local governments need all the money they are entitled to, and certainly they ought not to be subjected to any unnecessary delays in getting it. The case should have been fully prepared when it was filed months ago or it should not have been filed.

Editorial of the Day

[Kansas City Times.]

An added income and saving for wheat farmers of 230 million dollars is ascribed to the operations of the wheat control program by George Farrell, wheat administrator. The cost is estimated at less than a thin slice from each loaf of bread consumed.

It is perfectly logical for those in charge of the various AAA programs to put out all possible favorable information at hand and to overlook that which might be unfavorable.

Mr. Farrell does not indicate that the production control program designed to reduce wheat acreage 15 per cent resulted in a reduction of only 7½ per cent after an upward revision of the acreage seeded in the base period. The acreage seeded under normal conditions would have produced more than 700 million instead of less than the half billion bushels to be harvested this year. The reduction in production is due to drouth rather than to decrease from the rented acres.

Reference is made to the export of 35 million bushels from the Pacific northwest, although the department of commerce gives 18¾ million bushels as the total exports from the United States.

Bureau of census figures indicate a reduction in consumption or use of wheat in the past crop year has been close to 50 million bushels. Grain men and millers attribute this to the processing tax.

In estimating the cost of the wheat control program no allowance has been made for overhead or for the cost of collecting the processing taxes or for their distribution.

There are a great many people thoroughly familiar with the behavior of the wheat markets at home and abroad who feel that the carryover is really overestimated and that the tremendous amount of publicity given to the surplus of wheat has prevented a rise in price proportionate to the drouth damage to the crop.

The reduction program has some value. It has caused farmers not only to consider their own production but its relation to the world wheat situation. It has served as an effective crop insurance to those most unfortunately situated. It may demonstrate the value of summer fallow to some who have not heretofore appreciated it. It cannot, however, be called a success in reducing the production or increasing the price of wheat, which is now almost identical with that of a year ago.

If the best features of government control are to be retained, those in responsible positions should be most careful not to overstate benefits, understate detriments or fail to give credit to factors beyond their control which have contributed to the purpose of the act which was to reduce production and increase the price of wheat.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WASHINGTON SEEMS to be edging away ahead on this divorce epidemic. Why is this dread mania so prevalent in our best political circles? Nobody knows! There really ought to be no more cause for a loving Democratic couple to weary of each other and yearn for a permanent separation than there is for a Republican man and wife. Except that the Democrats are awfully snooty right now and the Republicans are meek and humble. They exiled Aristides from Athens because they got sick and tired of hearing what a great and good man he was. Maybe Democrats just get bored to tears by hearing the other half of the family brag all the time of what a great thing it is to be a Democrat.

A MOTORIST who injured a pedestrian in Chicago was fined when the police reported he was driving with bare feet. Anyhow, the motorist had feet; it's the drivers with one leg or no legs at all, or one arm or stone deaf or with very poor eyesight, that get my goat. Really, there ought to be some kind of law requiring drivers' licenses. Something should be done about this. Write to your congressman today.

THE REPUBLICANS SAY the New Deal has cost seven billion dollars and that congress has authorized the expenditure of twenty billion dollars more. And the Democrats come back with the statement that the New Deal cost is several billion dollars under what the Republicans say. But why quarrel about it? What's a billion dollars more or less these days? We used to talk in hundreds when we were speaking of big money, then it got up into thousands, and in the boom period we conversed only in millions. Now it's billions. When I am solicited for alms nowadays by a gentleman who states he is starving to death I hurriedly give him a dime before he says, "Gimme a billion fera cup of Mochie and Javvie."

POETS—JUST POETS!

They write me pretty jingles
About my sunny hair;
They take me walking moonlight nights
And all their thoughts I share.

They bring me reams of poems
And highbrow books to read;
They say all kinds of pretty things—
And we stay home to feed.

Each dear and soulful liar
Is my very special beau,
But I have to buy my ticket
If I want to see a show.

So, oh for a lusty lover
With a wallet full of bills,
To give this chastened maiden
A few financial thrills!

A MAN WAS ON TRIAL last week before a Chicago judge because he had attempted suicide with a pistol and failed. And yet years and years ago audiences in vaudeville theaters thought it very funny when an actor whose earnest pleading with a lady to marry him is refused puts a pistol against his head and shouts, "Then I will kill myself." He rushes off stage and a shot is heard. The girl collapse and moans how she loves him. Then the actor rushes back shouting, "I missed me! I missed me." Clutch, kisses, happiness, curtain!

HOW THE WORLD CHANGES! Oh, does it not! Years and years ago in the day of the first bicycle craze a nice girl blushed turkey red if her mamma said to her when she got on her wheel: "Myrtle, dearie, your left limb is showing above the ankle! Come back into the house at once." But nowadays, with shorts—oh, how the left limb is revealed above the ankle! And as for the right limb! Tsk, tsk, tsk!

AND WHILE RIOTS RAGE about us and the cost of hot dog sandwiches goes up and up life, after all, has its compensations. There may seem to be no solution for the economic troubles that are all about us and for the income tax that looms darkly in the near future. We try to recall Gen. Garfield's speech to the mob from the balcony of the Fifth Avenue hotel in lower Broadway, New York: "My friends, clouds and darkness are about us, but God reigns and the government at Washington still lives." It doesn't help much. But there is a remedy to dark thoughts and dismal forebodings. It's to go out to the Swiss Village at the Fair and buy a cup of chocolate soda at the little stand near by and lean over the stone coping and gently and carefully pour the chocolate down in a tiny stream into the wide open and delighted mouth of one of the bears in the bear pit. That bear gives you a look of thankfulness and gratitude that makes you walk away feeling that you're one of the most wonderful guys in the world and that life is still worth the living after all.

ELEGY.

Child, did you find a single thing in life
That made you feel a wish that you might stay?
So peacefully you're smiling now, I think
That you were rather glad to go away.

Your sojourn was so brief, you never knew
How dreams can fade, how love and hope can die.
All youth's illusions still were bright in you
And all your stars still flamed in your young sky.

Ours is the bitter loss, for we must mourn
The life that lived in your unbounded mirth.
Yours is the happier lot. The high gods knew
A thing so perfect could not live on earth.

YOLANDA.

NOT LONG AGO we got worried about the drouth and wrote to our favorite summer resort asking if they had to pour water out of the pitcher into the lake every morning to make it wet. Now we've got to find out if they have enough canned goods on hand in case the strike areas spread. Gosh! if it isn't one thing to worry about it's another!

VITAMINS AND THEIR IMPORTANCE.
Part II.

IN yesterday's article there was a general discussion of vitamins with the statement that six vitamins that are essential to nutrition are now known. Vitamins A and B were briefly described. Today we conclude with a short description of vitamins C, D, E, and G.

Vitamin C: In 1895 Theobald Smith, now of Princeton, reported the development of scurvy in guinea pigs fed on oats and bran. It was found that this condition could be remedied by the antiscurvy substance contained in tomato juice, orange and lemon juice, fresh vegetables, and milk from cows fed on green food. This scurvy preventing substance is now known as vitamin C.

Vitamin D: In 1918 Edward Mellanby showed that rickets is a deficiency disease. He found that the deficiency could be supplied by the fat of certain animals, particularly by the oil from codfish livers. This necessary substance is now called vitamin D. It was also discovered that children with rickets would recover subsequent to exposure to the sun or to ultraviolet light from an artificial source. This work was followed by that of Harry Steenbock of Wisconsin and A. F. Hess of New York, who showed that it was not necessary to irradiate the patient, as the same effect could be produced by irradiating the patient's food. A substance called ergosterol found in certain yeasts is strongly affected by ultraviolet light. This substance, after radiation, has been standardized under the name viosterol and offers a simple means of supplying vitamin D.

Vitamin E: In 1922 Herbert Evans and his co-workers found that rats reared on a synthetic diet that contained adequate quantities of certain vitamins grew normally but became sterile. The germ cells of the male were gradually destroyed and in the female the young died before birth. In attempting to compensate for this deficiency a substance called vitamin E was supplied. Vegetables contain generous quantities of vitamin E, especially green leaves and those portions of seeds that include the plant embryo. E. V. McCollum has shown that in addition vitamin E probably has a marked effect upon iron metabolism.

Vitamin G: Patients suffering from pellagra are found to have a food deficiency and the letter G has been assigned to this particular vitamin. It is known as the anti-pellagric vitamin. Meats, milk, green vegetables, tomatoes, many fruits, especially bananas, eggs, and yeast supply this vitamin. Much of our knowledge of vitamin G is due to the work of Joseph Goldberger. Further studies will be required on the character and behavior of this vitamin.

It will be noted that vitamins are essential to normal body functions and constitute a definite fifth group of foods. A word of caution should be uttered lest there be an effort at self-medication through the use of vitamin concentrates for miscellaneous dietary deficiencies. These vitamin concentrates should be taken only on the advice of a physician and in such amounts as may be prescribed. Most of us can forget vitamins as far as our diets are concerned. It is well, however, to know something of the important rôle they play in the economy of the body.

INSECT BITES.

F. Q. writes: After exposure to mosquito and black fly bites the parts bitten itch and swell. After a day or two the swelling breaks open and a watery fluid is discharged. The spots heal slowly. Treatment by several reputable doctors has been to no avail. As my work is such that it is impossible for me to avoid exposure to these insects, this condition is becoming a serious handicap.

REPLY.

Poison from insect bites no doubt affects you seriously. In most insect bites the wound is infected, as insects are carriers of bacteria. You may find the following suggestion helpful: Cover the exposed parts of your body with a thin layer of oil of citronella. Be careful not to get the material around the eyes or mouth. The odor of citronella oil is discouraging to insects. It penetrates their breathing pores with much unhappiness [to them]. Bites no doubt will occur. As soon as the swelling becomes apparent apply spirits of camphor ten or a dozen times daily. This will reduce the inflammation and should shorten its duration.

Maximum Protection.

Chicago, July 18.—[Friend of the Insured].—Can you tell me what kind of life insurance policy would give me the most protection for my family?
C. E. D.

The ordinary or whole life policy is of all policies the one which gives the maximum of permanent protection at a minimum annual cost. A comparison of rates charged for ordinary life policies with the rates required under the limited payment and endowment plans can be used as a good illustration. For example, the annual rate charged by a certain company for $1,000 ordinary life policy at age 30 would be $16.92; at age 35, $20.06; at age 40, $24.26. For a twenty payment life at the same ages, the annual premium would be $24.56, $27.82 and $31.95, while under a twenty year endowment form, which matures in twenty years, the annual premium would be $41.21, $42.09 and $43.54.

From these rates it can readily be seen that the ordinary life policy furnishes permanent protection at the smallest initial outlay, while the twenty payment and endowment forms will have certain advantages, if the insured continues to live, which may warant the payment of the higher premium. In case of early death, the insured would realize the same amount under the above policies, yet the outlay would be considerably less under the ordinary life plan than under either the twenty payment or endowment policies. Owing to its moderate annual cost, an ordinary or whole life policy brings adequate insurance protection within the reach of nearly all, and is particularly well designed for those whose responsibilities require large amounts of permanent protection.

TRIALS OF A DAIRY FARMER.

Round Lake, Ill., July 12.—I noticed with interest your editorial on the price of milk. You say in the editorial that the drouth is broken, therefore the price of milk should be reduced. It seems to us that some very short sighted person wrote that editorial.

These are the facts concerning us: We have already purchased nearly $300 worth of feed for our cattle; this does not include hay. We hope to have three cuttings of alfalfa, which should see us through. We have more land in alfalfa than any of our neighbors.

Our grain is a failure. We cut the oats and wheat for hay and are using it to feed our horses, as we have no horse hay at all. We got three small loads of oat and wheat hay which will not last until winter. Because of the failure of the grain crop there will be no straw for bedding the cattle and horses, and the purchase of straw will add greatly to our expenses. We have sowed soy beans, millet, and sudan grass to take the place of the shortage of hay and failure of grain crop. We had eleven loads of hay this year in our entire first crop, in comparison with twenty-five or twenty-six loads from two of the same three pieces in our first cutting last year. Our failure of grain will also force us to buy chicken feed.

Our neighbor on the east is in far worse condition than we. He has six children, in comparison to our two. He has already fed up his first cutting of hay; pasture will not feed cows well enough to produce normal amount of milk. He has no corn left, nor grain left either, consequently nothing to feed his horses but a small amount of hay. He is over a year behind on his rent. He has had to haul water for his live stock for over a month now. His silo blew down on June 11 and the owners are slow in making repairs because of his failure to pay his rent. This is not an extreme case nor an unusual case.

I am the daughter of a milk dealer who has been in the business both in Chicago and Round Lake for thirty years and more, so I do know something of several sides of the milk question.

There may still be an ample supply of milk, but next winter will tell whether or not the drouth is over. We who know say its effect will be felt more then as far as the milk question is concerned. We hope the corn crops will be good, or that will add much more to the already heavy burden of the milk producer. You will notice I have not mentioned chinch bugs; we are not bothered with them yet and hope we will not be, but people not far away are very discouraged over them.

I could write longer and express our grievances with the PMA, but I haven't the time.
MRS. ROY C. DAVIS.

LOSS LEADERS.

Chicago, July 13.—I am just a poor, misguided New Deal booster and therefore there must be something wrong with my logic, but your article of the 13th regarding price fixing on cigarets struck me as being even sillier than your cartoons.

You admit the large chain stores are selling cigarets at a loss [to be exact, $1.09 per 200] in order to draw customers into their stores. Certainly, there are no small tobacco merchants selling the popular brands at less than 2 packs for 25 cents, which is the new fixed price.

Yet you conclude your article: "This [price fixing] is disastrous to many small businesses whose main stock in trade has been to offer purchasers a price a shade under those quoted by large concerns with big overheads."

If it weren't for those inane cartoons and unintelligent editorials which you print I'd have to believe that it was I and not THE TRIBUNE which was doing the screwy thinking.
EDWARD C. NILSEN.

Chicago, July 15.—In today's TRIBUNE your caption writers were peculiarly offensive to Australia. One heading reads: "Yorkshire Defeats Australians." The other: "U. S. Cup Players Confident They Can Defeat British."

In the first instance Yorkshire did not defeat the Australians, as the article which followed the offensive headline plainly proved to any one who knows anything about cricket. This, of course, lets out all of your sporting staf since Joe Davis' time.

The second offense is the assumption that the U. S. Davis Cup team will meet England in the challenge round. To do so they must beat Australia. Is that so certain?
G. O. DAWE.

A VOTE OF THANKS.

Berwyn, Ill., July 12.—May I express our deep appreciation for Mr. Orr's two cartoons, "The Leaning Tower of Europe" and "Getting Redder and Redder"? There are many of us who feel grateful that the tremendous power of a newspaper cartoon should be used occasionally in behalf of the finest things in life and the significant things that are happening in the world today. And to you and Mr. Orr, your brilliant cartoonist whose cartoons are particularly pungent and telling, we think, goes a vote of thanks for his clear cut appeal in the midst of today's maelstrom of confusion, uncertainty, and political graft.

PAYMENT OF DEBT.

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 11.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Kindly advise what the statute of limitations period is regarding a debt contracted in Michigan where one leaves for England or for some other foreign country. Suppose the debt is for funeral expenses or doctor's bill. There were no judgments taken. The person owing is my son-in-law, who married my daughter some years ago. My daughter died three years ago and her husband remarried, leaving these bills unpaid.
F. W. M.

As we understand it, your question relates to the right of an undertaker and a doctor to collect from your daughter's estate. You give us no facts as to your having assumed any personal liability, nor as to your having any of the assets of the estate in your possession.

In general, the rights of a creditor are barred within one year if the estate is probated. If these observations do not answer the questions you have in mind we suggest that you have some other person write a clear statement of the facts, your relationship to the facts, and the questions that you intend to ask.

U. S. JUDGE HALTS NRA ORDER FOR RAISE IN WAGES

Big Clothing Concern Wins in Baltimore.

Baltimore, Md., July 18.—(AP)—United States District Judge W. Calvin Chesnut today signed an order temporarily restraining NRA and code officials from attempting to force L. Greif & Brother, Inc., called the second largest clothing manufacturer in this country, to pay wages above the clothing code minimum.

The order also restrains Gen. Hugh S. Johnson and NRA officials from depriving the company of its Blue Eagle as they have threatened to do unless the company pays in excess of $100,000 back wages the code authority considers due.

Called New Attack on NRA.

Leonard Weinberg, attorney for the Greif concern, said the case represented the first attack on the constitutionality of a code authority's fixing wages above the prescribed code minimum.

Due to the limited jurisdiction of the court the order is not binding on those defendants who do not come into Maryland and therefore cannot be served with a summons. They include Johnson, Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, and members of the advisory council of the compliance division of the NRA.

Consequently Greif's attorneys admitted that the order would not legally prohibit the NRA officials from taking away the company's Blue Eagle tomorrow. But they hope its "moral" effect will be to estop such action until after the case is heard on its merits before Judge W. C. Coleman here next Tuesday.

Fears Blow to Codes.

District Attorney Bernard J. Flynn, named a defendant, asked Judge Chesnut not to sign the order because the "publicity would be very detrimental to the whole setup."

Curley C. Hoffpauir of the litigation division of the NRA said he would try to persuade NRA officials in Washington to postpone action against the Greif concern if the judge would not sign the order.

Hoffpauir telephoned to Washington, and NRA authorities there did agree to postpone action against the concern, according to Weinberg, if the agreement be given no publicity. To that Weinberg would not agree, and the judge went ahead with the order.

Operates 11 Plants.

The Greif company operates 11 plants in Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Virginia. In its complaint it stated that all its employés received as much as the men's clothing code minimum, $14.40 a week, but that the company had declined to pay the higher than minimum wages ordered for certain employés, and that it did not consider itself legally bound to pay those employés the back pay the code authority ordered.

HELEN WEARIES OF WEDLOCK IN JUST TWO HOURS

It took Mrs. Helen Weck, 35 years old, just two hours to get tired of married life, according to her bill for separate maintenance, which was filed in the Circuit court yesterday by Attorney Norman Becker.

At 10 a. m. last May 26 she and Herbert Weck, a telegraph operator, were married in Waukegan. At 11:30 a. m. they were back home at 6422 North Francisco avenue. At 11:45 a. m. Herbert, the bill says, began to get abusive and struck her. By noon she told him she was through with marriage, and he left. Attorney Becker obtained an injunction from Judge Walter J. La Buy restraining Weck from disposing of money he has in a bank.

WALLACE AVERS FOREIGN TRADING MUST BE REVIVED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 18.—[Special.]—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, it appeared today, has concluded that the final answer to the farm problem lies in the recapture of international markets rather than in a deliberate curtailment of agricultural production in this country.

A substantial revival of our foreign trade—particularly of imports—Mr. Wallace declared, is the only method through which farm prices can be boosted to a permanent "parity" level. The adjustment programs of the AAA, with their benefit payments and processing taxes, he indicated, are to be considered only temporary expedients until new foreign outlets for agricultural produce can be opened.

Says It's Only Solution.

Until imports into this country have been increased by upwards of 500 million dollars a year, the secretary stated, farm prices can not be established with any degree of permanency at the "parity" level, which is the goal of the AAA production control programs now in effect. The only solution to the problem of boosting farm income, Mr. Wallace declared emphatically, is to obtain for the farmer his lost markets abroad.

"Does this mean that America has chosen," asked a reporter with reference to the secretary's now famous "America must choose" pronouncement.

"Well, we are getting more wisdom every day with which to choose," Mr. Wallace responded, indicating that he and the other planners of the AAA have definitly abandoned any idea of retaining production adjustment in its present form as a long time policy.

"Does it mean that you now lean toward foreign trade rather than curtailment of the farm plant as the solution of the agricultural problem?" the reporter persisted.

Declines Definite Answer.

"You must remember," Wallace replied, "that this is not so much a planning administration as it is an experimental administration. We have been trying several methods of approach to the problem, and I don't mean to say that we've either adopted or rejected any one of them indefinitly."

Production control through benefit payments, he stated, must continue until such time as our imports have gained sufficiently to provide foreign purchasing power for our surplus farm products. Processing taxes likewise must continue in effect as long as it remains necessary to augment farm income with cash benefit money from the government, he said.

Charles Curtis Reaches Chicago; Goes to Races

Evidencing his fondness for horses, Charles Curtis, former vice president of the United States, went almost directly to the Arlington Park track when he arrived in Chicago yesterday. He was met by his son, Harry K. Curtis.

It's pardonable . . . and thoroughly natural . . . for one's chin to tilt a trifle skyward as one's spirits rise to the thrill of doing things again in the perfect manner. Take this matter of crossing the Atlantic for instance . . . actually there is no substitute for a First Class passage. "Even your best friends WILL tell you."

Incidentally, First Class staterooms with private bath in the Berengaria, Majestic, Aquitania, or Olympic are now available for as little as $219. Outside staterooms without private bath are available for as little as $211. No wonder the trend is definitely back to Cunard White Star First Class again! There is no substitute for a First Class Ticket.

EUROPEAN TRAVEL COSTS ARE DOWN!

Compared to 1926, the "year of normalcy", First Class steamship rates are reduced by as much as 40%. Railroad fares average 30% less. Hotel rate reductions are down an average of 36%. Send for folder which proves European Travel cheaper in 1934, despite foreign exchange differentials.

COURTNEY WARNS COUNTY VILLAGES ON SPEED TRAPS

BY HAL FOUST.

"I've warned the magistrates and constabularies of these small municipalities that I won't tolerate any wholesale arrests of motorists for profit," said Mr. Courtney. "Any who have not heeded this warning will be prosecuted."

The investigation is aimed particularly at an old offender, the village of Dixmoor, formerly known as Specialville, in the south end of Cook county. In the Voice of the People on THE TRIBUNE's editorial page yesterday was published a letter from J. S. Carlin of Racine, Pa., telling of having been fined $5 with other out of state motorists for having overlooked a stop sign at 147th street and Western avenue while en route to the Fair.

Easy to Overlook Sign.

This stop sign is one that might easily be overlooked, because its location is inconsistent with the flow of trafic. It halts the heavy movement of cars in Western avenue for the benefit of a comparatively light flow in 147th street.

The letter, possibly with justification, referred to the arrest and conviction as a racket, and it mentioned that the fine was imposed in the village of Posen. This revealed a peculiar situation in law enforcement in the small villages bordering South Western avenue.

Mr. Carlin, it was disclosed, was arrested in Dixmoor, a town of 2,100 population on the east side of Western avenue, just across the highway from Posen. Dixmoor, ruled by the much publicized Mayor Charlie Special, has a police magistrate of its own, Charles Rajal, but the Dixmoor police, specialising on Western avenue trafic, take their cases to F. Ralph Grzadzinski, the magistrate in Posen. This explains the erroneous impression of the writer of the letter to the Voice of the People that he had been arrested by a Posen policeman.

Many Arrests in Decade.

The record of Dixmoor, alias Specialville, in zealous enforcement of the motor vehicle code covers almost a decade. About ten years ago Joseph W. Victor of Wisconsin, a traveling representative for the American Extension university, obtained a $25,000 judgment for malicious prosecution against Frank Mech Jr., who was then the Specialville judge.

In 1930 a state's attorney investigation disclosed that the Dixmoor police were arresting between 150 and 200 motorists a month for technical violations.

"We'll continue to make arrests," Mayor Special told a reporter last night.

He was asked for a list of persons who have been arrested on trafic charges in the last thirty days, and said his police do not keep any records.

By Bob Becker

July 18, 1934.

BINKS, the little fox terrier on the experimental farm, became involved in an excavating job yesterday and before he got through with his project he had to call for help. Binks couldn't see the joke, but Louis Thurow, his master, still is laughing about the dog's predicament.

This little terrier always is up to something. He's the little comedian here on the farm, constantly getting into some scrape or other. Yesterday the crafty old woodchuck that has been tantalizing Binks by whistling at him and then scampering into his burrow to safety insulted Binks again. The terrier decided that he would just dig right down (to China if necessary) and rout the woodchuck so that there would be no more trouble with him. Binks has killed several groundhogs this season in free for all fights and he is looking for more scraps all the time.

The little terrier made the dirt fly fast and furious. Soon his sleek white coat was covered with earth. Even his mouth got full of dirt as his paws worked furiously to open up the den of the woodchuck. Slowly Binks began to disappear from sight. He was going down, down to reach the woodchuck.

Then poor Binks found himself in trouble. In his haste to get at the groundhog he had been careless about making the hole big enough for free movement. When he wanted to come back out of the hole for a few minutes' rest the badly soiled terrier found he couldn't make it.

He was trapped. Then sounded the most agonizing calls for help that any terrier ever broadcast. Thurow heard the muffled calls from a field near by and came to the rescue. It took him a minute or two to dig out enough earth so that Binks could back up and come out for air.

Binks looked pretty sheepish after executing this tactical blunder in his woodchuck campaign and he didn't press it any further.

The 117 Herefords continue to mow down the clover in their new pasture on quite regular "eating shifts." The boys were out in this pasture yesterday to see how it is standing up under the attacks of the herd. They were pleased to note that there still is a lot of grazing left for the "white faces." Of course the recent showers have done a great deal to keep this pasture going.

The Harbin lespedeza, as well as the Korean variety, growing in test plots here on the farm have been given a good "grooming" during the last few days, with the result that the stand looks fine. The planting of these two varieties has been coming along in great style during the last ten days because of showers. Clarence remarked yesterday that the dwarf Essex rape is big enough to be used now for pasturage.

Sleezer found the nest of a hen pheasant yesterday. Eight eggs are in the nest, which is quite out in the open in one of the south fields.

Clarence is using a flushing bar on the mowing machines this season so that the blades won't kill any nesting birds. This is a definite aid toward increasing bird life on the farm.

ARRAIGN 4 TODAY ON ZUKOR JEWEL THEFT CHARGES

James Weinberg, his wife, Eula; Robert Vestal, and his wife, Helen, were formally charged with the theft of Mrs. Adolph Zukor's jewels yesterday and will be arraigned in the Felony court today on charges of burglary and receiving stolen property. The jewels, valued at $65,200, were stolen from Mrs. Zukor's suite in the Blackstone hotel on June 13 last. All have been recovered.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty, who will prosecute the four in court, said yesterday that he will ask for a continuance in order to allow Mrs. Zukor, who is now in Los Angeles, sufficient time to come here to prosecute.

ROAD CONTRACTS NOT THROWN OUT, WHEALAN SAYS

John M. Bransfield, paving contractor, who is under indictment in connection with State's Attorney Courtney's investigation of the Trucking and Transportation exchange [T-N-T] was notified yesterday by Emmett Whealan, president of the county board, that his contracts for three county paving jobs had not been ordered thrown out at Tuesday's meeting of the board. The erroneous report arose from confused procedure at the meeting, Mr. Whealan said.

The board voted to reject the bids and readvertise for others on a contract for which the Jaicks Brothers Construction company was low bidder. This action was at the insistence of Mr. Courtney, who said the company had failed to coöperate with him in his drive against the T-N-T.

Action on a motion to reconsider the Bransfield contracts was deferred by the board at the order of Mr. Whealan pending the outcome of a mandamus proceeding brought by Bransfield against the state of Illinois because he has been refused bid sheets on state contracts since the T-N-T investigation.

POLICE IGNORE TRUCK LENGTHS, SURVEY SHOWS

BY HAL FOUST.

Trucks too long for safety and too long to meet the requirements of the state law are plying the streets of Chicago without interference by the police. THE TRIBUNE roadster in a few hours' drive yesterday found three flagrant violations of the statute, which limits a single truck unit to 35 feet and any combination of truck and tailer to 40 feet.

No one in the Chicago police department is assigned to enforce the regulations governing truck dimensions. The printed arrest forms carried by patrolmen do not provide for this violation of the motor vehicle code. The city bureau of streets operates strings of dump carts that do not comply with the law.

Hazard of Long Carriers.

Even the legal lengths of freighters are hazardous in heavy trafic. The big carriers are difficult to pass on busy streets, and they cannot turn at narrow intersections without intruding upon the wrong side of the pavement. The hazard increases with the length.

At Ewing avenue and 95th street THE TRIBUNE roadster, with the assistance of Policeman Michael Carroll, flagged a truck and trailer that were virtually a tank train for size. A tape measure showed the total length as 55 feet—15 feet over the legal maximum.

The freighter was one of a dozen operated by Sprout & Davis, Inc., engaged in regular hauls of gasoline between Whiting refineries and Chicago bulk stations. No Illinois license plate or Chicago wheel tax sticker was carried. The Indiana license number was 2518.

Another Violation Found.

A few minutes later another truck and trailer combination owned by Sprout & Davis, Inc., was halted, and it measured 44 feet 3 inches—4 feet 3 inches over the legal maximum. Its license plate, also an Indiana one, was numbered 1856.

A tractor and semi-trailer of the Willett company, one of the largest cartage companies in Chicago, was stopped in Indianapolis boulevard. The tape showed it was 1 foot 10 inches over the 35 foot limit permitted for this type of carrier.

Other truck and other trailer combinations that appeared to be too long were measured and found to be exactly the maximum permitted under the motor vehicle code. The driver of one of these, a Texaco gasoline truck with Illinois license 1298X, said his vehicle had been cut down a foot after being stopped by state police. The state police enforce the truck dimensions laws on the rural highways, but not in municipalities.

FORMER DIVINITY STUDENT TO GET HEARING TODAY

Marvin Pedersen, 26 years old, former divinity student, who was arrested by Policeman William Binder of the North Robey station on the charge that he was too friendly with the latter's wife, will be arraigned in the Shakespeare court today on a disorderly charge.

Pedersen, former football player at St. Olaf's college, Red Wing, Minn., where he studied for the Lutheran ministry, was arrested Tuesday by Binder on a farm near Baker, Ill., 18 miles south of Ottawa, where he was employed as a farm hand. Lew Wold, the owner of the farm, thought that Pedersen was being kidnaped and notified Sherif E. J. Welter.

Capt. Luke Garrick, the policeman's superior officer, said that he would await the outcome of the court case before he would make any recommendation as to Binder's conduct in making an arrest out of the city.

in which those handicapped by venereal diseases can't win!

Don't allow gonorrhea or syphilis to make you an "also ran," but go today to a good physician or clinic for proper treatment

Race horses that are out of condition are always out of the money too. And what's true of horses is also true of men, for life is a race in which the physically and mentally unfit can't possibly keep pace with the healthy.

There are two diseases that together do more than any others to make "also rans" of men. They are gonorrhea and syphilis. Between them they are responsible for a tremendous amount of permanent disability, as well as for premature deaths to an estimated number of 300,000 yearly!

Yet this enormous loss of life and health is largely avoidable, for gonorrhea and syphilis can be cured if promptly, properly and persistently treated. Even the most advanced cases of syphilis can often be arrested and the sufferer assured many more years of useful life.

Of the two infections, gonorrhea yields the most quickly to proper treatment. If promptly attended to by a good physician or clinic, its germs can usually be eliminated from the system in a comparatively few weeks' time. Yet, if neglected or aggravated by self treatment, it may lead to crippling rheumatism, sterility, or serious prostate, bladder and other disorders.

Syphilis, on the other hand, is more difficult to cure, although it is possible to eradicate it within a year if treatment is begun soon after infection. It is highly disastrous to neglect this disease, for unless put under treatment in its earlier stages it may in time be the cause of insanity, blindness, heart disease, deafness, locomotor ataxia, apoplexy, paralysis, ulcers of the skin, or bone destruction!

No syphilitic infection should be considered hopeless, however, for during recent years great strides have been made in treating supposedly incurable cases. In medical records are numerous instances of men who, after becoming insane from syphilis, were benefited to such an extent that they were able to return to gainful employment.

So don't permit a venereal disease to wreck your health and put you out of the running in life's race for success. Go to your family doctor or a reliable clinic and continue treatment faithfully until you are well again. Even though you have no cause to suspect infection, an examination for venereal diseases which includes a blood test is desirable for the reason that syphilis can be acquired innocently and thus exist for years without your knowledge.

Founded by public-spirited citizens NOT FOR PROFIT, the Public Health Institute specializes in the treatment of venereal diseases at remarkably low fees. An examination for gonorrhea and syphilis, including blood and other tests, costs only $3.00, while some treatments for syphilis cost as little as $1.00 and some of those for gonorrhea still less. Even persons pressed for funds can arrange to be treated.

NOTE: The Public Health Institute has no connection with any other Chicago health or medical institute, and should not be confused with those operated for personal gain!

ASSAIL AUTOISTS WHO DROP DRUNK DRIVING CHARGES

Practice Blocks Safety Drive, Say Police.

Motorists who withhold prosecution of drunken drivers upon payment of civil damages were assailed yesterday by Lieut. David Flynn, chief of the police trafic division. They present a serious obstacle to the drive, now under way, to make Chicago's streets safe, he added.

Lieut. Flynn had his staf make an investigation of all of the charges of driving while intoxicated which were dropped in the Municipal court last month. It was found that 24 cases had been dismissed because no one appeared against the defendants.

In 22 of these cases, civilians were complainants. The two policemen who signed complaints which were dismissed for want of prosecution, have been ordered by Capt. Ira J. McDowell, chief of the uniformed force, to account for their actions.

Use Charge as "Lever."

"Very frequently a motorist signs a complaint charging driving while intoxicated following an accident," said Lieut. Flynn, "and in a majority of the cases the charge is justified and the offender should be punished. But the complainant too often uses the charge as a lever to collect civil damages, and then fails to appear in the criminal case."

As a remedy for this Lieut. Flynn suggested that district police take statements, sworn if possible, from complainants. If they did not appear later to press the charge they could be subpenaed and charged with perjury if they told a different story, he said.

In the Safety court, where such charges are tried now Judge Edward S. Scheffler has established the rule that payment of civil damage will not excuse an intoxicated driver from criminal charges. Witnesses who fail to appear in such cases will be subpenaed, he said.

Enforcement Demanded.

Enforcement of the laws against trafic violators is more important as a safety measure than education of the public, Col. A. A. Sprague declared yesterday at a meeting of the "Keep Chicago Safe" committee, held in Mayor Kelly's office. He urged an intensive police campaign as a preliminary measure to make educational measures sink home.

Police Commissioner Allman then reminded the meeting that enforcement requires more than mere arrests. For a time, he disclosed, he contemplated assigning his motorcycle trafic police to other duties because of the low percentage of convictions resulting from their arrests.

Clerk Joseph L. Gill of the Municipal court added that 65 per cent of those who received trafic summonses in the first six months of 1934 ignored them, and that only 14 per cent of the trafic violators arrested were punished.

Must Stop Death Toll.

"Something mu be done to stop this death toll," warned Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, "or the legislature will be asked to pass laws so drastic as to deny commercial institutions the profitable use of automobiles and private families their use for pleasure.

The meeting, which was for organization purposes, resulted in the appointment by Mayor Kelly of ten chairmen of subcommittees to work in the safety drive. They were: Legislation, Elmer T. Stevens; press, Fred J. Ashley; motion pictures, Leo Spitz; enforcement, Mr. Gill; schools and churches, William J. Bogan, and the Rev. D. F. Cunningham; speakers bureau, Wallace Clark; radio, E. N. Nockels; education and drivers' schools, Mr. Hayes; billboards and bulletins, Barnet Hodes; physical improvements, Ald. John A. Massen [48th].

Later in the day, Lieut. Flynn announced the death toll in Chicago since the safety drive opened has been 12, as against 25 in the same period last year. Until the drive started, the 1934 motor death toll was approximately 37 per cent above that for the same period a year ago. Also, Lieut. Flynn stated, trafic arrests since the drive started have been approximately twice what they were in the same period in 1933.

Waiter Sent to Prison for Slaying Chicago Man

Warsaw, Ind., July 18.—(AP)—Lloyd Ketring, 46, of Syracuse, Ind., was sentenced to serve from 2 to 21 years in prison today when he pleaded guilty to a charge of killing William Joseph Meskell, 6, of Chicago. Meskell, who had been employed at a Lake Wawasee hotel as a waiter, died Monday night of injuries inflicted by Ketring, who was acting as peacemaker in a fight.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Voice of the People

A motorist was arrested twice in five hours yesterday on charges of driving while intoxicated and will be arraigned today in the new Safety court. He gave his name as Arthur De Garro, 45 years old, 4507 West 45th place.

He was first seized by Policemen William Whitwell and Joseph O'Connor at 11 o'clock yesterday morning on complaint of Frank Ahern, 3714 Lake Park avenue, who said De Garro had run into his parked car in front of 4235 Cottage Grove avenue. Taken to the Hyde Park station, De Garro was released on bond an hour later.

At 4 p. m. three motorists stopped at 43d street and Drexel boulevard and told South Park Policeman Patrick Burke that another driver was "wild." It was De Garro. He was arrested by Burke and again taken to the Hyde Park station, where he was locked up.

Police said the license on his car was issued to Arthur De Garmo at the Hines Memorial hospital. Hospital attachés said that Arthur De Garmo, living at 7701 West 45th place, Lyons, is property officer at the hospital.

Those injured are Peter Speaker, who was unconscious at the Martha Washington hospital last night and unable to give his address; Carl Johnson, 1829 Farragut avenue; and Joseph Friebels, 2061 North Leavitt street.

THREE FATALLY HURT IN CRASHES; BABY LOSES LIFE

Woman Injured; Driver Held for Inquest.

Paul Charles Black, 4½ months old, was fatally injured yesterday when the car in which he and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Black, 6819 Prairie avenue, were riding was struck by another machine at Roosevelt and Mannheim roads, Westchester. The infant, whose skull was fractured, died at the Westlake hospital.

The parents and Charles Lawrence, 5211 South Green street, driver of the car, suffered only minor scratches. Lawrence had stopped at the intersection, according to police, when his car was struck by one driven by Mrs. Myrtle Soules, 40, of 12 North River street, Batavia. She was held pending the inquest today.

Husband Killed; Wife Hurt.

William E. Edmonson, 37 years old, 6130 St. Lawrence avenue, was fatally injured, and his wife, Pauline, 21 years old, was seriously cut last night when their car was struck by another at 93d and May streets.

Edmonson, a salesman employed by the Atlantic Brewing company, 2336 North Bosworth street, was thrown out of his machine. He died of a fractured skull at the Little Company of Mary hospital. Mrs. Edmonson was suffering from a fractured hand and severe cuts.

Edward Hepler, 45 years old, 9301 South Racine avenue, was driving north in May street when his car collided with that of Edmonson. Police held Hepler for the inquest today.

These deaths and one other brought the Cook county motor toll since Jan. 1 to 650. The other victim:

John Nazrad, 35, 1513 Elston avenue, fatally injured when he alighted from a west bound North avenue street car at McHenry street. Police held Louis Tamesello, 5236 Bloomingdale road, who, they said, drove his truck on left side of the street car, running down Nazrad, who was attempting to cross the street.

71 Year Old South Bend Woman Tries Suicide

South Bend, Ind., July 18.—[Special.]—An aged woman was recovering in St. Joseph hospital here today after changing her mind about committing suicide. Mrs. Margaret Szabo, 71, waded into St. Joseph river to end her life. Her splashings after she reached deep water, however, attracted Martin Hoger, who was fishing near by. He swam out and dragged her to the bank.

WOMAN, 2 MEN FOUND SLAIN IN CABIN MYSTERY

St. Joseph, Mo., July 18.—[Special.]—What authorities believe a double murder and suicide was revealed here today with the deaths of C. C. Smith, about 58, chief brand inspector of the St. Joseph stock yards; his wife, 50, and David McCoy, about 54, in a triple shooting this morning in a Big Lake cabin near Bigelow.

The trio had rented the two room cabin last Friday from Milton Easter, who lives close by.

The only clews police had late today were offered by Easter, who told authorities that early this morning his family heard four shots. A short time later, Easter said, McCoy came to his cabin and told him that Smith had just slain his wife and himself.

McCoy asked Easter to go back with him to the scene of the tragedy, the latter told officers, but the cabin proprietor insisted upon calling the authorities.

Easter said that McCoy left alone to walk back to the rented cabin and in a few minutes another shot was heard. Officers found all three of the cabin's occupants dead.

Late today police were investigating Smith's business connections. It was learned that McCoy was a candidate for sherif of Buchanan county, Missouri, in 1932.

SCIENCE LINKS MEN TO PLANTS BY NOVEL TESTS

Spectroscope Bares Blood Cells' Basis.

Cambridge, Mass., July 18.—(AP)—A chance to use the spectroscope to read in simple terms the ordinarily complicated puzzle of biological, or living substances, was demonstrated to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology spectroscopy conference today.

One of the great riddles of medical science is the extreme complexity of the biological units which by their balance produce health or illness. One of these units, porphyrin, was shown by Dr. Calvin B. Coulter of Columbia university, to be subject to analysis by the spectroscope with a sharpness, precision, and simplicity which usually apply mostly to the non-living substances like metals.

Base of Red Blood Cells.

Porphyrin is the base of red blood cells. It is also the base of the green coloring matter of plants, chlorophyl, which they use to synthesize plant food from the energy of sunlight.

The two porphyrins differ mainly in that the blood one is combined with iron, the green plant substance with magnesium. Because of that some scientists have speculated on the possibility that far back in evolution the green of the plants and the blood of man originated from the same source. They have said this may be a link between plants and animals.

Links Man to Plants.

Dr. Coulter has found further evidence of this kinship of plants and men in porphyrin which he extracts from cytochrome, a pink pigment existing in the cells of virtually all those living things which use oxygen. This cytochrome he finds is combined with magnesium, so that a porphyrin-magnesium combination is not an exclusive patent of the chlorophyl green plants but belongs also to the red-blooded races.

The porphyrin, which he places under the light beams of his spectroscope, Dr. Coulter obtains from bacteria. He dissolved it out of their cytochrome, which they use for obtaining oxygen, somewhat as man uses his lungs to get oxygen.

Prior to that Worthington was president of the Chicago and Alton railroad, receiver of the Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad, vice president of the Harriman lines at Porland, assistant director of the Harriman lines at Chicago, superintendent of the Southern Pacific company's coast lines, and assistant to the general manager of the Southern Pacific company at San Francisco.

He was born in Sacramento.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Phillips H. Lord, the one time Seth Parker of radio, is giving NBC executives a headache. The former Sunday night hymn singer, who started on a so-called cruise around the world a year ago in his schooner, is now in Jamaica making a movie, starring himself as a shipwrecked radio singer.

Grass skirted sorceresses and south sea isle antics in the picture, with microphones prominently labeled "NBC" in the foreground of sequences, are said to be giving the chain that sponsored him in the Jonesport religious series a bad case of jitters. John Royal, vice president of the network, is reported on his way to Kingston in an effort to help Lord see the light. Lord still has a contract with NBC which the net would like to have back. Also NBC wants the equipment lent him.

Barry Devine, baritone, singing with Ted Weems from the Palmer house, will be heard in a sponsored program beginning Sunday at 5:15 p. m. over W-G-N. The former Boston choir boy and NBC staf singer will be supported by the W-G-N orchestra. At 11 a. m. Tuesdays and Thursdays he will be heard with an organist or pianist.

Tony Cabooch, Italian dialect comedian, has been engaged to appear with Paul Whiteman on his sponsored Music Hall program and also his Saturday night revues over NBC. Tony, whose real name is Chester Gruber, is best known for his character "Poosh-em-up" Tony the Barber. He will leave Chicago to join the Whiteman circus in New York the middle of August.

At the request of Amos 'n' Andy, the Chicago theater has torn up the contract with the comedians calling for an appearance there in August. The radio comedians set forth, according to theater executives, that at the time the contract was drawn the radio pair did not know that they would be paid during their vacation by their radio sponsor.

With a commercial contract as a possible prize, more than 350 girls, hopeful of appearing with Dick Powell, the movie actor, in the forthcoming CBS "Hollywood Hotel," have been auditioned during the last week at Chicago CBS studios. Local auditions will end next Wednesday. Then there will be regional tests, and finally a national audition for the finalists in New York City on Aug. 13.

Youngsters with radio aspirations will get their chance in auditions at Newspaper row at the Fair at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Lucy Gilman, NBC child actress, will be on hand during the tryouts to give assistance. Lucy will be guest of honor at the Fair children's day exercises today along with Frank Buck.

Glen Gray and his Casa Loma orchestra will open the Hall of Fame's new summer series next Sunday. They will play from the Glen Island Casino. . . . Willem Van Hoogstraaten, conductor of the Portland Symphony orchestra, will direct the Chicago Symphony orchestra in its broadcasts next week from the Fair.

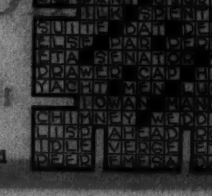
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



OPEN INQUIRY ON SLAYING OF GIRL KILLER IN ESCAPE

Shot Riddled Bush Taken Into Juryroom.

Little Rock, Ark., July 18.—(AP)—A shot-riddled bush beside which Helen Spence Eaton, escaped convict was shot to death by a trusty convict guard a week ago was brought before a grand jury today and with it a souvenir hunter who had clipped a twig from it.

The bush and the location of the empty shotgun shell which Frank Martin, the guard, dropped after, he said, he fired on the brunette slayer of two men as she attempted to draw a pistol, were regarded as evidence having an important bearing on Martin's story of the killing.

Quiz on System Starts.

The guard has been charged with murder and the grand jury met in special session to consider an indictment and to inquire generally into conditions in Arkansas' penal system which in the last 18 months have resulted in the slaying by trusty guards of 14 convicts who attempted to escape.

The 32-year-old girl convict was slain last Wednesday 24 hours after she had made her fifth escape from the women's prison farm at Jacksonville and left a note saying she would never be taken alive. She was armed with a pistol she had stolen.

Appearing before the investigating body was B. H. George, automobile salesman, who clipped a twig from the bush which shared a blaze of gunfire that killed the Eaton girl. He found holes in the leaves and believed they were from buckshot from Martin's gun. He took the twig as a souvenir.

Hit Behind the Ear.

The shotgun charge that killed the Eaton girl struck her behind the ear. Martin at the inquest claimed he fired in self-defense when Helen failed to heed his command to halt and instead half-turned around as she reached for the weapon in her blouse.

Among the witnesses who testified today were W. N. Trulock, who resigned as chairman of the state penal board when the board refused to discharge A. G. Stedman as penal superintendent, Capt. H. S. De Armand and Lee Henee, former wardens at Tucker prison farm, and Walter Hels of Texarkana, chairman of the penal board.

Helen killed two men, Jack Worls, the alleged slayer of her father, Cicero Spence, a riverman, and Jim Bohots, a restaurant operator and an unwelcome suitor.

CHILDREN GIVE MOVIE BENEFIT FOR ICE FUND

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

A group of smiling youngsters came to THE TRIBUNE yesterday and handed bills, silver, and pennies, amounting to $11.77, to the cashier. They announced they had earned the money by giving a picture show benefit for THE TRIBUNE Free Ice Fund at the William N. Rose home, 542 Ainslie street, on Tuesday night.

Mary Louise Reports Success.

"It was a great success," reported Mary Louise Rose, 12 years old, manager of the show. "You see, Davie Miller [he's a great fight referee, you know], lives right next door and he had some movies of the Baer-Carnera fight, he said he'd lend us. Daddy turned the movie crank and Mr. Miller explained all about the fight. I guess there were about fifty in the audience.

"Then Virginia Klein—she's 12—sang a song between reels: 'This Little Piggie Went to Market,' and I recited 'The Village Blacksmith,' and at the end we sang a duet. It was a lot of fun printing the tickets on the typewriter. Our ticket committee spent a week selling tickets at five and ten cents. They worked awfully hard. They were George and Bob Ten Eyck, Bobbie Berliner, Marshall Levinson, and Herbert Retsky, and I sold some, too. We do hope this money will buy a lot of ice for the babies who need it."

Another Group Sends $1.75.

Money from another children's benefit was the only other gift the Free Ice Fund received yesterday. A play was given recently at the home of J. J. Brogan in River Forest—"Princess Tenderheart." The net proceeds were $1.75 and this was sent to the fund. Those taking part in the play were Mary Jane, Frank and Tom Brogan, Mary Lou Savage, Rosemary and Cecelia McVean, Jean Carquerville, James Feely, and Jack Campbell. The play was directed by Ethel and George Brogan.

The two gifts, with those previously acknowledged, give the Free Ice Fund a grand total of $545.47. Contributions to the ice fund and the Camp Algonquin fund, which gives vacations to needy mothers and children, may be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

Mr. Tyrrell was in the engine room of the institution when a motor broke, hurling pieces of the wheel with terrific force. One piece struck him in the head.

His home was at 410 South Wisconsin avenue, Villa Park, where he is survived by his widow, Josephine, and two children, Wilbur Jr., 15 years old, and Bernard, 2 years old. Mr. Tyrrell was a brother of Attorney Frank Tyrrell, a Cook county Republican leader.

RICHARD G. STEGE IS DEAD; VETERAN CHICAGO BREWER

Richard G. Stege, 64 years old, who was in the brewery business in Chicago for many years until prohibition, died Tuesday at his home at 828 Jackson avenue, River Forest. Debutante List Grows Longer; Dates Changed

Barbara Fortune, Eleanor Kirkland to Bow.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WITH the summer half gone, the list of debutantes for next season is growing longer and more definite, but the switching of dates will not stop until many weeks hence. The latest names to be added to the list are those of Barbara Fortune, the third and youngest of the John L. Fortunes' daughters, and Eleanor Kirkland, the Weymouth Kirklands' only daughter.

Miss Fortune is a year younger than most of the girls who are coming out, but since so many of her classmates at Vassar, where she was a freshman last year, and at the Latin school, where she was graduated the June before, are to be debutantes this year, her parents have decided to let her make her debut, too. She isn't going back to Vassar in the fall, but will resume her studies at the University of Chicago in February. Whether to have a party in the fall or at Christmas time hasn't been decided yet.

Mrs. Fortune and Barbara and the younger of the four Fortune boys will go to Wequetonsing next month to occupy Miss Joanna Fortune's house for the rest of the summer. She sails on Aug. 25 for China.

Miss Kirkland may return to Vassar or she may not; that is something not yet decided. She is to make her formal bow at a tea, perhaps in Lake Forest, where her parents have a house for the summer, or perhaps in town at their North State street apartment. She will have a dance given for her later in the season.

Borland-Erminger Plans Are Changed.

Debut plans for Miss Martha Borland and Miss Bertha Erminger have been revised a bit. Instead of having separate dances during the Christmas holidays, these two young ladies will be fêted at a dinner-dance to be given jointly by their parents, the Chauncey B. Borlands and the junior Howell B. Ermingers, on the Saturday night before Christmas at the Casino. That will be Dec. 22, but if the colleges are not out at that time the party will be given the Saturday following.

Mrs. Erminger and Miss Erminger left yesterday for Cape Cod, where they will be until after Labor day at the Oyster Harbor club at Osterville. The Borlands and Martha and Miss Harriet Borland are at their summer home in Camden, Me.

Three Will Bow at September Dance.

An early fall dinner-dance at which three Winnetka buds will make their debuts is to be given at the Saddle and Cycle club on Friday, Sept. 14. The Ayres Boals, the Edmund B. Bartletts, and the Morris K. Wilsons have chosen that date instead of Sept. 18 to introduce their daughters, Henrietta Boal, Laura Bartlett, and Leslie Wilson. These three young women all were graduated from the North Shore Country Day school last year. Miss Boal and Miss Wilson have completed a year at Vassar and Miss Bartlett will return in the fall for her second year at Sarah Lawrence college.

Miss Peggy Sargent, daughter of the Chester F. Sargents, will be a debutante this winter also. At the moment she is in Europe with her sister, Miss Barbara Ann Sargent, a debutante of the last winter. The girls are traveling with a group of students. Peggy will be a sophomore at Smith this fall and her elder sister is a student at Northwestern university. Debut plans will be completed at the end of August when the Misses Sargent return from the European tour.

Mr. and Mrs. Boal and Henrietta are at their home in Charlevoix for the rest of the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Ogden West.

Elting-West Nuptials Held at Fortnightly

Less than Hundred Present at Ceremony.

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

Fewer than a hundred relatives and friends were present yesterday afternoon when Miss Ruth Elting and Mahlon Ogden West exchanged wedding vows in the living room of the Fortnightly club at 120 Bellevue place, not many doors from 48 Bellevue, where the Elting family lived for years. It was a lovely wedding, simple and informal, and the decorations and the bridal gown had been chosen wisely with the idea that the temperature might be just what it was yesterday.

The late afternoon light filtered through beige glass curtains and then through a screen of light green, lacy ferns, making the light from the cathedral candles unnecessary, and as soon as the service had been read by the Rev. Eugene Shannon of St. Chrysostom church the candles all were snuffed out. Tall urns of Easter lilies and tall chromium candelabra very much in the manner moderne completed the decorations.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Byron Elting, and the bridegroom's little niece, Deborah Shepard, held the bouquet of gardenias during the ceremony. The bride's gown was a charming, summery looking one, square necked and with long, tight sleeves. She wore no gloves and her tulle veil was held in place with clusters of orange blossoms.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Philip LeFevre Elting, wore gray chiffon with a shoulder corsage of orchids, and a black hat, and Mrs. Frederick T. West, the bridegroom's mother, was in black lace with gardenias. There was no recessional after the ceremony, and the bride and bridegroom and their mothers received the guests before the improvised altar.

Mr. and Mrs. West left last night for a month in the east, and upon their return they will be at home in the farmhouse in Millburn which Mr. West has been occupying with J. Sanford Otis, who served as his best man.

Among those at the wedding and reception that followed were Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. McPherson and their family, who had come from Huron Mountain, Mich., where they are spending the summer, for the ceremony, and Mr. and Mrs. Perry M. Shepard, who had come from Geneva, N. Y., where they live. Mrs. McPherson and Mrs. Shepard are sisters of Mr. West. Also the bride's aunt, Mrs. James McNulty of Buffalo, and her daughters, Mrs. Burton Wilkinson, Mrs. Robert Dillon and Miss Harriet McNulty.

Some of the others who wished Mr. and Mrs. West happiness and long lives were the Cyrus Hall McCormicks, the Willard Boydens, Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Sudler, Mrs. William H. Hubbard, the young Arthur Farwells, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Williams, the Solomon B. Smiths, the Thomas L. Marshalls, Mrs. Donald M. Ryerson and Ellen, the Thomas C. Dennehys and the Herbert McLaughlins.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

You all know what an important day today is, don't you, boys and girls? It isn't just a plain ordinary Thursday—it's party day!

All the boys and girls whose names were printed in last Sunday's TRIBUNE are going out to Brookfield with me this afternoon to see the wonderful zoo out there. I hope you'll all be at our meeting place on time, and that none of you will forget your invitations—because the buses provided by the Chicago Motor Coach company will be there to meet us promptly, and as we have a long ride and an exciting afternoon ahead of us, we want to start our trip on time.

Today is also the day I must read all your letters and select my guests for next Wednesday's party, which is to be the baseball game between the Chicago White Sox and the Washington Senators. The game will be played at Comiskey Park, and the 50 boys and 50 girls whose letters are selected as winners will be there with me. If you've written me a letter telling me why you'd like to be included in this party, remembered our rules, and that letter is in the pile on my desk this morning, maybe your name will be listed as one of my guests in next Sunday's TRIBUNE.

The same edition of THE TRIBUNE will carry news of our next party—which, I promise you, is an extra-extra special one!

CONVERSATION about the new book on Jean de Reszke, the great opera singer, brought several anecdotes from Mme. Bianca Randall the other evening, that are relayed by William H. Hanna. Mme. Randall was one of De Reszke's pupils, and knew him for many years. She said that once at a dinner in New York some one broke in on a serious conversation to ask:

Wit—
Boyhood—
Shower—
Steno.

Like a flash the singer answered: "Pas de Reszke" [not De Reszke]. Paderewski was among the guests, so the answer was simultaneously a tribute to him, as well as a modest discounting of his own popularity.

BISHOP'S memories. Dr. Johnston Myers, pastor of Immanuel Baptist church, received a letter the other day from the Episcopal bishop of Montana, the Rt. Rev. William Frederic Faber. The two men of the church were schoolmates at the University of Rochester when they were boys, and Bishop Faber writers, in handwriting that looks like copper plate engraving, of the fiftieth reunion of the class of '80 that brought together twelve of them.

"Speaking of good old times, there is a picture that for some reason keeps coming up in memory," the bishop writes. "It is morning: I am still in bed; you have once more tackled the old enemy, Horace. I am making you scan it with me. . . . I remember beating it out for you:

"And so before breakfast, I leading from bed, both of us singsonging together as in a later day we pounded out Kipling. . . ."

A GIRL named Grace Hannigan was telling some companions about the baby shower that had been given one of their number.

"O," said Miss Hannigan, "we gave the mother a dozen of those new ruby cocktail glasses."

ATTORNEY EDWARD B. WITWER dictated a letter to a new stenographer, who evidently was very nervous, it being the first day on her new job. In the letter he advised a client in Milwaukee that his proposed suit in Chicago had better be filed in the Municipal court "inasmuch as that court forced the litigants to a speedy trial, willy nilly." When Mr. Witwer signed the letter later, he found that the stenographer had written "inasmuch as that court forced the litigants to trial whether it be Willie or Nellie."

Hollywood, Cal., July 18.—[Special.]—Rosemary Ames had to be punched and knocked down ten times by Victor Jory in "Wanted," drama laid in the Dutch East Indies now filming at Fox. Miss Ames says she used a form of self-hypnotism to save her feelings during the scene.

"When Mr. Jory's fist was about to strike my jaw I consciously made my mind go blank. He didn't hit me nearly as hard as it appears on the screen, but the falls were real. However, I didn't have even a first class bruise or a sore muscle to show for the entire afternoon's work."

Pert Kelton and Russell Hardie also are in the film, but Hardie didn't have to caveman Pert.

Mrs. Roger Pryor has taken residence in Reno to make the couple's separation of four or five years absolute with a divorce decree. If Pryor and Ann Sothern [Harriette Lake] announcement their engagement afterward don't be surprised.

The local parent company of the revived "The Drunkard," which is responsible for the nation-wide revival of P. T. Barnum's New York museum production of 1843, has sued here demanding damages from Paramount-Publix theaters and Fanchon and Marco Stage Presentations corporation because a tabloid form of "The Drunkard" was given under that name as part of the vaudeville between the program of movies at the Los Angeles Paramount theater. The group which started "The Drunkard" in its current run, which is in the 55th week at Hollywood Theater Mart, demand an injunction.

Blyth Daly, daughter of the late Arnold Daly, is playing a rôle in "That's Gratitude" with her stepfather, Frank Craven. Craven wrote and is directing the story, in which he also plays the lead, for Columbia.

Hal Rosson, Jean Harlow's separated husband, who is convalescing from infantile paralysis left quietly last night for New York en route to Europe. While he is abroad forgetting, the Harlow-Rosson divorce probably will come up.

Soo Yung, the "Chinese Garbo," is playing Greta's amah, or nurse, in Garbo's new flicker "The Painted Veil." Soo Yung was tested for a main rôle in "The Good Earth" and has toured the world as a member of Mei Lan Fang's company.

Carmel Myers saved some dimes by appearing before the county board of equalization and talking them into reducing assessments on two pieces of real estate she owns and on her 1924 imported English auto. She talked the tax man into a $1,340 reduction.

Lupe and Johnny Give Party; Prove They Part Friends

Hollywood, Cal., July 18. — Lupe Velez and Johnny Weissmuller, exponents of the bizarre in things marital, rang down the matrimonial curtain as joint host and hostess at a farewell party to Hollywood friends tonight.

The party was held in Lupe's Beverly Hills home. It was a joint divorce party and birthday party for Lupe, who said, "Yes, I go to court to get my divorce tomorrow, but tonight we all enjoy ourselves."

Miss Velez also said: "I got so many presents I can't count them all; I can't even get them open."

Weissmuller was less talkative.

Last Monday the movie Tarzan turned in a formal default to Lupe's application for a divorce on cruelty grounds, which his wife filed a week before. "We give the party tonight to show that we part good friends," Lupe explained to a reporter.

Guests who shared with the disuniting couple in a farewell toast included W. S. Vandyke, movie director; Fuzzy Knight, piano player and comedian; William Seymour, film executive; Joselyn Lee, Harry Elbee, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stebbins.

Lupe and Johnny were married last Oct. 8. They went to Las Vegas, Nev., with a woman writer for a fan magazine and were married secretly.

An infusion, cleverly used and of the correct perfume, is an ideal aid to summer grooming.

A little beauty item that's been pretty much overlooked is the infusion. We never used one, never owned one until a friend brought us a bottle of a very fine one from New York last winter. It's a summer delight that can't be topped and since we're using it in perfect gobs these muggy days we were thrilled to learn that this same one is now available in Chicago.

You know what an infusion is, don't you—not a perfume nor yet a namby pamby toilet water, but a blend of both. The scent is more lasting than that of the average cologne.

Ours is called "Woman of Paris," which frightened us half to death, being very much on the mousey side, we thought we'd been handed a load of Parisian sophistication we could never carry off. But all is well. That scent is just to our taste and we'd bet any money that most of you will be crazy about it, too.

It's a spicy fragrance, but you'll just have to guess as to what it is. We couldn't make it out, but we definitly like it. It can be used as a cologne would be, or put on your clothes; our trick is to use it as a body lotion after the bath. You don't have to use much, but you'll be amazed at how that scent will cling and at the way its presence is subtly revealed.

As a scent it seems to us suited to almost all types. It's not too worldly for the demure, nor too unworldly for the sophisticate.

Stylish Chiffon Nightgowns Go to Dances, Too

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Gasp as you will, these new beflowered chiffon nightgowns that can double for summertime dinner and dance dresses are utterly irresistible! It just sounds a bit daring. After the first glance, you know definitly you never could keep them just for decorative nightgowns. For the patterns are small and the pastel tints are good enough to eat.

The simple lines, the demure edgings of narrow ruffles, and the circular sections cut into the long skirt lines make them the most fascinating things you ever carried home. Buy one, tie a big soft ribbon or velvet sash around your middle, sally forth to any party, and look as ravishing as you did in anything that was made for party going and nothing else.

There's a grand collection of these cool looking flowered nightgowns in one smart Chicago shop, bearing price tags that are obligingly merciful to a depleted summer clothes allowance.

In the same section you will see some all white summer negligees made with high collarlines, braided silk sashes, and long sleeves for soothingly small sums. And some pictorially perfect all-white pajamas; and some all-white silk nightgowns that are dreams of loveliness.

For your black satin street costumes! A large assortment of clear white satin accessories—white gloves, stunning white satin cuffs and collars, handbags, bows, cascading jabots, practically everything you will need to dramatize the inky black sleekness of these smart midsummer satin ensembles.

White satin blouses, made with fine knife plaitings at the edge of short sleeves and high round collar are particularly effective, as well as the tailored numbers, to go with the strictly tailored two piece suits. Clever accessories in black are also available, the black satin handbags probably being the smartest and newest affairs to be found.

Finds Business Men Are Realizing Need of Good Taste in Clothes

Good taste in merchandise, particularly in women's clothes, is far more of an important factor in economics than business men have realized, one of the country's outstanding business women yesterday informed the Fashion Group of Chicago, at luncheon in the Palmer house. Not only are business men waking up to its import, asserted the speaker, Miss Marion Taylor of New York, but they are admitting into their inner councils women qualified to help them direct policies and select lines of maximum appeal to feminine consumers.

Women are being listened to today in such matters more than ever before, she concluded, but not nearly so much as they will be in the next few years.

Good Morning!

Fun and mystery go peppily hand in hand in "Bulldog Drummond."

The action all occurs within about nine hours of one fateful night, and the piece, lightly satirizing the general run of hair raisers, whose central figure is an ultra astute detective, tells its story with a laugh and a punch a minute. Dialog sparkles and snaps, and if you don't get a kick out of most of the situations, why I don't know you as well as I think I do.

SO nice to see Ronald Colman again! Why DO you suppose he insists on staying away from us the way he does? Swell actor and Prince Charming to boot, 'e his! A statement that any woman will bear me out in. To quote my secretary: "He could be in a picture all by himself and I'D be satisfied!" Men like him, too.

He plays with zest and humor the amateur sleuth whose hobby is excitement and who yerns, between stunts, to one day buy a house in the country and raise hollyhocks. He outwits crooks, bamboozles bobbies [English policemen, you know], torments worthy and irascible Inspector Nielson of Scotland Yard nearly to death, and reduces the heart of Miss Loretta Young—whom he meets in a fog [London and mental] to a soft, palpitating mass over which she has no control.

Fast worker, "Bulldog." For, with the rising sun, he secures the lady's promise to love, understand and grow hollyhocks with him, and a wedding is to occur as soon as a preacher can be found who is sufficiently awake to perform the ceremony.

The supporting cast plays up in great shape. Charles Butterworth ties the audience in knots as a bridegroom whose wedding night is spent rushing hither and yon at the imperative summons of his pal, Drummond. Warner Oland is at his sinister best as one Prince Achmed in whose house is found the body that . . . well, THAT . . . !

To see this movie you will, of course, have to get into the theater. Judging from the attendance yesterday, that's going to be a trick.

Rehersals Started for Fashion Exhibits Planned for Buyers

Rehersals were in progress yesterday at the Merchandise Mart for a great market event scheduled for July 30 to Aug. 11, in which 225 manufacturers from coast to coast will display garments for women and children. The number of exhibitors has increased 73 per cent over the February review of such styles, it was announced by T. J. Reed, general manager of the Merchandise Mart.

"It will be," he said, "the largest collective showing of such merchandise ever held. The strides made during the last six months to bring apparel manufacturers to the Chicago market have resulted in surpassing any previous attempts of this kind."

On Aug. 1 and again on Aug. 7 there will be extensive showing on live models, of morning and afternoon apparel, characterized as representing 75 per cent of the sales in women's and children's wear.

Her Husband's Fiancee

BY ELIZABETH YORK MILLER

SYNOPSIS.

Cecily Marshall returns after a year's absence to the home in Bellchester, England, where she had lived with her husband, David Marshall, the city's leading merchant prince. Cecily had been a shopgirl at Marshall's. Beautiful Audrey Lowe, who had wanted David and his money herself, and her cousin, Reggie Davies, had contrived to break up Cecily's marriage. David believed Cecily unfaithful and won a divorce from her and the custody of their small child, Rose Ann. The child doesn't know the cause of her mother's long absence and grieves for her. Fearing for the child's health, Nanna, her nurse, wires Cecily. David, who is about to marry Audrey, is giving a dinner party for her when Cecily arrives. Nanna admits Cecily secretly.

INSTALMENT IV.

A GOLD DIGGER.

Dinner had passed off very well. It was more or less a family affair. Mrs. Hollister and Mrs. Lowe were sisters and Mervin Branchard was the solicitor for Marshall's, Ltd.—like Nanna, something of an old retainer. Earlier in the day he had given David some cautious advice on the subject of Miss Lowe's marriage settlement. In Mr. Blanchard's opinion Audrey came of a gold digging family and had inherited its tendencies. She wanted an out-and-out £20,000 for herself, unconditionally.

Mr. Blanchard had reminded David that there had been no question of a marriage settlement where his first wife was concerned. Cecily had never thought of asking for such a thing nor had David thought of offering it.

He waved aside the solicitor's reminder with some brusqueness, for David did not want to discuss Cecily. But no papers had been signed as yet and Mr. Branchard was still hoping that a smaller sum, say half of that which had been suggested, would meet the case.

Marshall's was a flourishing concern, but these were hard times. David lived extravagantly himself, and his mother, who spent most of her time in the south of England, held a considerable interest in Marshall's. There were also two married sisters who drew large incomes from the business.

Now was coming this new wife, who, to Mervin Branchard's private knowledge, would be bringing a small mountain of personal debts as a sort of back-handed wedding gift, and he decided that he must really be sharp about it when the proposed settlement came up for final decision.

After watching the bridge players for a few minutes David Marshall and his newly acquired fiancée moved by common consent to the little garden room.

Both of them were looking their very best this evening. Audrey, tall, dark, and handsome in a spectacular way, was sheathed in flesh colored satin. Big pearls glistened against the lobes of her ears, and the brooch of pearls and diamonds she wore was a recent gift from David, and she wore his costly ring on the wedding finger of her left hand.

Years before David had ever heard of Cecily Adams, the postman's daughter, he had been mildly in love with this glorious creature. Audrey Lowe was at school with her sisters. He knew that she was not very young, but she wore exceedingly well and would be an adornment for any man's home.

It seemed to David that what he chiefly wanted for his home now was no more than adornment. He did not allow himself to think of Audrey as Rose Ann's mother. That hurt too much.

Nobody seemed to realize what a sore subject Cecily still was to him. Nobody, of course, except Nanna, who never mentioned Cecily until the doctor dragged it out of her about Rose Ann's dreams. Rose Ann herself never gave him any peace on the subject, but, curiously enough, with the child he could bear to speak of Cecily.

As he sat on the arm of Audrey's chair in the garden room, kissing the back of her neck and the satin smooth shoulder so invitingly near, the startling idea came to him that he did not really know what this was all about.

He didn't love Audrey, although he admitted to a certain physical attraction she had for him. Love was dead in him, turned to a stony sort of hatred. A man can't love twice as he had loved Cecily.

He wondered where Cecily was tonight. He had tried in a furtive kind of way to trace her, because his conscience bothered him about the money she had refused, but he had failed in the half-hearted quest. Probably she was in some other man's arms. A woman like that—a woman who had been false to his great love for her—a woman he would have trusted with his very life!

He got up and paced the little room with quick, nervous strides. Cecily had made this room and he felt he hated it as he hated her.

"Darling, what on earth's the matter with you?" Audrey exclaimed. "You look perfectly furious. Have I done or said anything to upset you?"

"Of course not," he said, passing his hand across his eyes. "I was just—well, just thinking."

"Not very pleasant thoughts, I take it. 'Fess up boy. I suppose Branchard's been putting a flea in your ear about that settlement, but he must arrange the details with mother. You and I are not going to wrangle about such sordid matters. When you married Cecily——"

"For heaven's sake, leave Cecily out of it!" David all but shouted.

"Really, my dear!"

"Im sorry, Audrey. I didn't mean to speak like that. The truth is—the truth is——" (What on earth was the truth about anything?)

"I'm worried half to death about Rose Ann," David said. There was quite a lot of truth in that assertion, anyway.

"Poor David. You're so fond of her, aren't you? I hope I don't get jealous of Rose Ann. Sometimes I feel the symptoms coming on. But why, if you aren't satisfied, don't you change your doctor?"

"MacDermott is the best man in Bellchester. Besides, I'm convinced it isn't a question of doctors. Rose Ann seems to be sort of—what you might call fading away. Nanna has to coax down almost every morsel she eats, and that terrible insomnia! A child of that age—it isn't normal."

Audrey threw him a softly apologetic glance.

"David, I don't want to interfere. Please don't thing that whatever you do. But I must speak my mind. That Nanna of yours spoils Rose Ann. She oughtn't to be coaxed to eat. Let her go hungry and you'll soon see."

"We've tried that," David said wearily.

"Do you think I want to lose my child?"

"O, well, darling, if you're going to talk like that I shan't say anything more. Rose Ann still can't be worrying about her mother. They haven't got such long memories. Nanna probably keeps it up—keeps on reminding her. She's a sly old woman."

David's face was very white as he cast his cigaret onto the marble floor and stamped on it.

"Nanna is just as anxious as I am," he said stiffly. "Rose Ann remembers. I—I wish to God she could forget!"

Audrey gave him a flashing glance from her midnight eyes.

"What you really wish is that you could forget Cecily yourself."

"I'm so sorry, Audrey."

"Darling, of course I know it isn't your fault. I'm not blaming you. These things happen and we have to make the best of them. I love you so much and that's why mother has to look ahead for me. I mean about that settlement." She laughed with an assumption of great merriment.

Had she gone too far? David's manner left her in some doubt. He just stood there saying nothing, his face a little paler even than before, and Audrey hastily changed the subject.

"David, I do want to be a real help to you after we are married," she coaxed, coming up to him and laying her head against his shoulder. "I want to make up to you for all you've suffered through Cecily's treachery. To think that she could have gone off with Reggie like that! It was so beastly cold-blooded, too. But there! I promised I'd never mention that again."

It was gratifying to see that look of hatred come over his face—hatred not for her but for the woman he so firmly believed had betrayed him.

Debutante List Grows Longer; Dates Changed

weekly dance at the Onwentsia tonight will be one that Mrs. Frank E. Wilhelm is giving for two debutantes of the coming season, Miss Deborah Butler and Miss Mary Elizabeth Reid. Miss Jean Wilhelm will be hostess with her mother. Another party tonight is being given by Mrs. Francis S. North for her son and his bride, Mr. and Mrs. William S. North.

Hosts for Dance at Exmoor Club.

Miss Bette Rich and her brother, Joseph E. Rich, always called Bill, will be among the hosts and hostesses at dinner Saturday night at the Exmoor Country club weekly dinner-dance. Miss Rich, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Joseph Rich of Evanston, is a debutante of the coming season. She attended Farmington school and spent the last winter abroad. Her parents have not decided what kind of a party they will give to introduce their daughter, however.

Surprise visitors in Lake Forest are Mr. and Mrs. James Dumas Henry of Atlanta, Ga., who are visiting the former Catherine Molloy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David J. Molloy, at the Deerpath inn. It is the first visit of the Henrys to Chicago since their marriage last December, and all of Mrs. Henry's old friends are anxious to see her and to entertain for her and her husband during the three weeks they will be here.

The Molloys are giving a party Saturday night at the Knollwood club to which they have invited about 20 young people. This affair will be the first pool party of the season at the Knollwood, and the decorations will be a-la-World's Fair, with rainbows of colored lights across the pool and the cabanas. During the early part of the evening there will be dancing under the big tree down by the pool, with entertainers strolling about among the guests. At midnight a buffet supper will be served on the terrace of the club house, and the dancing will continue there on the open-air floor.

Among those who have made reservations for the party are the Alfred C. Castles and their twin daughters, Caroline and Josephine, who will have sub-debutantes and their beaux among their guests; the Hill Blacketts, Brunson MacChesney, the Fred A. Poors, the Ralph Sargents, Samuel O. Dunn, the William Hart Johnsons, Mr. and Mrs. Ferre C. Watkins, Edward F. Wilson and the C. Winn Canfields.

Open Garden Day at Barrington.

The Garden club of Barrington is holding its annual open garden day tomorrow with eight of Barrington's loveliest gardens on display to the public for the small sum of 25 cents. The gardens will be open at 2 o'clock, and their location will be indicated by a system of arrows and signs from the village of Barrington to the various gardens.

Those being shown are the gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Alex F. Reichman, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hecht, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Seipp, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Cardwell, the Sheldon Clarks, the H. Stillson Harts, and Col. and Mrs. John Roberts. Tea will be served in the Hart gardens from 2 until 4 o'clock. Mrs. Fred Record is in charge of the arrangements.

One feature of unusual interest at the celebration of the 75th anniversary of the founding of the Lake Forest Presbyterian church which is being celebrated this week-end is the old time sociable which will be held Saturday night on the lawn of the church and in the manse. Those who have been members of the church for 50 years will be the especial guests of the evening, among them John V. Farwell and Francis C. Farwell.

Stereopticon views of Lake Forest and of former residents will be shown, and several of the younger members of the church will wear old-fashioned costumes. Among the women assisting at the three day celebration are Mrs. R. Douglas Stuart, Mrs. Cornelius M. Trowbridge, Miss Ellen Holt, Miss Madeleine Newell and her niece, Mrs. William A. P. Pullman.

Youth's Denials of Love Often Merely a Pose

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Here's a case I'm not worried about, for I feel that the young people involved are just adopting a slightly blasé pose as a result of too much delving into psychology books. However, the situation quite upsets an elderly lady of their acquaintance, and she has written to me:

"For the past several months I have been watching the most amazing courtship. A month ago they became engaged. It seems that they are not in love with each other. That's what they say. The girl says: 'We've discussed all that. I like him and he's the sort of fellow I'd like my husband to be; but I'm not in love with him. I think it's better not to be in love.' This girl is 19, pretty and popular. But the young man also is not in love. He thinks this girl would make an ideal wife and he likes her, but love? A thousand times, no.

"He seems to be a nice boy, and he has a good job. As soon as he learned that he had been remembered in his uncle's will, he called up the girl and proposed."

As I say, I think they're putting up a front, but giving them the benefit of the doubt, and taking them at their word, I would guess it'll take not more than a month or two of married life to make human beings out of them.

Memory Blocks.

BY NANCY CABOT.

This block was made in 1870, and thus is not so old as many memory quilts made before that date. Early memory quilts customarily were made from the dresses of a mourned friend or relative. In 1870, however, they acquired a new signicance. Pioneering relatives would receive pieces of a dress from the old home, and from these they would fashion a "Memory Block." Large families being what they were at that time, entire quilts were made from remnants traded back and forth among immediate relatives.

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street, Tribune Tower, and Hall of Science, A Century of Progress.

Don't Rebuke Your Children at Mealtimes

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

However bothered you may be by your growing son's lack of table manners, by your small daughter's refusal to eat, by a carelessly overturned glass of milk or some other annoying behavior at meal times, do try not to be emotional about it. By that I mean don't "make a scene" or scold or discipline or administer that humiliating rebuke, "You may leave the table." Correct the children you must—but do it in the right way. The dinner table should not be the stage for unpleasantness. Neither is it well to bring up distressing subjects at the table.

Just to convince you, instead of making a general statement, let me quote Dr. Edmund Jacobson in "The Child's Emotions" [University of Chicago Press]:

"As is well known, bodily changes during emotional states occur in the stomach and intestines. When a cat is markedly frightened, the digestive movements have been found to cease abruptly [Cannon]. Likewise the digestive juices may cease to flow [Pavlov].

"We have devoted intensive study to the behavior of the esophagus during emotion. This muscular tube conveys food from the mouth to the stomach. When our individuals were in a state of excitement, the esophagus, as studied under the X-ray, did not function properly. It tended to become contracted throughout or in parts, squeezing the food within, and instead of passing the food along to the stomach . . . the individual . . . complained of a 'lump in his throat' which was sometimes very painful . . . The large intestine also in many instances responds during emotion by spasmodic contraction." There is much more here of interest, but this will give you a slight idea of the actual physiological effect of emotion on the digestive tract.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

"The Drunkard," alleged to be a melodrama of the 1840s and P. T. Barnum's favorite work of art, is apparently a play that cannot be supressed. I settled its hash at the Opera club a few weeks ago, and it promptly broke out in the North Side Turner hall. I got it under control at that point without much trouble, but last night I found myself answering a 4-11 alarm to deal with the menace in the dining room of the Auditorium hotel.

This "Drunkard" company is under the management of the firm that has kept the piece in performance in Los Angeles for a full year; therefore it may be assumed to have the authoritative touch. The performance is louder and livelier than its predecessors in Chicago; the burlesquing is more forthright and the curtain comes down with greater violence. The latter touch is, I suspect, the master stroke. The curtain should fall on every scene of "The Drunkard" like the stroke of a headsman's ax.

One of the reasons why I was able to stand a third performance of "The Drunkard" without collapsing is a girl named Kathleen Fitz. She plays lovely Mary, the widow's daughter and the sot's long suffering wife, and is a perfect type as a heroine of the 1840s. She has undeniable charm.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a weekly radio feature—will be presented tomorrow by Mary Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 11:45 o'clock for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

About half enough space and twice too many canning questions yesterday all to go in one column. So we're off today on a follow-up—more questions and answers to the putting-up problems we're all encountering these hustling canning days.

Comes the first, which seems to bother many a putter-up

When bubbles appear in a jar after it is taken out of the boiler to cool is it a sign something is wrong? Probably not. Bubbles often come to the surface after the jar comes out of the boiler because the food is still boiling in the jar, discharging air bubbles. Ordinarily the bubbles no longer appear once the jar of food has been cooled completely, unless the jar is shaken.

If a proper seal is not made after canning and a jar has to be reprocessed is it necessary to process it the full length of time again? The answer to this sticker depends somewhat upon the reason for the failure to seal. If your food is a fruit and the trouble was with the lid or rubber, simply replace the lid or rubber or both with new sterile ones and process the can in a water bath only until the product reaches the boiling point.

If it is a nonacid food it should be reprocessed for from one-fourth to one-third of the regular processing time. If it's the jar which is giving the trouble it's probable that the food should be removed and eaten, for repacking would call for reprocessing of about the original length of time and few foods will stand up gracefully under this additional cooking.

Is it dangerous to set hot jars on a cold surface? Decidedly yes. Hot jars are best set on a bread board or other wooden surface or upon a table covered with several thicknesses of cloth.

Why is so short a period used for cooking when a pressure cooker is used? This is simply because it is possible to reach a much higher temperature when steam heat is used in a tightly closed container (except for the small escape through the petcock) than may be reached in the open kettle or water bath method.

When one uses the hot water bath method of canning is it dangerous to let the jars cool in the water? Why? It's dangerous for just this reason—the processing should be stopped at the exact time that the food is cooked and thoroughly sterilized. If allowed to stand in the hot water foods continue cooking slowly, losing much of their color, good texture, and food value. It's also possible that if the food is held at this lowered heat certain types of spoilage may occur.

Is it possible to can fruits successfully without sugar? Yes, 'tis. It's often done in commercially canned products and works as well at home. Merely use water in place of the sirup. Most fruits will then need added sugar before serving.

Why do some cooks leave peach pits in when canning? Just a matter of personal taste, that is. A stone or two or sometimes the slim "almond" inside the stone is frequently left in the can to give a slightly bitter tang which many people find pleasant.

What is it that makes peaches and pears turn dark brown after they have been canned? How can one prevent this? Again this discoloration may be due to any of several different troubles. It may indicate insufficient processing and the resulting work of certain malefactors known as enzymes at the top of the jar. Five to ten minutes' longer processing will take care of this situation. Or if the fruits are overcanned too great a heat may have come down from the oven top and browned the fruits. In this case there is no danger of spoilage—the fruits are merely somewhat less handsome.

Or again, dark fruits often result from exposing them too long to the air after peeling. It's safe in this case to drop the fruits into slightly salty or plain water until canning time. Then one final explanation. If you have canned your fruits without sugar you may find that when they are opened and out in the air they turn dark much as do fresh fruits when peeled and left to stand. For this reason most canners prefer to sugar their peaches and pears before canning rather than after uncanning them.

"And tomorrow," as my story books used to say, "if water does not run up hill"—we will learn about some of the ways cooks get in and out of trouble in the jelly making game.

Right Mouth Hygiene Makes for More Beauty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

In the care of our teeth it is essential that we follow a wise diet. It is also a well known fact that our tooth brushes, tooth pastes and mouth washes are vastly important in their care. When you brush your teeth, don't brush them back and forth. The method advocated by many dentists is the rolling motion. This is done by holding the mouth slightly open and brushing the teeth of the upper jaw and the teeth of the low jaw separately. In brushing the upper teeth the bristles of the brush are placed on the gums over the back teeth. By rotating the wrist the brush is drawn downward with a sweeping motion from the gums to the biting surfaces. Continue this ten or twelve times and then move forward to a new surface.

The lower teeth are done in the same way except that the bristles are brought upward from the gums to the biting surface. The inside surfaces of the teeth, those next to the tongue, should also be brushed. Persons with normal teeth and gums can usually clean their teeth satisfactorily with this method. Where there are infected gums, a dentist should be consulted, of course. After the teeth are cleaned, sweep your toothbrush over the tongue, using lukewarm water.

Massaging the gums is important as it increases the resistance of the tissues, and stimulates circulation. This massaging is accomplished with the toothbrush when the rolling method is used.

Two tooth brushes should be used, a good dentrifice, and a mouth wash. The teeth should be brushed after every meal, before going to bed, and, of course, the first thing in the morning. Don't skip lightly over the teeth. A good cleansing takes time, and it is time well spent. Rinse your brushes under the cold water faucet. Wash them out with soap and warm water every week or ten days to keep them fresh and sweet. A tooth brush given this care will last from two to three months.

Tot Orchestra Puts Spirit in Simple Music

Younsters from 4 to 8 Appear at Fair.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Some future symphonic musicals are now, it is quite possible, appearing at A Century of Progress. At any rate, the Kansas City Toy Symphony orchestra is now one of the attractions. Thirty-five of them came to the Children's theater last summer, and they were so attractive that a group numbering sixty is now giving concerts in the court of the Hall of Science.

They are about as youthful a musical organization as one is likely to hear. Their ages run from 4 to 8.

Naturally the Bruce school of Kansas City, where they are trained, makes no effort to place them among the complex and difficult instruments of the orchestra. Their instrumentation runs greatly to zylophones, marimbas, drums, triangles, tambourines, and various other percussive instruments.

But they have spirit and they have rhythm, two excellent qualities for future musical development. Their tunes are simple, but they play them with manner. They evidently enjoy their performances, consequently their audiences enjoy them as well. And their conductor, young Harry Lee, takes his post and beats time with all the aplomb and energy of a veteran.

The American Conservatory of Music closed its summer series of concerts yesterday afternoon in Kimball hall with a joint recital by Heniot Levy, pianist, and Marie Sidenius Zendt, soprano. All the programs this summer have been enjoyable, this one no less than the others.

Mr. Levy, a master pedagog, is a scholarly musician, and in the midst of other duties manages to maintain the technical development of a solo pianist. He played the Beethoven Sonata, opus 109; the twelve etudes of Chopin's opus 25, for which he has a particular flair, and other works by Debussy and Liszt. Greatly applauded at the end of the Chopin group, he played one of the impromptus as an encore.

Mrs. Zendt, a delightful singer with a beautiful voice, sang first one of the finest of all songs, "L'amerò, Sarò Costante," from Mozart's "Il Re Pastore," being aided therein by the excellent violin obbligato played by Rachel Steinman Clarke. An American group came later, one item being Mr. Levy's "Evening."

President's Mother Goes to Paris to Visit Sister

PARIS, July 18.—(AP)—Tired but "glad to be here," Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of the President of the United States, arrived today to visit he sister, Mrs. D. D. Forbes, a resident of Paris. The sisters embraced at the station and then went by motor car to Mrs. Forbes' apartment in the Toile quarter. During her visit here Mrs. Roosevelt probably will be a guest at a luncheon at Elysee palace, residence of President Lebrun.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, July 18.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. T. Suffern Tailer Jr. are passing the season at the Cunningham place at Locust Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Landon of Woodmere sailed on the Georgic for a motor trip through England, Ireland, and Scotland.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

LONG SUITED NO-TRUMP HANDS.

As explained in an earlier article, I strongly disagree with the dictum that one should invariably bid a suit in preference to no trumps when a choice is available. When a hand offers the proper safeguards in every suit, and requires the opening lead to come up to it and not through it, I will bid a no-trump even if there is a six card major suit. Naturally, this suit must be headed by tops and be almost if not quite solid, and I must be able to win at least the third lead of any of the other suits.

would be bid one no trump in my system. Practically every authority would tell you that a spade bid is automatic, requiring no thought or question.

Placing the No-Trump Declaration.

I am perfectly willing to play this hand at spades, but to me spades is the wrong opening bid. If I bid a spade, my partner's most likely response is one one-trump. Now he will be saddled with that declaration, assuming that he cannot support spades. Not only will one of my kings probably be led through at the start, but my hand will be exposed as dummy, and the enemy will have no guesses in developing the most effective defense.

If, conversely, I am the declarer in no-trumps, I can stand any opening lead, and the opponents' later defensive leads will be almost entirely a matter of guesswork until it is too late for them to hurt me. If my partner is weak, and takes out in a suit instead of raising me in no trumps, I will bid my spades and we can still end up in four spades in preference to three no-trumps.

Where the Rebid Lies.

The point I wish to make now is that a hand of this kind contains one or more rebids in its concealed long suit. Consequently the primary values can be shaded slightly as compared to a 4-3-3-3 hand. The suit itself must be headed by ace-king or king-queen-jack, and there must be no singleton or worthless doubleton, and no unstopped suit. I need not reiterate the playing advantages of this kind of hand when the bidding goes normally, and you wind up in three no-trumps.

I wish at this time to dwell on the fact that this kind of hand does not offer your partner the same guarantees against a misfit in any suit or suits that he may be able to bid in response. That is to say, you must be able to inform your partner that you have bid a "long suited no-trumper" whenever it is necessary that he should know it, and this must be done early so that this suit can still be shown, and his suits also, without necessarily getting beyond three no-trumps.

I prefer to seek excuses for not bidding it rather than opportunities to bid it, from reluctance to tell, the adversaries all about it for their benefit in the subsequent play. However, when my partner takes out in a suit and rebids it over two no-trumps, my five card suit is likely to be a better partial score refuge than his; if so, I will bid it at three, expecting him to pass unless able to raise it or, in view of this sudden enlightenment, to bid three no trumps for me. When my long suit is of higher rank than his, I can defer naming it until the third round, as I can still take out in three. If it is of lower rank, I must bid it on the second round, otherwise I would not be able to show it at less than four. In the next few articles we will consider some examples of these situations.

RODAK'S SKILL AS BOXER BEATS PUNCHER HAYES

Awarded Decision in Ten Rounds.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Leo Rodak of Chicago's south side last night gave Petey Hayes, Brooklyn Italian, a ten round beating in the main event of the charity boxing show at Wrigley field. Hayes, who earned his place on the card by battering Kid Chocolate to defeat, thus became another victim of the Golden Gloves graduate who has not lost a bout since he turned professional a year ago.

Although the outcome was satisfactory to Rodak and the other boxers who received fat guarantees, the Rest-haven convalescent home will be fortunate if it is returned a winner at the box office. Official paid attendance was 4,714 and the gross receipts were $10,510.90. Actual attendance probably was 6,000, this figure including the army of pass holders and boys who scaled the walls.

Given Unanimous Vote.

Rodak's victory was by unanimous vote of the judges and referee. The only dissenters were in the top grandstand and Frank Jacobs, Hayes' manager. Jacobs argued vociferously with Referee Tommy Thomas when the result was announced. Thomas voted 54-46 for Rodak; Judge Ed Klein turned in the same totals, and Judge Rube Metz voted 57-43.

Rodak won because he was the better boxer. He outpointed Hayes from a distance and finished the ninth and tenth rounds at full speed. Leo exhausted himself throwing punches in the tenth, and the final bell found both fighters in a clinch. There was no doubt about Rodak's margin in these last two rounds.

When Rodak concentrated on boxing he retreated frequently and this may have encouraged those in the crowd who cheered for Hayes. Petey, shorter and stockier, fought best in close, and he piled enough right hand blows to Rodak's ribs to turn his body a glistening pink.

Hayes gave his best exhibition in the third round, the only session in which he had a decisive edge. Rodak absorbed a series of body blows which he did not relish, and then toward the end of the round he dropped his hands and turned to his corner, thinking he had heard the bell. Hayes was so surprised he did not take advantage of the situation. Shouts from Leo's corner sent him back to the battle.

Hayes could be credited with an even fight in the second and eighth rounds although the margin was close in several of the earlier sessions.

Yarosz Beats Littman.

Teddy Yarosz, Pittsburgh middleweight, won a ten round decision from Tait Littman of Milwaukee in the semi-windup, although he was on the verge of a knockout at the end. The bout lacked action, particularly because the big blond, who looked much more like a fighter than Yarosz, walked around as if in a trance. He leveled his right, but seldom threw it, and in the meantime Yarosz bounced a dozen right hands off Littman's face.

Harry Dublinsky, Chicago junior welterweight, turned in the most impressive battle of the night when he stopped Steve Halaiko of Buffalo, N. Y., in the tenth round. Dublinsky is a fast, busy fighter who lacks a knockout punch, but he made up for this with a quantity of blows. Even so, Dublinsky started badly, going down for a two count from a right cross to the jaw. He paid this back with compound interest.

Halaiko was knocked down four times—for nine seconds in the sixth, eight seconds in the seventh, three seconds in the ninth, and again for five seconds as the ninth round ended. Referee Tommy Thomas stopped the fight after a minute and five seconds of the last round.

Caserio Becomes Ill.

Jacquotte Elverrillo, Chicago welterweight, won a decision in five rounds from Sherrald Kennard of Fargo, N. D. Each scored a knockdown. Toots Bernstein of Milwaukee defeated Chuck Roberts, Chicago welterweight, in the four round opening fight. Freddie Caserio, who was to have made his professional debut, was forced to cancel his match. He is confined to his home with an attack of tonsilitis.

ONE MORE FOR LEO

George Draws with Londos in Long Match

Boston, Mass., July 19 [Thursday].—(AP)—After wrestling for more than two hours for the third and deciding fall, Ed George, 219, Java, N. Y., and Jimmy Londos, 201, St. Louis, toppled through the ropes together and were unable to continue.

The attendance was 30,000.

George gained the first fall over Londos with two flying tackles which felled Londos after 27 minutes and 57 seconds. He pinned the Greek's shoulders with a wristlock.

George tried to use this winning hold several times earlier, but Londos was always able to pull himself free while he remained upright. Before George started his butting Londos dropped him three times with headlocks.

Londos gained the second fall in 34 minutes 7 seconds with a body slam. George appeared groggy after missing two flying tackles, and Londos had an easy task lifting him up three times and dropping him heavily to pin his shoulders and square the match.

The squad will be chosen by popular vote of the football fans of the nation. Send your selections to the All-Star Game Editor, The Chicago Tribune. Name only one player for each of the eleven positions. Only college players who were seniors last year are eligible.

NEW CELEBRITIES BROUGHT OUT BY ALL-STAR VOTES

Sauer Is Country's Most Popular Football Man.

BY ARCH WARD.

The first nation wide poll of America's football fans is replete with surprises. There probably were few at the end of the 1933 season who realized that George Sauer of Nebraska was the most popular player in the land. Neither did they think that Ed Krause of Notre Dame, whose team had one of the most unsuccessful years in the school's athletic history was the outstanding linesman of his day. But both facts have been well established by the vote now being conducted by THE TRIBUNE and associated newspapers in an effort to determine a team of 1933 college seniors to play the Chicago Bears at Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 31.

Sauer, who probably will be unable to participate because of a recent emergency operation for appendicitis, has polled 22,522 votes, and the contest has a week to run. Krause is close behind with 21,867. Sauer is a full back and Krause plays tackle. The latter is attending summer school at Notre Dame and has announced his intention to compete. Sauer will see the game from the stands as the guest of THE TRIBUNE.

New Celebrities Arise.

Other players whose reputations were limited more or less to the sections in which they played have jumped to the front as national gridiron celebrities. Adolph Schwammel of Oregon State, for instance, ranks second to Krause among the tackles, pacing such well known Big Ten athletes as Whitey Wistert of Michigan and Ted Rosequist of Ohio State. Mike Mikulak, Oregon full back, is running second to Sauer at his position and apparently has clinched a place on the squad.

It was generally conceded last fall that Chuck Bernard of Michigan was the best center in college football and the national vote bears out this estimate. His only rival, according to the 45,000 who thus far have cast their vote, is Kitty [illegible]orman of Notre Dame. Aaron Rosenburg, Southern California guard, like Bernard was considered a standout at his position by the country's football experts and apparently that view is shared by the fans. He has held a consistent lead over Schammel of Iowa, Corbus of Stanford, and Jones of Indiana.

Laws Leads Quarter Backs.

The Western conference apparently had the best quarter backs of the 1933 season. Joe Laws of Iowa, who was awarded THE TRIBUNE's silver trophy last fall for being adjudged the Big Ten player of greatest value to his team, has been in front since the voting began. He is followed by Pau[l] Pardonner, whose fine generalship kept Purdue among the nation's gridiron elite the last three seasons, and Homer Griffith, Southern California's brilliant all around back. The half back vote has been a three way race among Lukats of Notre Dame, Everhardus of Michigan and Feathers of Tennessee.

The two players receiving the greatest number of votes for each of the eleven positions will be brought to Chicago by THE TRIBUNE on Aug. 15 and for two weeks they will train at Northwestern university under the direction of one of the nation's most prominent coaches. In case a player chosen for the squad by the fans is unable to accept, the player receiving the next highest vote will be chosen. In addition to the 22 thus honored THE TRIBUNE will pick five or six additional replacements from the table appearing daily in this newspaper.

Vote Ends Wednesday.

The player vote will end next Wednesday. If you haven't selected your idea of a team [illegible] has a chance to whip the professional champions, do so at once. It costs nothing and you will enjoy the game all the more having had a part in the organization of the squad. This is going to be one of the most interesting football games ever played, regardless of the outcome. More people will have had a hand in it than any previous game. It will be broadcast from coast to coast.

WRITER DIES

I. E. SANBORN.

I. E. Sanborn Ends His Life; Retired Writer

Canandaigua, N. Y., July 18.—[Special.]—Irving E. [Sy] Sanborn, for more than 20 years a sports writer for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE until pensioned 14 years ago, committed suicide in the garden of his home here this evening. He shot himself through the head and died an hour later at the Canandaigua hospital.

Sanborn had resided here since retiring from newspaper work. He had been in ill health for some time and two years ago spent nearly eleven months in a sanitarium. He regained his health partly, but recently his old ailment again became annoying and it is believed despondency impelled him to take his own life. He was 67 years old.

Wife Hears Shot.

His wife heard a shot in the garden, where Sanborn frequently spent the evenings, about 7:20 o'clock. Alarmed, she called Mr. Sanborn's physician, who explored the garden and found Sanborn, still alive. The bullet had gone through the head from the right temple. The revolver was at his side. Sanborn never recovered consciousness.

Sanborn knew all the great men of baseball, especially in the American league. Among those who visited him here since his coming to Canandaigua were Ban Johnson, Walter Johnson, Tris Speaker, and Ty Cobb. Ring Lardner, with whom he worked on THE TRIBUNE, also was a visitor here only two years ago.

BORN IN VERMONT

For more than twenty years readers of THE TRIBUNE were familiar with the baseball articles of I. E. Sanborn, familiarly known as Sy. After retiring from active newspaper work fourteen years ago Sanborn retained his connections with the baseball world, serving for nine seasons on the commission which picked the most valuable player of the American and National leagues. Eventually he was honored with the chairmanship of this commission.

Sanborn was descended from a line of New England educators and was prepared for a career as a college professor, but immediately after his graduation from Dartmouth college he be-favors the chances of the All-American team of 1933 college seniors when the boys battle the Chicago Bears, national professional football champions, at Soldiers' field Friday night, Aug. 31.

Whoever wins—All-Americans or Bears—you'll want to see the game. Four thousand of the seats between the 25 yard lines are $1.65. Others are $1.10. All are reserved. Just mail check or money order, payable to The Chicago Tribune, to Football Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago.

Cleveland, O., July 18.—(AP)—Babe Ruth was injured by a smashing drive from the bat of his teammate, Lou Gehrig, today, and tonight a conference of physicians decided it would be several days before the extent of the injury could be determined.

Ruth, who was running to second base when he was knocked down by Gehrig's hard liner, was left here in his room at a hotel when the Yankees departed for Chicago tonight.

Dr. H. M. Castle, Cleveland club physician, who presided over the conference, said the injury may be either a tissue bruise or a subperiosteal hemorrhage. The former would enable the Babe to be up in a fortnight and the latter injury might keep him out for longer, Dr. Castle said.

Babe May Be Through.

Ruth has said that he believes this is his last season. Sports writers said tonight they thought the injury may slow him up so he can not finish the season.

The accident occurred in the third inning of the Yankees' game with the Cleveland Indians. The Indians won the game, 15 to 14.

Ruth had reached first on a single and, with the hit and run play on, headed for second with the crack of Gehrig's bat. He was assisted from the field by Coach Art Fletcher and Trainer Lefty Wiseman, and had to stop several times en route to the clubhouse.

Lou Gets a Hit.

The Yankees were leading by one run at the time of the accident. Combs and Saltzgaver had singled and Ruth was held to a single when his line drive rebounded off the right field wall. Gehrig was credited with a hit on the drive which incapacitated Ruth and Second Baseman Odell Hale was credited with the putout: Score:

JOHNSON TO STAY WITH CLEVELAND FOR 1934 SEASON

Cleveland, O., July 18.—[Special.]—Alva Bradley, owner of the Cleveland Indians, today asserted that Walter Johnson, present manager, would be retained for at least the remainder of the season. Fans have criticized Johnson for not making a better showing in the American league race, and, strangely enough, they have centered their attack on Johnson's handling of pitchers. In view of his own record he was expected to excel in this respect.

NEW YORK WINS SERIES WITH SIX RUNS IN THIRD

Chicagoans Now 3 Games Behind.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 18.—The Cubs, visitors at this unfriendly port these last five days, were accorded a sour salute at their farewell appearance against the champion Giants this afternoon. The champions, after some anxieties in the late phases, took the odd game of the series, 8 to 6, and sent the second placers on their way to Philadelphia three games out of first place, one peg lower than when they arrived from Boston last Friday night.

The main jolt to the Cubs' ambitions to leave town one game behind the league leaders came in a sorrowful third inning in which the Giants blasted Guy Bush and Charley Root for six runs, the fruits of two singles, a double and a single off Bush and Mel Ott's 22d homer, a single and a double off Root.

Cubs Become Aroused.

The Cubs made only two singles in the first five innings. Then they became aroused. Woody English broke through with a homer in the sixth and in the seventh they chased Fred Fitzsimmons in the midst of a foray in which th[ey] made five hits, got four runs home and had the tying runs on base with one out.

In the eighth the awakened Chicagoans got the bases full, but Joe Moore stopped this rally with a leaping catch of Sainback's near triple. And in the ninth Babe Herman led off with his ninth homer and Cuyler walked. Then came three infield outs and the end of the series.

Two singles, a walk and an infield out had given the enemy the winning run in the sixth. In addition Vergez knocked a homer as a greeting to Bud Tinning in the eighth.

The season series between the Cubs and Giants now stands at seven all. The matter will be taken up when the Giants get to Chicago on Aug. 26.

Bush Gets First Cub Hit.

After Klein had walked with two out and been forced by Babe Herman, the Giants started operations on Bush with a pair of hits. Moore opened the New York half of the first with a single to center. Critz helped out by grounding into a double play started by English. Terry singled to right, but Ott fouled to Hack.

The first Cub hit, a single to right center, was propelled by Bush with one out in the third. Billy Herman flied to Ott. Then English revived scoring hopes by walking, but Klein supplied the third out with a pop to the catcher.

Fitzsimmons showed Bush there were two slugging pitchers in the game when he singled to left with one out in the home third, an inning which gave the Giants six runs. Moore's potential double play ball took a bad hop just before it got to English and it went for a single, Fitzsimmons stopping at second. Critz doubled along the left foul line, Fitzsimmons scoring. Terry singled to left center, scoring Moore and Critz. This brought about the retirement of Bush and the entrance of Root.

Root Yields Homer.

Ott socked Root's first pitch into the upper deck of the right field stand, scoring behind Terry. O'Doul fouled to Hack, but Jackson beat out an infield hit and scored on Vergez's double to right. Jackson collided with Root as Charley was rushing to back up the plate. Jackson was waved across the plate and Vergez reached third during the mixup. Danning, who supplied the first out in the inning also supplied the third.

With two out in the fourth Manager Grimm decided to give Hartnett a well deserved rest and substituted Phelps, who singled for the second hit off Fitzsimmons. Grimm ended the inning with a fly to Moore.

MRS. ZECH LOSES TO MISS NELSON; MRS. JONES WINS

Women Golfers Advance to District Semi-Final.

Rena Nelson of Exmoor, runner-up last year, was the outstanding performer yesterday in the quarter final round of the women's Chicago district golf tournament at Flossmoor. Coming from behind she defeated Mrs. Lillian Zech, champion at Tam o' Shanter, 3 and 1, and turned in the week's lowest card, even par, 39—39—78.

Other winners were June Beebe, Olympia Fields, 5 and 4, over Diane Marks of Calumet; Mrs. Melvin Jones, Lincolnshire, 1 up over Mildred Hackl, Midlothian, and Hilda Livengood, 15 year old Flossmoor girl, 3 and 1 over Mrs. H. W. Tupper, former Olympia Fields champion.

Play Semi-Finals Today.

Both Miss Nelson and Mrs. Zech hung together on the outward nine, the latter sinking a 25 foot putt on the ninth to turn 1 up with a medal score of 38, one under par, to 39 for Rena. Coming home Rena hit a tree at the tenth and was short on her approach, taking a 7, and at the 11th she was again short on her approach, going 3 down.

At the 12th Mrs. Zech was down for a par 5, but Rena ran in a long putt for a birdie 4. At the 13th Rena lay a foot from the pin, and Mrs. Zech, having a long approach putt, stymied herself and lost.

Match Is Squared.

Rena evened it at the 14th with an 8 foot putt for another birdie, and then took the next three holes in succession. At the 15th a 5 foot putt gave her a par, as Mrs. Zech missed a 10 footer; at the 16th Rena had a par 4, Mrs. Zech dubbing her second and then overshooting the green. At the 17th Mrs. Zech's second was against a tree and she was out short, but Rena was on in 2 and down in 2 for her third birdie and the match ended. Rena shot out the one bye hole, getting a 5 for 39 and a 78 for the 18 holes.

Dole Takes Low Net at Chicago Golf

John L. Dole wasn't content with winning first low net for the second flight in the annual invitational tournament of the Chicago Golf club yesterday, but also lingered to take the putting contest which followed. His card of 85—15—70 led players with handicap ranging from 10 through 18, and his 35 on the putting green was the best in the field of 124 who competed in the tournament.

Heading the first flight, for players with handicaps of scratch through 8, was Francis R. Blossom, former Chicago district champion, who shot a 78—7—71, while R. R. Fauntleroy took the prize in the third flight, for those with handicaps of 19 or over, with 90—19—71.

Following Blossom were L. M. Nicolson, 78—6—72; S. L. Reinhardt Jr., 79—7—72, and Kingman Douglas, 81—9—72. Paul Walker, 82—11—71, and George A. Strom, 89—18—71, pursued Dole in the second flight, while the next best scorers in Fauntleroy's division were Ralph Chapman, 99—26—73; J. B. Hawley, 99—25—74, and Frank R. Wharton, 98—24—74.

Four 36s were made in the putting contest—by George Henneberry, R. J. Daly, T. A. Connors, and M. J. Smith.

WAKE LETTER BOX.

DEAR Wake: As an old, ardent 39th street admirer of the White Sox, I am in accord with the views of Helper C. P. R. for more cheap seats in these times of depression. As a ball player for 20 years and a follower for 30 years, here are some things the matter with the White Sox:

Trouble is with the management and not with any manager in particular, especially the last two. Spend some money for ball players other than those in Class B or C leagues. Quit talking about $125,000 beauties which was not actually paid in cash and who are playing great ball since being traded.

Purchase controlling interest in teams in two or three lower leagues, even at a financial loss, to develop ball players. In other words, follow the "farm system."

Reduce the price of seats and build up a team to finish one-two-three and the fans will crowd in again.

"Jiggers" Martin.

Harvey: Your old neighbor on Broadway, Jack Small, was talking with a friend over the phone, and the friend remarked: "Well, Jack, I suppose you are shooting in the 70's by this time." The reply: "Say, boy, you are talking to Small, not Little." Helen.

Wake: Loop Soliloquy from Windowsill 2731: Wigwams by the lake in the early days, simple ideas of the brain; now tall sooted dirty piles of stone, man's complex thinking. Virgin forests ran down to the lake those days; now running down to the lake, well, not so virgin.

Overhead the drone of Wright's ideas, Edison's ideas twinkling and flashing everywhere, and Bell and Marconi ideas swell the noise and make night bedlam. Little wabbling yachts have replaced the sturdy birch canoe, and Fulton's ideas flash here and there, but the big bend of the lake is the same as of yore.

The thin blue signal smoke of the Indian has been replaced and gosh, how it has been replaced. The tang fragrance of the forest has been blotted out by the darndest conglomeration of civilized odors that ever assailed man's nostrils. This is A Century of Progress. So be it. Loco.

The Boy and the Fish.

Wiggled his toes in a little stream.
A ten foot pole that he'd cut himself,
A line and a hook—his total wealth.
He sat on the bank of that silvery brook
And dangled a tempting worm on his hook.
A trout came weaving along quite slow
And played with the worm for a minute or so.
The worm was shy and resented the nerve
Of the trout, so he gave a wriggle and swerve,
That excited the trout, and in one gulp he took
Splashing! And twisting! And diving around
Till at last the trout weakened and the youngster found
That by swinging the pole he could land the big trout
And so the boy put his first "big one" to rout.

That's ages ago and I still can see
That gorgeous brook trout—for the youngster was me.

You'll know me and I'll know you.

Golf School Victors to Get Prizes Tonight

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The second annual free golf school conducted by THE TRIBUNE and the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association, the greatest plan of group instruction in the history of the game, will come to a conclusion tonight, when the final form contest is held at Mid-City, Grace street and Western avenue.

The 114 finalists, chosen from an original enrollment of 23,000 men, women and children to reprsent the 19 member courses of the Daily Fee association, will meet again for the last time to demonstrate the value of the teaching gained in the school before six of the leading professionals of the game.

Every golfer in the Chicago district is invited to attend this final competition of the school, since it will not be restricted to the 114 winners or their fellow pupils. Mid-City easily is accessible by surface and bus lines. Those who take advantage of the invitation to attend will witness not only the final test of all these pupils and their swings, but also an exhibition of shots by the jury of six and other professionals.

Must Report Early.

Each of the 114 must report at Mid-City between 6:30 and 7 o'clock tonight for the numbered arm bands which will serve as their identification during the contest. The actual contest will start at 8 o'clock, each pupil in turn taking his or her place on a platform which will be erected between the six judges and the audience. Thus every student's swing will be clear to all present. Each pupil will be judged on the basis of 100 points, so that 600 points will constitute a perfect record for one pupil. Each will be allowed four swings during his or her time on the platform—front, right, left and rear. All of the finalists will be seated on a semicircle of benches while awaiting their individual turns.

Judges Are Well Known.

This jury of judges needs little, if any, introduction, either as players or instructors. It includes Horton Smith of Oak Park, winner of the Masters' tournament at Bobby Jones' Augusta course; Harry Cooper of Glen Oak, who within the last month has won the western open, the Illinois open, the Illinois P. G. A., and tied for first in the St. Paul open; Tommy Armour of Medinah, who has held every major title open to professionals; Frank Walsh of Bryn Mawr, a consistent winner in big time tournaments; Jock Hutchison of Glen View, former British open, national P. G. A., and western open title-holder, and Dick Metz of Mill Road Farm, one of the rising generation of younger stars who has come up with Johnny Revolta, Ky Laffoon, and Ralph Guldahl.

The prizes won in the 18 hole tournament at Mission Hills last Saturday will be presented along with the awards for the form contest after the victors in the latter have been decided tonight. The fact that a pupil did not win a prize in the tournament Saturday need not deter him or her from taking part in tonight's contest. Form, not scoring ability, will be the basis of tonight's final, and all will have an equal opportunity to win.

Play Off Two Ties.

Four contestants will appear at 5:30 o'clock today to settle ties resulting from the tournament at Mission Hills. Mrs. Mildred Simmons, Hickory Hills, and Evelyn Jacobs, Mid-City, will play for first place in the individual women's class, while Mrs. Esther O'Brien, Westgate Valley, and Helen Widing, Chicago Meadows, will meet for third place among the women in the couples' division.

came a newspaper man. He was born in the little town of Albany, Vt., on Nov. 28, 1866. A great deal of his boyhood was spent on a farm near Newport, Vt., to which his father had been forced to retire when overtaken by ill health.

Graduated with Honors.

After his father's death Sanborn left the farm and began fitting himself for a career as an educator. He went through his preliminary schooling at St. Johnsburg, Vt., and then attended Dartmouth, from which he was graduated in 1889 with an A. B. degree and Phi Beta Kappa honors.

Being assured of a teaching position at a school near Boston as soon as the fall term began, he took what was expected to be a temporary job on the Springfield [Mass.] Union. But he liked the work so well that he decided to remain in the newspaper business.

Yale and Harvard had selected Springfield as neutral ground for playing their baseball and football games. Sanborn was assigned to cover these events. Then Springfield entered a team in the original Eastern Baseball league, and Sanborn took over the job of reporting the games.

Well Informed Writer.

For eleven years Sanborn remained with the Springfield Union, covering baseball in the summer and theatrical performances in the winter. During that time he became a close friend of Tom Burns, a member of the Chicago Cubs' "stonewall infield" and subsequently manager of the club. With Burns' help, Sanborn became one of the best informed baseball writers in the business.

When the American league located a club in Chicago in 1900 THE TRIBUNE required the services of another baseball reporter, and Sanborn was given the job. He was with THE TRIBUNE from that time until 1920.

He aided in the development of the Baseball Writers' association, being a charter member of that organization, which was formed in 1909. He was a director for many years and eventually became president of the association.

What Is a Tiger Muskie? Tribune Guide Explains

BY BOB BECKER.

When a Chicagoland fisherman was reported a few days ago to have caught a tiger muskie in northern Wisconsin weighing more than 40 pounds it revived the seasonal discussion about what or why is a tiger muskie.

There is probably no one feature about the muskie that is less understood than the ability of the fish to change its markings. And in this characteristic of the big pike is found the answer to the tiger business.

THE TRIBUNE's handbook of fish and fishing, entitled "The Fisherman's Guide," recently published in a revised, 1934 edition, takes up the question of why some muskies are called tigers and others are classed in just the common run of muskalunge. Chapter two of the "Guide" [which is on sale at the Public Service office of THE TRIBUNE, 1 South Dearborn street, Chicago] discusses both the muskie and the northern pike or pickerel.

One of the first topics in this chapter is concerned with the fact that nature gives some muskies a number of distinctive markings which cause one to believe that it is a distinctive species. Although scientists have proved time and again that muskies can open or close their color cells in the skin to change their markings so that the fish blends into its background more effectively, the old belief that there is a tiger muskie species still is going strong.

As the "Fisherman's Guide," points out, the Wisconsin muskie has the ability to change its spots according to the color of the water in which it lives, the kind of weed beds, or other natural cover available. The fish may develop pronounced cross bars like the Ohio muskies, spots much like the St. Lawrence species, or have both spots and bars.

Just to show how the Wisconsin muskie can alter his makeup even further, there are fish in dark water Wisconsin lakes which are a deep, rich bronze in color, with only a few bars or spots near the tail.

In the "Guide," fishermen are given an outline of the various species of muskies found in the United States and their distribution. Moreover, the book tells the fisherman how he always can distinguish between a muskie and the big pickerel or northern pike by examining the gill covers and cheeks.

The "Fisherman's Guide," on sale at the Public Service office, is 30 cents by mail, or 25 cents if purchased over the counter.

Boston Scores 9 Runs in First Inning.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox were unfortunate enough to have nine runs scored against them in the first inning yesterday. Slightly dazed as they were by this happening, they proved rather meek foes in a battle that went into Boston's Red Sox winning ledger by a mere margin of 16 to 3. To add to the embarrassment, the south side favorites were humbled in their run getting endeavors by one Joe Mulligan, an ungainly sapling only a few weeks out of Holy Cross college.

The first inning was a wild affair because the Boston boys refused to be awed by either Whitlow Wyatt or Phil Gallivan. Wyatt was in there long enough to face five batters, none of whom he retired. Gallivan dashed to the rescue and six men faced him before he could stop the riot which totaled five hits, two errors and three bases on balls.

Homers Are Frequent.

The production of nine runs on a limited number of hits is easily explained. One explanation is that with two on base Roy Johnson whacked a homer into the seats for three of the first four runs off Wyatt. Another explanation is that later in the inning, when the bags were loaded as the result of Gallivan's generosity and a Boken blunder at short, Bill Cissell spanked the ball out of the premises. It was the ex-White Sox employe's second hit of the inning. He started the rumpus with a two bagger.

The home run idea as revealed by Cissell and Johnson in the first inning took so well that a couple other Boston workmen staged it with successful results in the subsequent innings. Rick Ferrell sailed one into the stands in the third with the bases empty and Dusty Cooke did it in the fourth with two mates waiting. Gallivan also was the victim of these but despite the jolts was permitted to stick to the job until the seventh, when the easterners finally banished him by scoring two more on singles and a double. This also was the first inning in which the Chicagoans were able to get a man around to the plate.

Trouble Comes Early.

The terrifying happenings in the nine run first inning started with Cissell's double to right. Werber bunted and Wyatt fumbled the ball. Morgan singled to right to score Cissell. Johnson poked his homer into the upper deck in right, Werber and Morgan preceding him over the counter. Solters walked and that was the end of Wyatt's term on the mound.

Gallivan stepped into the vacancy and the fun then broke out in a big way. The rescuer walked Cooke and the bases became jammed to the limit when Boken erred on Ferrell's grounder. Lary also walked and Solters was forced to score because of lack of room. That made five runs. Mulligan fanned and there was much applause. Then Cissell, up for the second time, walloped his homer into the left field second story. That added four more runs. The rioting continued when Werber beat out a bunt, but it was halted abruptly on Morgan's roller, which was turned into a double play.

More Boston Homers.

Gallivan kept the place in order during the second, but in the third Ferrell blew a homer into the left field stand, making it 10 to 0. This was stretched to 13 to 0 in the fourth. With one gone, Johnson singled to center and Solters walked. Cooke brought his two pals in out of the sun by smacking the ball into seats back of the left field score board.

The next outbreak against Gallivan occurred in the seventh, when Cissell made his third contribution. Leggett, who had taken Rick Ferrell's place, singled to left with one out. He took third on Lary's single to center. Mulligan sustained his perfect record at bat by fanning for the fourth straight time. Then Cissell lined a two bagger over first, sending Leggett and Lary home.

Sox Get a Run.

Until they scored off the collegian in the seventh the White Sox had done nothing worthy of mention. Their high water mark for six innings was getting one man to third base, and this was made possible by a passed ball. Three successive hits were the cause of the improvement in the seventh. Hopkins slapped a single to left with one out and Shea singled to the same spot. Lyons then batted for Gallivan and singled to center to move Hopkins across the plate.

The scoring done by the Sox in the eighth started on singles by Bocek, Bonura, and Dykes. These filled the bases. Mulligan then grew weary and walked both Boken and Hopkins, forcing two runs home.

Talking It Over

[Copyright: 1934: By The Chicago Tribune.]

TURF reporters are kidding Col. E. R. Bradley for forgetting to nominate his fast running filly, Black Helen, for the rich 2 year old stakes. . . . The colonel did not slip up entirely, however. . . . He nominated Black Helen for the Saratoga Special. . . . This is one of the real sporting races of the year. . . . Owners pay $1,000 each to start their star 2 year olds. . . . All the starting fees and a small amount of added money go to the owner of the winning juvenile. . . . The Saratoga Special was won last year by Wise Daughter, which raced for Fred Burton of Chicago. . . . Ed Krause of Notre Dame, who is polling a heavy vote for tackle in the all-star game to be played at Soldiers' field Aug. 31, will assist George Keogan in demonstrating the fine points of basketball at a coaching school at Texas Tech before reporting for football practice with the team that will meet the Bears. . . .

Babe Herman of the Cubs recently presented Trainer Andy Lotshaw with a swell pair of sport shoes. . . . They fretted Andy's dogs and a portly sports writer whose feet spread when he walks is now breaking in the shoes for the doc. . . . E. C. Bliss, English golfer, 21 years ago drove a ball 445 yards, the longest on record. . . . Fred Spurgeon, the best shortstop in the American league in 1926, has definitly given up baseball. . . . His eyes are failing him. . . . Balbonero Acosta, Cuban consul in Chicago, is the Merito Acosta who once played outfield in the major leagues and later was in the American association. . . . Charley Bidwill has taken his yacht to Manitowoc to have a new keel laid. . . . Benny Ross, brother of Champion Barney, has a novelty shop concession at the World's Fair and now and then the welterweight and lightweight title holder doffs his coat and becomes a salesman. . . .

It is either a tribute to the caliber of football at their school or to the enthusiasm of fans in the community, but nine players from the University of Southern California are among those listed in the national poll that is being taken to determine the personnel of the college all-stars for the game at Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 31. . . . Bob Smith, trainer for Cavalcade, was to have gone on the air last Thursday night, but got his days mixed up and appeared at the NBC studio on Wednesday. . . . He raised such a rumpus that time was found for him. . . . He bought an early edition of THE TRIBUNE on the way home and read that he was to go on the air Thursday night. . . . He then swore the newsboy had sold him a day old paper. . . . He wasn't straightened out until he reached Arlington next day and was informed that his Thursday broadcast had been canceled because of his impromptu appearance. . . .

Illinois has designated the Bradley football game, Sept. 29, as the annual Boy Scout and school children day. . . . When Joe Boland, assistant football coach at Notre Dame, received a broken leg in a game against Minnesota the injury was inflicted by a teammate who clipped him accidentally when both were trying to block a punt. . . . John Titus, right fielder for the Phillies years ago, nearly lost his distinction of being the last player with a mustache in the National league. . . . One of Bill Terry's Giants recently started a lip hedge, but a vigilance committee overpowered him and dispatched the adornment. . . . Mort Shaw, mutuel plant manager at Arlington Park, had $10,000 worth of silver for change last Saturday and when the last race had been paid off only $186 remained. . . .

Charley Kocsis, Michigan golfer, gets opponents' goats by making them putt out the ones under six inches. . . . In the intercollegiate championship meet at Cleveland he upset one rival so badly the latter hooked a drive into the rough that required two strokes to get back. . . . Johnny Sherrod, a member of the Lincoln park police, holds a decision over King Levinsky. . . . He whipped the Kingfish in a six round match four years ago. . . . A football field and tennis courts are being constructed in Vatican City. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—The United States swimming team led the Olympic competition with 115 points. . . . Sammy Mandell decisively defeated Joe Azzarella in a ten round bout at East Chicago. . . . Helen Wills and Vincent Richards reached the finals in the Olympic tennis tournament. . . . Sparky Adams' hitting gave the Cubs a 2 to 1 victory over the Phillies. . . . George Loot and Alex Gravem eliminated William Tilden and Sandy Weiner in the semi-final round of the Illinois state tennis tournament.

JONES PICKS TEAM

Los Angeles, Cal., July 18.—[Special.]—Declaring that if they don't get too many bad breaks the collegians will make things mighty interesting for the Chicago Bears in the All-Star football game to be played at Chicago on Aug. 31 Howard Jones, football coach at the University of Southern California, today selected the team he feels is best equipped to oppose the professional champions.

Here is the team Jones picked:

Tackles—Krause [Notre Dame] and Wistert [Michigan].
Guards—Corbus [Stanford] and Schammel [Iowa].
Center—Bernard [Michigan].
Quarter back—Laws [Iowa].
Full back—Keeble [U. C. L. A.].

"I have seen many of these men play and know they are good," said Jones. "Skladany and Smith both showed us plenty here in southern California. We have bumped into Krause three times. Corbus is a fine guard. I well remember the work of Lukats against us in 1930, and Wilson has always played good football when we have met him.

"Normally I would pick Sauer for full back, but they tell me he won't be able to play. Keeble is consistently good. Mikulak of Oregon has not looked impressive when we have played the Webfeet, but he might be just the type to go well against the big professionals. With proper substitutes, these eleven players would make it interesting against the pros.

"I am not naming any of my own players for obvious reasons. Were I to do so I would want to pick practically every senior who graduated because they have all played fine football for the university."

STAGG, NEARING 72, PLAYS TENNIS ON U. OF C. COURTS

Amos Alonzo Stagg, who will be 72 years old four weeks from today, played a vigorous game of tennis on the University of Chicago courts yesterday with his son Paul as opponent.

Mr. Stagg arrived in Chicago Tuesday from the west coast, after stopping at a small town in Nebraska for a few days of rest and to think over plays for the forthcoming season. Stagg and Mrs. Stagg and Paul will go east next week to visit Mr. Stagg's sister in New Jersey, and will return to spend August in Chicago. They will stop at Moravian college, in Pennsylvania, where Paul will coach football next fall.

Giants Whip Cubs, 8-6; Add to Their Lead

Cuyler Fails to Help.

This left a situation whereby the Cubs had the tying runs on base with one out. Hope faded when Cuyler popped to Terry and the side was out with the score 7 to 5 on Phelps' tap to Critz.

Joiner, the third Cub pitcher, retired Ott, Leiber, and Jackson in order in the Giants' seventh.

Three hits availed the Cubs nothing in the eighth. Hack beat out an infield single with one out and was forced by Galan, who batted for Joiner. Billy Herman singled past second, and English singled off Luque's glove, filling the bases. Moore made a leaping catch of Stainback's drive to left for the third out.

Tinning Pitches Homer.

Babe Herman led off the ninth with a homer into the upper deck in deep right. Cuyler walked and took second when Phelps went out, Terry to Luque. Grimm then tapped to Luque, who threw to Terry for the out, Cuyler taking third. Vergez threw out Hack.

CATHERINE WOLFE LOSES IN ESSEX TENNIS TOURNEY

Manchester, Mass., July 18.—[Special.]—Catherine Wolfe of Elkhart, Ind., was defeated today in the quarter finals of the Essex county women's invitational tennis tournament by Mrs. Marjorie Painter of Dedham, seeded number one, and who won the title in 1932. The scores were 6-1, 12-10.

Pat Malone to Open Against Phillies Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 18.—The Cubs hastened to the Pennsylvania depot after today's game and there took a train which had them in Philadelphia at 9 o'clock. Pat Malone is scheduled to pitch the opener of the four game series.

Until noon today it was thought that Bush would not be able to pitch, inasmuch as his earache still was troubling him. An hour before game time the pain ceased and the Cub starting pitching problem was solved. Before Bush's recovery it appeared that Manager Grimm would have to start Tinning. Weaver's side still is hurting as the result of his dive over first base in the opener of the Giants series.

Sometimes official estimates of large crowds are a bit awry, but a check-up today revealed that the paid attendance here yesterday was only a few under the announced 44,000. In addition there were 2,500 boys entertained as guests, and a pass gate total of slightly more than 1,500.

Giant fans apparently are not pulling for a five cent world series, that is, an all New York clash. Every time a score unfavorable to the Yanks is posted on the Polo grounds scoreboard there is much raucous shouting by the customers.

U. S. Track Team Wins 4 of 7 Events

DUSSELDORF, Germany, July 18.—(AP)—The barnstorming team of American track and field stars, led by John Lyman, the husky weight tosser from Stanford university, won four out of seven first places today in their third meet this week.

Lyman easily won the shot put and discus throw, while Ivan Fuqua of Indiana and Gene Venzke of Pennsylvania turned in the other American victories. It took a German record performance by Weinkoetz of Cologne to beat George Spitz of New York in the high jump. Spitz leaped 6 feet, 4¾ inches, but the German cleared 6 feet, 5 11/16 inches.

Venzke avenged yesterday's defeat by Szabo of Hungary by finishing six-tenths of a second ahead of his rival in somewhat slower time than the event was run at Cologne. The Pennsylvanian was timed in 3:59.8 to Szabo's 4:00.4.

Fay Draper, California sprinter, tied for second place in the 100-meter dash, won by Heithoff of Germany in 10.8 seconds. Elton Brown of Pittsburg, Kas., teachers, could finish no better than fourth in the 800-meter run and was not even timed.

MILLERS BATTLE A. A. ALL-STAR TEAM TODAY

Minneapolis, Minn., July 18.—(AP)—An all-star team selected through a poll of fans in the eight member cities of the American association will meet the Minneapolis Millers, leaders of the league, in a players' benefit game here tomorrow.

Players from five cities, Milwaukee, Kansas City, St. Paul, Toledo, and Indianapolis, are on the roster of the all-star aggregation, which will have Al Sothoron, Milwaukee pilot, as the manager. Five Brewers are just about certain to start the game.

The combined batting efforts of the selected players thus far in league play is about .325. Heading the cast is Earl Webb, right fielder, for Milwaukee, the leading batsman of the association.

Detroit Pitcher Yields Seven Hits.

Detroit, Mich., July 18.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers made it two out of three over the Washington Senators today, taking the final game of the series, 4 to 2. Tommy Bridges pitched well for Detroit, yielding seven hits and two passes. The Tigers combined two singles and a double in the fourth for two runs, and scored the deciding run in the eighth on a single by Bridges, Fox's sacrifice, and Walker's hit. Score:

BLACK MISS PAYS $130; ARLINGTON SEASON RECORD

BY FRENCH LANE.

Long shot players had a chance to exercise their vocal apparatus after the running of the fifth race, a mile dash over the turf, at Arlington Park yesterday.

Black Miss, a tiny black daughter of Whiskalong-The Misses, was in the struggle under the feather of 97 pounds. She was making her thirteenth start of the year, and in all except one of her previous encounters she had indicated a lack of gameness.

Black Miss had been pnt down as a quitter, and all the folks who had wagered on her earlier in the season, except about fifty, deserted her before she stepped out in this rac.

Few Risk Money on Her.

Few had nerve enough to wager more than $2, but when Black Miss ran with the gameness of a Cavalcade, withstood a determined challenge down the stretch, and got the decision by a nose, they made more noise than 10,000 usually do when a favorite wins.

The noise grew in volume and reached its peak when the mutuel betting figures were hung out. Black Miss paid $130.60 to win, $69.46 to place and $16.34 to show. She was the longest priced winner of the Arlington season. Black Miss may never run another race, but she always will be remembered by the fifty folks who wagered on her yesterday.

Futurity Candidates Sparkle.

Two candidates for the $60,000 Arlington futurity were in the limelight along with Black Miss. Both won their engagements before one of the largest week day crowds of the Arlington season in most impressive fashion.

The first to come to the front was Nellie Flag, racing for Warren Wright's Calumet Farm stable. She raced in a field of the best 2 year old fillies quartered on the grounds. Showing that she was one of the hardest stretch running fillies that has been seen under colors here this year, she came from behind to beat Royal Duchess from the Mrs. John Hertz stable by three-quarters of a length. Spanish Babe, the favorite, was third.

Daughter of Nellie Morse.

Nellie Flag is a daughter of the great racing mare Nellie Morse, and looks and runs like her famous mother, which won a Preakness and many other famous stakes. Her sire is American Flag, which was probably the best of all of Man o' War's sons.

This was the first time she had ever faced the starter and she was unruly at the barrier. Once in stride, she proved to be a real runner. She was highly fancied by many in the crowd and paid 4 to 1.

St. Bernard Easy Winner.

The other Futurity eligible to show fine speed and running ability was St. Bernard, owned by Earl Dale Shaffer of Chicago. This son of the imported sire Bulldog ran away from some of the most fashionable 2 year olds that have raced in the west this season.

He ran so fast the issue was not even close at the end, for he beat Midvictorian from the Warm stable by four lengths. Fraidy Cat, owned by Hal Price Headley, finished third. St. Bernard was a stake winner early in the season in Kentucky, but had not shown much ability since.

St. Bernard smothered his rivals all the way in the Lake Bluff purse and ran the 5½ furlongs in 1:04 2-5, which was one-fifth of a second off the track record made a couple of years ago by Crowning Glory.

World Series from the Brookmeade stable had been installed as the odds on favorite, but never figured in the running. St. Bernard paid $8.92. It was a big price on a colt that could run so fast.

Speedy Horses to Gallop Today at Arlington Park

The big colony of horsemen at Arlington Park regard today's program as the best weekday offering of the year in Chicago.

The Diversey purse at a mile is the feature and engages the Brookmeade stables Sleuth, Mrs. John Hertz' Red John and Saint, the Southland stables Play Hooky and C. V. Whitney's Elf Lock.

In addition there is a race over the turf at a mile and a sixteenth which attracted Oscillation, Fair Sickle, Prince Pest, Noah's Pride and others. Some of the outstanding 2 year old fillies on the grounds meet in another event. The juveniles include Slim Rosie, Good Gamble, Needle, Hasty Glance, Mrs. Fab, Blessed Again, and Countess Bina.

The big western division of the C. V. Whitney stable in charge of Trainer Mose Goldblatt arrived at the Hawthorne track yesterday for the annual summer meeting opening there on July 30.

Seven of the likely starters in the Arlington handicap to be run on Saturday were asked for extensive training trials yesterday morning. Ladysman went a mile and a furlong in 2:04 3-5 and appeared to be sore when he pulled up. Brookmeade stables Inlander and Time Clock went the same distance in 1:53 and both were in hand at the finish. Riskulus traveled a mile and a quarter well in hand in 2:11 3-5. New Deal showed more speed and galloped a mile in 1:40 3-5 and his stable companion Howard was right with him. Navanod which won the Peabody handicap at Washington Park worked an impressive mile and a furlong in 1:52 as Cold Stream stud's Marmion went a mile and a quarter in 2:09.

Jocky C. Lamb tossed another race away for the Audley farm stables by his weak effort on Wacoche in the fourth race. Wacoche was beaten a half length by Jens Son.

Two horses were claimed out of the fourth event. T. C. Worden of Chicago took Salaam from C. V. Whitney for $3,000, and Wacoche was claimed by Corsicana stable of Texas for the same amount.

RAIL GROUPING IN NEW ENGLAND BELIEVED NEAR

Joint Operation Under Trustees Planned.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 18.—A plan for grouping the principal New England railroads into two systems for coordinated operation under the supervision of boards of trustees has been accepted in principle by the presidents of the Pennsylvania railroad and the New York Central railroad, it was reported today in well informed quarters.

The Central's interest is the Boston and Albany railroad, which would be coördinated under this plan, sponsored by the council of New England governors, with the Bangor and Aroostook and the Maine Central railroads. The Pennsylvania directly and indirectly has the dominant interest in the New York, New Haven and Hartford and the Boston and Maine railroads, which would form the other unified group.

Marks from Years' Efforts.

The plan is the consummation of four years of effort by the New England governors to keep their territory out of the sphere of influence of the Pennsylvania railroad. It is being advanced on behalf of the governors, by Bentley Warren, general counsel of their organization.

Management of the two systems would be lodged in two boards of six trustees each, representing each of the six New England states. Homer Loring, former chairman of the Boston and Maine railroad, is understood to be the choice for chairmanship of the board to direct the New Haven-Boston and Maine system.

Against I. C. C. Consolidation Plan.

This alignment of New England roads cuts squarely across the interstate commerce commission's plan of consolidation which left the Boston and Albany in the New York Central system, linked the Bangor and Aroostook and Maine Central with the Boston and Maine, along with the Delaware and Hudson and the Ogdensburg and Lake Champion division of the Rutland, and gave the New Haven the Lehigh and Hudson, Lehigh and New England, and New York, Ontario and Western.

However, the sponsors are trying to draft their unification plan in such a way that commission action will not be necessary. No change in ownership of the securities is involved, but the independent boards of trustees will have the power to coördinate operations and eliminate wasteful competition.

League of Nations Reports U. S. Trade Abroad Rises

GENEVA, July 18.—(AP)—A League of Nations review of world trade, issued today, says that from the middle of 1933 both the exports and imports in United States trade showed a marked improvement. The review said that the decline in the quantity of world trade which began in 1929, was arrested in 1933 when there was a slight increase.

BUTTER FUTURES STEADY; EGGS OFF ONE-EIGHTH CENT

Butter futures were steady at the close on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. Eggs eased ⅛ cent. Butter news was bearish, but sellers were active only at times and enough buying developed at the close to hold November unchanged. The four markets stored 108,000 pounds more than last year and the Land o' Lakes reported production 4.8 per cent greater than last year, and 1.9 per cent above the previous week.

Eggs storage news was bullish, the shortage being increased 10,000 cases in the four markets.

Power Production Unchanged for Nation but Increases Here

Electricity output for the country last week showed no change from a year ago, the first time in 62 weeks, according to the Edison Electric institute. In the Chicago district production increased 1.8 per cent over the corresponding week of last year, Commonwealth Edison company announced.

The national total for the period was 1,647,680,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 1,555,844,000 for the preceding week, when a gain of 1.1 per cent over 1933 was registered. The total for the Chicago area was 98,505,000 kilowat hours, against 92,135,000 for the preceding week and 96,798,000 for the corresponding week of last year.

KILOWATT-HOUR OUTPUT.

July 14	98,505,000	96,798,000	1.8

Middle Atlantic, 2.7 per cent against 5.8 per cent; west central, 0.7 per cent against 1.6 per cent; Rocky mountain, 0.2 per cent against 1.7 per cent; Pacific coast, 10.5 per cent against 11.9 per cent.

New England, 9.8 per cent against 11.3 per cent; central industrial, 1 per cent against 0.3 per cent; southern states, 4.2 per cent gainst 4.2 per cent.

FARMER TO ATTACK CONSTITUTIONALITY OF COTTON CONTROL

Jackson, Miss., July 18.—(AP)—A "300 bale" Mississippi cotton farmer today served notice here of his intention to attack the constitutionality of the Bankhead cotton act in the United States courts.

Gaston Therrell of Columbus, in Lowndes county, will bring the suit in the United States District court at Meridian, directing it against Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, and internal revenue and extension officials in the state charged with execution of the act's provisions, his attorneys said.

The suit will specifically ask for "a declaration of right and of invalidity of said statute and of the regulations thereunder passed, and that complainant be thereunder confirmed in his rights as an American citizen to carry on in his own way and with his own for his own welfare, free from bureaucratic control, and allowed those privileges in accordance with the constitution," the attorneys announced.

The Bankhead act, passed at the last session of congress, seeks to limit production of cotton by fixing ginning quotas for the entire cotton belt and each cotton producer in the belt.

CHINESE COTTON KING FAILS; U. S. MARKET PERILED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, July 19 [Thursday].—The American market for raw cotton and wheat in China is likely to be adversely affected, due to the failure of the Yung Chung-ching cotton and flour syndicate, the largest industrial combine in China, which was largely owned by C. C. Yung, China's "cotton and wheat king."

It is claimed that the combine owns twenty-one cotton and flour mills and employs 300,000 laborers, 40,000 of whom are in Shanghai.

While the concern's affairs have long been complicated, government action recently in reducing the tarif on cotton goods allegedly precipitated the crisis here, due to obligations largely held by the Shanghai banks, amounting to the equivalent of $30,000,000 in United States currency.

The Chinese government appointed a committee of investigation and empowered the company to float a $20,000,000 bond issue in order to keep the mills in operation, due to fear that closing them would precipitate a political issue because of the large employment of labor involved.

APPOINT POWER COMMISSIONERS; OUTLINE STUDIES

Washington, D. C., July 18.—(AP)—Whether and how to unify the nation's supply of electricity and standardize the rate structure will be investigated by President Roosevelt's new national power policy committee in its effort to find a means of providing power cheaply to all users. Subcommittees to work in these and five other fields were named today by Secretary Ickes, the chairman, as the committee assembled for its initial meeting.

Morris L. Cooke of the public works Mississippi Valley committee, Major General Edward M. Markham of the army engineers, and Frank R. McNinch of the power commission were designated to outline a plan of action and suggest the personnel set up. Cooke, who was named vice chairman, will head the subcommittee to study rate standardization. A subcommittee under David E. Lilienthal of the Tennessee Valley authority will look into unification of supply.

Other subcommittees and their heads are: regulations of holding companies, Robert E. Healy of the stock exchange commission; government purchase of power, Markham; hydroelectric supply and its connotations, McNinch; rural electrification, T. W. Norcross, assistant forester, United States forest service; coöperation with state commissions, Dr. Elwood Mead of the reclamation bureau.

SPIEGEL, MAY STERN PROFITS SHOW BIG GAIN

Net profit of Spiegel, May, Stern company, Chicago mail order company, was $666,469 for the quarter ended June 30, according to an announcement issued yesterday by M. J. Spiegel, chairman of the board. This equaled $3.43 a common share and compared with net profit of $179,914, or 65 cents a common share, for the second quarter of 1933.

Net profit for the first six months of this year was $1,265,270, or $6.47 a share, against 22 cents a share a year ago.

The company in 1933 anticipated higher prices and built up its inventory account from $487,694 to $3,084,109. Part of the increased inventory was financed by bank loans, which stood at $2,850,000 at the close of 1933.

NATIONAL STEEL HEAD EXPECTS BETTER TRADE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 18.—Ernest T. Weir, chairman of the National Steel corporation, looks for improvement in steel business by the middle of August, with further betterment possible in September. He believes steel prices are stabilized and says that new quotations have been well received by the consuming trade.

Mr. Weir, who sailed today for Bermuda, said:

"It is known that other important steel makers have privately expressed similar views recently regarding the price situation although the initial move toward reductions was frowned upon by a number of interests."

NEW YORK CITY GETS 58 MILLION LOAN AT 3.81%

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 18.—New York City saves a total of $3,450,000 in interest under the terms of a revised agreement reached tonight between the city and a banking syndicate for the purchase by the banks of $58,000,000 of city securities.

The new arrangement disposes of the securities at an average interest rate of 3.81 against the average rate of 4.0365 offered by the banks and rejected by the city on July 10. On that date the city offered $72,000,000 of securities, made up of $60,000,000 in serial bonds and $12,000,000 in corporate stock notes due next May. The only portion sold went to the Emigrant Savings bank which took $2,000,000 of serial bonds at an average interest rate of 3.88.

Shorter Maturity Desired.

The banks announced tonight that the lowered interest rate was made possible by the city's willingness to shorten the maturity of the bonds. The average maturity of the bonds was cut from fifteen to seven years, enabling the banks to offer a lower average interest rate.

Judging from the current prices of city obligations the banks said there was a much stronger public demand for short term securities than for long term bonds. The shortened maturity was made possible by the city taking $36,000,000 of short term bonds out of the sinking fund and replacing them with an equal amount of long term paper.

Details of Arrangement.

In describing the new purchasing agreement, Controler McGoldrick said: "We have worked out a new arrangement with the banking syndicate which includes the Chase, National City, First National, Bankers Trust, the Guaranty, and others associated with the syndicate. Under this arrangement I sell to them $22,000,000 of the original offering of serial bonds. For the bonds maturing in 1935 the interest rate is 1⅛ per cent; 1936, 2¼ per cent; 1937, 3 per cent; 1938 to 1946, 3¾ per cent; 1947 to 1949, 3½ per cent.

"In addition the commissioners of the sinking fund have authorized me to sell $36,000,000 of serial bonds from the sinking fund, maturing from 1935 to 1945. These are 4 per cent bonds, and are sold at 100.06. The $36,000,000 plus the $22,000,000 disposes of $58,000,000 at an average interest rate of about 3.8. We are reserving the remaining $12,000,000 of corporate stock notes in confidence that we can sell them at a rate of not more than 1½ per cent."

COTTON HITS NEW HIGH BUT REACTS FROM TOP

Cotton prices yesterday moved more than 50 cents a bale higher into new top territory for the season, but encountered profit taking and fell back below the previous close. A subsequent rally followed, carrying values slightly above the previous session. Chicago closed 2 to 6 points higher, New Orleans 2 lower to 3 higher, and New York 4 to 7 higher.

Spot prices were unchanged at 13.20 in New Orleans and 13.10 in Galveston and 5 points higher at 13.35 in New York and 13.15 in Houston.

GRAINS ADVANCE THOUGH TRADE IS LESS ACTIVE

Bullish Crop News Main Factor.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Grain prices advanced again yesterday, but the market lacked the snap which characterized Tuesday's trading and the net gains amounted to less than a cent a bushel on the principal futures. News was predominently bullish.

Continued deterioration of the corn crop in the southwestern states with consequent reductions in the probable yields was reported. The day's news budget also contained several messages which gave unfavorable appraisals of the condition of the wheat crop in western Canada. The Canadian reports came from several sources and were given more credence than the earlier advices of similar tone.

Wheat Up ⅜ to ⅝ cent.

Closing quotations on wheat futures showed gains ranging from ⅜ to ⅝ cent a bushel and corn futures registered corresponding advance. September wheat closed at $1.00 to $1.00¼ a bushel, the first time this delivery has closed above the dollar market in several weeks. The December wheat delivery has been above a dollar for several days and closed yesterday at $1.01⅞.

September corn finished at 63⅜ cents and the December contract was quoted at 65⅝ cents. The spread between the September and December deliveries, which was abnormally small recently, has widened to more normal proportions this week. Oat futures sold ⅛ cent lower to ¼ cent higher, while rye and barley closed fractionally higher.

Holiday in Liverpool.

The king and queen of England were visiting Liverpool yesterday and the traders there took the day off to celebrate, so there was no news from that scurce to influence operations here. In Winnipeg, however, pessimistic crop news brought about a fair advance in whate prices.

Purchases of cash grain yesterday for shipment to Chicago were decidedly below the previous day's figures. Reported corn purchases aggregated 580,000 bushels, a large volume for a single day, but materially below the 2,000,000 bushels bought Tuesday which perhaps constituted the biggest volume in the grain for any day in the history of the market here. Only 52,000 bushels of wheat were bought for arrival here.

Corn Estimate Reduced.

The extent and irreparable nature of the damage which the southwestern corn crop is undergoing at present due to the heat wave is causing wholesale overhauling of previous estimates on the probable yields.

To bring his estimate on the yield in nine corn states in line with the current outlook, Nat C. Murray yesterday cut his earlier forecast of 1,378,000,000 bushels to 1,092,000,000 bushels. Based on July 1 prospects the government last week estimated the crop in the same nine states at 1,262,000,000 bushels.

The Canadian news was featured by the report of Gordon Brown, Canadian crop authority, who asserted that the prospect through western Canada is rapidly changing for the worse. Lack of reserve moisture, extreme heat and grasshoppers coupled with damage done by recent frost are blamed for the deterioration. Brown estimated the western Canadian crop at 288 million bushels as compared with the indicated 350 million bushels forecast by the recent government report.

TRACTION LINES TO PAY PART OF FIRST MORTGAGES

Edward Eagle Brown and Harvey B. Fleming, receivers of the Chicago City Railway company and the Calumet and South Chicago Railway company, were ordered yesterday by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson to pay an aggregate of $3,079,300 to the First National bank as trustee on the face amount of the outstanding first mortgage bonds of the two companies. The bank in turn was ordered to make immediate payment to the holders of the bonds.

The payment of the Chicago City Railway company is $1,696,300, or 5 per cent of the face amount of a $33,926,000 first mortgage. The court authorized the payment of $1,383,000, or 25 per cent, of outstanding first mortgage bonds of the Calumet and South Chicago railway. Previous payments of 10 per cent of each of the railway companies had been authorized by the court.

Stewart-Warner corporation and subsidiaries had consolidated sales of $9,222,434 for the six months ended June 30, an increase of 132 per cent over the $3,979,164 reported for the first six months of 1933, Frank A. Hiter, vice president and general sales manager, said yesterday.

For the quarter ended June 30 sales amounted to $5,180,712, a gain of 109 per cent over the $12,480,572 for the corresponding period of 1933.

Mr. Hiter stated that sales of the parent company, including radios, refrigerators, and automotive equipment increased over 250 per cent.

Thayer, A. T. & T. Director for 24 Years, Quits Board

The resignation of Eugene V. R. Thayer as a director of the American Telephone and Telegraph company was accepted yesterday. Thayer, who has been on the board since 1910, resigned because he recently became a member of a brokerage firm, which is contrary to the company's policy.

Cash Involved in German Debt Row Is Small

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The controversy between the United States and Germany over the payment of interest on the Dawes and Young plan bonds is more a matter of the principle rather than the actual amount of money involved.

The trouble arose on June 14 when the German reichsbank announced that beginning July first there would be a six months' moratorium on cash transfers of middle and long term debts. This meant a complete "freezing" of transfers of interest payments from Germany to bondholders in foreign countries.

Included in this moratorium order were the "Dawes" and "Young" bonds. The moratorium applied only to transfers out of Germany. The interest on these bonds was to be paid as usual in Germany reichsmarks into a fund in Berlin to await transfer into foreign funds later when sufficient foreign exchange accumulated.

* *

The whole moratorium plan, the Germans asserted, was necessitated by the fact that their supply of gold was practically exhausted and to the additional fact that there was no other means of transfering the interest money from marks in Berlin to dollars in New York, francs in Paris, and pounds in London.

The only alternative offered foreign creditors was an arrangement effected by the reichsbank whereby the creditors might accept ten year funding bonds in lieu of the cash interest payments.

The moratorium—which, of course, was just a gentler word for "default"—was accepted with a fair degree of equanimity by the holders of ordinary Germany bonds. But the holders of the "Dawes" and "Young" bonds—which were supposed to be especially gilt edge securities because they represented an especially solemn covenant of the Germany people—were mightily perturbed and there immediately developed political repercussions in the United States, France, and Great Britain.

* *

The British got action in short order. Parliament immediately gave the administration drastic powers of reprisal against the Germans. The cabinet immediately threatened to seize credits on German goods sold in Great Britain and transfer them to holders of German bonds in lieu of interest. Consequently, on July 4, Germany debt negotiators signed an agreement promising to pay full interest in sterling during the next six months to British holders of Dawes and Young bonds.

France also threatened reprisals against Germany exporters and dispatches from Paris yesterday indicated that the Germans had backed down and given the French the same prefered treatment accorded the British.

Both of these countries were in an excellent position to coerce the Germans, because both nations buy more goods from Germany than they sell to that country. In order to protect its favorable balance of trade Germany felt obliged to reverse her moratorium stand with respect to those nations.

* *

The United States, however, is in quite a different position. This country sells much more goods to Germany than it buys from that nation. This country was in no position to threaten to hold German credits because similar action against American exporters by Germany would more than offset such reprisals by this country. The state department's protests, therefore, were not packed with dynamite.

There was one step, however, that could be taken to protect American holders of Dawes and Young bonds. The trustees for these bond issues could seize the proceeds of certain German taxes which specifically secured the bonds. They did so two days ago.

When the Dawes loan bonds were sold in 1924 they were specifically secured by a first charge on the receipts from customs duties, from the taxes on tobacco, beer, and sugar, and from the net revenues of the alcohol monopoly.

Naturally, the proceeds of these taxes greatly exceeded the annual interest payments on the Dawes and Young loan bonds. When the trustees on Tuesday moved to attach the fund for the protection of the foreign holders of the German bonds, therefore, the issue was put squarely up to the Germans.

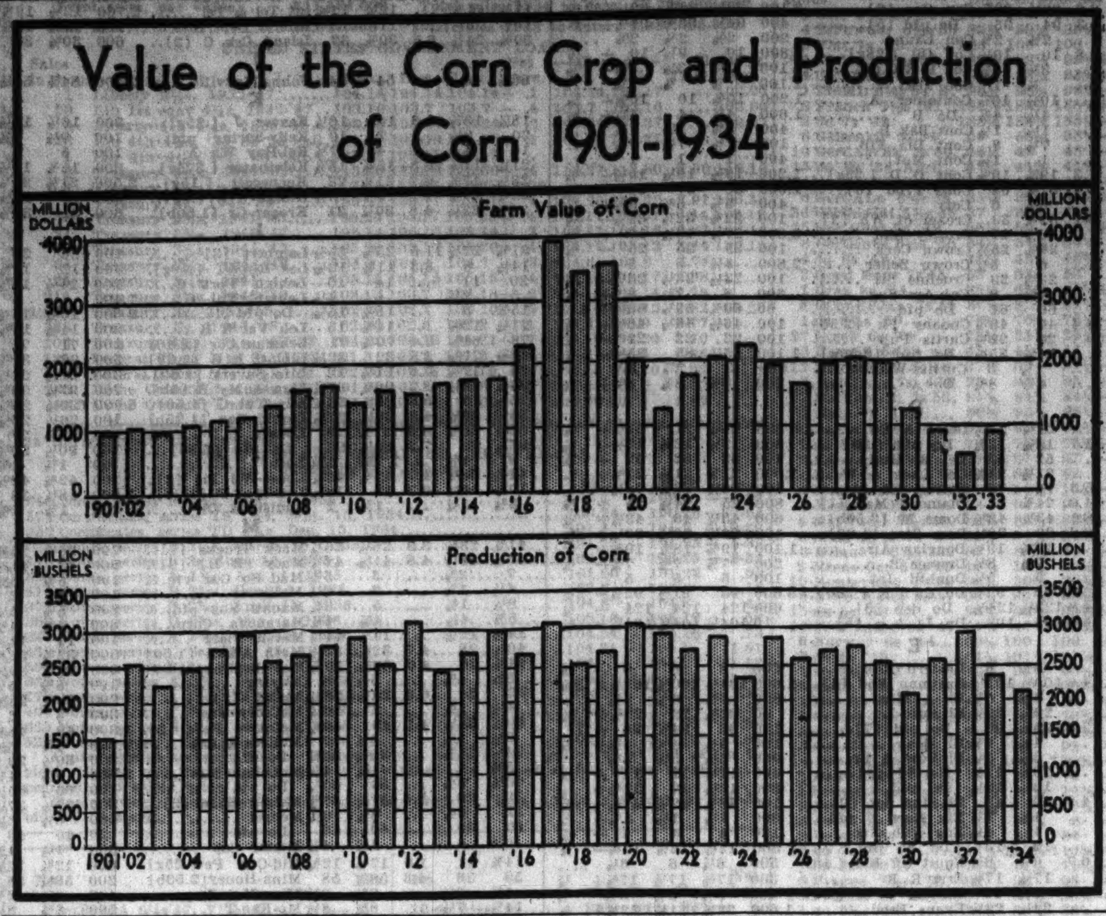
They could, of course, brush aside the trustees and divert the tax proceeds directly into the reich's treasury. That, however, would be clear cut repudiation and would establish Germany in the eyes of the world definitly as a nation without financial integrity.

Germany was on the spot. Having already been forced to abolish the six months moratorium as far as French and British holders were concerned it became a question of whether she was willing to get a financial black eye all over the world merely to avoid payment on the comparatively small amounts owed to American holders. The semi-annual interest on the outstanding 60 millions of Dawes dollar bonds at 7 per cent per annum would amount to only $2,100,000 and the amount due American holders of Young bonds would amount to only $2,475,000.

It has become a question as to whether it would not be easier to scrape up 4½ million dollars and postpone the moratorium trouble for another six months.



U. S. Believes Berlin Dumps Dawes Pact

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 18.—The American government is convinced that the Dawes and Young plan loan contracts have been torn up by the actions of Germany and Great Britain, although sufficient information has not been received as to the latest measures taken in Berlin for officials to form even tentative opinions as to what should be done to meet the new situation.

While measures of retaliation are considered justified, it is indicated they will not be used. It is likely the state department will continue to insist upon equality of treatment for American bondholders and to point out the inequities and possible far reaching consequences of the policy adopted. It is hoped that Great Britain especially will abandon what is regarded by some here as a narrowly conceived program that is not to the best interests of the empire.

May Await Roosevelt's Return.

Secretary Hull declined to discuss the situation today. It is assumed that before he makes any new move he will consult President Roosevelt by radio. If it is found that haste is not absolutely essential the President's return to the capital for detailed discussions may be awaited before any important action is taken.

While officials are satisfied that Germany deliberately declared a moratorium on debt service transfers to precipitate a situation that would destroy the Dawes and Young loan contracts, there is deeper feeling here against Great Britain. There is indignation because Great Britain not only defaulted on her war debt obligations to the United States, but also exerted pressure on Germany to pay British nationals to the disadvantage of American bondholders.

U. S. Note Shocks Berlin.

BERLIN, July 18.—The new United States note contributed to the long standing diplomatic debate between Washington and Berlin on the rights and wrongs of alleged German financial and commercial discrimination against Americans has created a painful impression on German officials, it was learned today.

The bluntness of the language with which Washington rejected further negotiations and called for remedial measures came as a shock. Germany had been hoping for an invitation to send a commission to the United States to discuss "adjustment" of the German-American trade balance in line with the new German policy of bilateral reciprocity, under which German exports to the United States would balance German imports from the United States. However, Germany has never replied to Sec. Hull's demand for equal treatment.

No additional action is expected as a result of the government's action yesterday in deciding to withhold certain internal revenues from the trustees of the Daws loan. The trustees earlier had announced they would not release some 200,000,000 marks paid into their special account from sugar, brandy, beer and tobacco taxes.

French Will Be Paid.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 18. — Announcement was made here today that an agreement has been reached with Berlin under which French holders of Dawes and Young loan bonds are assured of interest payments. The agreement provides that Germany be guaranteed a favorable trade balance with France, which will make the payments possible. It is expected that the agreement will be signed shortly.

The plan provides that the French buy enough German goods to give Germany a balance of about 200,000,000 francs annually after the imports from France and interest on the bonds are paid.

MONTGOMERY WARD'S JUNE PROFIT $532,592; REPORTED LOSS IN '33

Montgomery Ward & Co. yesterday reported that their net profit for June was $532,592 compared with a loss of $301,626 for the corresponding month of 1933. The company's net profit in May, 1934, was $1,048,849.

"Physical inventories will be taken on July 31, but the June earnings are based on conservatively stated book inventories," the company said. "Full provision was made for all charges, including depreciation and federal and state income taxes."

The net profits of the company for the five month period ended June 30 stood at $3,842,538, compared with a loss of $3,046,072 in the like 1933 period. The earnings for the current five month period were equal to 73 cents a share on the common stock outstanding after providing for current class A dividends.

RAILROADS PLAN 7.5 PCT. INCREASE IN FREIGHT RATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Nw York, July 18.—Tentative plans of the railroads to ask for an increase in freight rates are designed to raise slightly less than $190,000,000 yearly to offset increases in operating costs, it was learned today. On the basis of last year's $2,491,336,043 freight revenue of all roads, which included for nine months of the year temporary rate advances under ex parte 103, this would mean an average rise of 7½ per cent in the freight bill.

The Association of Western Railroad Presidents will meet in Chicago tomorrow to discuss the rate proposal. Meetings of the eastern presidents' conference and the southeastern presidents have been set for next week.

One important point of dissension to be argued out is the length of haul on which rates will be increased. The present intention is to concentrate attention on hauls of more than 200 miles, in order not to jeopardize the trafic subject to active competition from trucks. This limitation is being fought by many roads, particularly the shorter lines, who desire greater relief and who are inclined to take the risks of having short haul trafic diverted.

PITTSBURGH BANK CLOSED; FDIC TO PAY DEPOSITORS

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 18.—(AP)—The Bank of America Trust company, which has been operating on a restricted basis since April 20, was closed today by the state department of banking. The bank's president, W. P. Ortale, who worked for $1 a year, was arrested last April 20 and charged with embezzling $106,700.

Virtually all the institution's deposits are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation. The payoff may begin tomorrow. Officials said it is the second bank closing in the nation to be handled by the corporation since it was set up by the government.

Nichols Defies FDIC to Sue Him for Costs

J. M. Nichols, president of the First National Bank of Englewood, last night dispatched a letter to Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation in which he defied the FIDC to sue him to compel him to pay his share of the bank deposit guaranty fund.

Mr. Nichols told Crowley that "you may overpower me, but you will never whip me."

Mr. Nichols' letter to the FIDC chairman, read, in part, as follows:

"This morning's Chicago TRIBUNE carries a news item to the effect that within the next few days the FDIC intends to start suit against the First National Bank of Englewood in an effort to force it to contribute to the FDIC fund.

"If you politicians down there at Washington thought you were morally right why has it taken you thirteen months to step on a little fellow out here on a fifty foot lot?

"The fact of the matter is you have passed a law that is unsound and unpractical and have not cared to test public opinion through a test case. If you are determined to crucify sound banks, such as ours is, go to it.

"Tearing into sound banking institutions and supporting the weak ones can have but one ending.

"How would you like to have me hang out a sign in our lobby telling some 12,000 depositors that the boys up the Potomac are tossing their deposits up for grabs and that it is my suggestion that they come and get it at once?

"If we cannot operate a bank as it should be operated the people had better take their money and bury it."

Mr. Nichols said that he is being encouraged in his stand by letters from all parts of the country. He warned the FDIC against starting an action that might have the same repercussions throughout the country as did the air mail case.

STEEL OUTPUT GAINS 1 POINT TO 28 PER CENT

Chicago Production Rises to 33%.

Steel ingot production in the country this week rose one point to 28 per cent of productive capacity, and at Chicago there was a gain of five points to 33 per cent, according to Iron Age. However, increases have not been general in the principal districts, due to disturbances in the labor situation and in the finished steel price structure and due to seasonal factors.

Production remains unchanged in the Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Wheeling, and Detroit districts, but it is reported that raw steel inventories are being replaced in many plants. The production rate in the valley district has gained two points to 30 per cent of capacity, and at Buffalo ten points to 25 per cent. Output is two points lower at 32 per cent in the Cleveland-Lorain territory, and it dropped fifteen points to 25 per cent at Birmingham, coincident with the closing down of the rail mill.

Steel Awards Drop.

Structural steel awards during the week dropped 8,500 tons from the 20,300 tons in the preceding period. New projects call for 10,400 tons, compared with 7,500 tons in the preceding week and 9,000 tons two weeks ago. However, there is a steady increase in the volume of prospective work. At least 150,000 tons of steel are expected to be used on jobs in the New York district.

The PWA has allotted $57,000,000 for construction of dams alone. Sheet steel piling amounting to approximately 40,000 tons is pending for this work in addition to the 15,000 tons awarded last week for the dam at Fort Peck, Mont. The department of the interior has awarded 5,500 tons of reinforcing bars for Boulder Dam.

The sheet market was considerably upset by the filing last week of reductions of $1 a ton on hot rolled annealed and hot rolled pickled-in-the-breakdown, annealed, deoxidized sheets, to become effective at Pittsburgh on July 20.

Price Situation.

Conclusive proof that the code is not a price fixing medium was shown by the price revisions during the last three weeks, the magazine states. Individual mills filed both of the recent reductions in sheets with the industry's code authority, and completely surprised the other producers. In most instances they were met with reluctance, and indicate that the code would be powerless to prevent a rapid decline in prices if any one producer believed that prospective tonnage might be increased.

The San Francisco strike is having little immediate effect upon the steel industry directly. Pacific coast mills continue to move material by rail, although shipments by truck and water have stopped entirely. Among the construction activity halted is that of the San Francisco-Oakland bridge, to which structural steel has been moving steadily for several months.

The Iron Age composite price for finished steel remains unchanged at 2.131 cents a pound. The pig iron composite continues at $17.90, and the scrap composite holds at $10.58.

New Dealers Spending at 7 Billion Rate

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 18.—The New Dealers continue to spend taxpayers' money at the rate of 7 billion dollars a year, the treasury department revealed today.

During the first two weeks of the fiscal year which began July 1, the New Deal cost 290 million dollars, the treasury's books showed. This rate, if continued throughout the year, would exceed the 7 billions spent last year.

Expenditures, however, are expected to be speeded up as the current fiscal year proceeds until they far surpass the present rate. The New Deal has between 11 and 12 billion dollars which congress turned over to it for spending in the current twelve months.

The Roosevelt alphabetical agencies, set up to fight the depression, cost a comparatively small share of the 290 million dollars paid out in the first two weeks. The various recovery agencies spent only 123 millions, a sum which they are usually able to surpass in almost any other two weeks period.

While they were spending 290 millions, the New Dealers were collecting only 139 million dollars in revenues, leaving them "in the red" 151 millions on the first fortnight. If this continues, their revenues for the year will be only about 3 1-3 billions, against expenditures of at least 7 billions. The deficit will run between 3 2-3 and 4 billion dollars.

Bankers' Acceptance Total June 30 Lowest in Years

New York, July 18.—(AP)—The American Acceptance council announced today that bankers' acceptances outstanding at the end of June totaled $534,193,248, a reduction of $152,481,202 from the amount outstanding on the same date a year ago. The June 30 total was the lowest in recent years, and was due, it was stated, to a severe decline in acceptances reported by New York City banks.

MIDDLE WEST STOCK RIGHTS PLAN ACCEPTED

Allocation Depends on Cash Provision.

A basis for the distribution of "rights" for the purchase of stock in a reorganized company has been tentatively agreed upon by security holders of Middle West Utilities company. This was indicated yesterday after further conferences were held by representatives of the noteholders and the preferred stock holders.

The allocation of the stock purchase warants is contingent upon the success of the noteholders in making arrangements to provide the money necessary to exercise the option granted the unsecured creditors by the banks.

Warant Agreement.

The initial capital of the reorganized company will consist of 3,000,000 shares of one class of stock plus whatever is necessary to cover the warants granted stockholders. Under the program agreed upon the preferred stock holders will get 1½ warants to purchase stock in the new company for each share held, and the common stock holders will receive 1 warant for each 20 shares held.

The warant holder may purchase stock in the new company at the following prices: First and second years, $8 a share; third and fourth years, $9 a share, and fifth to tenth years, $10 a share. The warants apparently are the extent of participation in the reorganization of the common and the preferred stock holders.

For new money provided each group of the present security holders will receive the same security, according to Robert N. Golding, counsel for the noteholders.

Noteholders Control.

The noteholders, however, will retain control of the company because of the seniority of their present claims. They will designate a chairman and a majority of the board of directors while the preferred and common stock holders will have the right to name one director each.

An effort will be made to obtain an underwriting for issuance of the new securities. Rights to subscribe will probably be distributed as follows: Noteholders, 25 per cent; preferred stock holders, 35 per cent, and common stock holders, 40 per cent.

FOODS ADVANCE FURTHER IN PRICE ABOVE PAR OF 1913

Washington, D. C., July 18.—(AP)—The labor department today reported a slight increase in retail food prices during the two weeks ended July 1. The department's index number for the two weeks was 109.6 compared with 109.1 in the previous two weeks. One hundred represents prices in 1913.

Of 42 articles included in the survey, 18 went up, 8 dropped, and 16 did not change. Among items showing increases were pork chops, bacon, ham, eggs, steak, lard, oleomargarine, and sugar. The index two years ago stood at 101.

STOCKS RALLY LAZILY; VOLUME OF TRADE IS LIGHT

Gains Range from One to Two Points.

New York, July 18.—More cheerful news from the west coast strike front imbued the stock market with enough energy to shuffle forward a point or two today. Trading continued at a dull pace, total transactions falling below the average of other "dog day" sessions of the last week or so.

Midweek business news provided little stimulus, and in trading circles the conversation turned to about every topic but the outlook for corporation shares. Some improvement was noted in the tone of the bond market in spite of the fall in activity, and again the behavior of commodities helped to keep up the spirits of speculators.

Market Activity Broadens.

One feature of the session was a preceptible broadening of market operations, many issues which have been grossly neglected of late appearing on the tape at intervals. A scattering of sizeable gains also provided some diversion for commission house loungers suffering from ennui. U. S. Smelting was a bright spot in the mining group, rising about 5 points on a sudden spurt of activity. Phillip Morris continued to set the pace for tobaccos by rising another 1½ points to a new high for the year.

In the agricultural implement division Case distinguished itself by a 6 point upturn, partly by way of celebrating the continued enthusiasm for wheat on the grain exchanges. New high price levels were reached by Sterling Products and Bristol-Myers.

Rail Shares Rally.

Railroad shares found a respite from recent selling and recovered a little. Atchison made the most impressive showing of the department with a rise of more than 2 points. New York Central, Southern Pacific, and Southern Railway gained about a point each.

Steels strengthened in face of uncertainty over the industry's outlook over the next few months. U. S. Steel recovered more than a point of its recent losses.

Sugar stocks returned to favor and American Sugar improved its broad handicap by a point. Chemicals tried to go somewhere, and Du Pont, Columbian, and Union Carbide made their marks on the day's record of progress. Du Pont and Columbian each finished around 2 points higher.

In the automobile sector Chrysler and General Motors attracted patronage, but trading here was quiet in spite of the sold out condition of the stocks. The liquors showed little rallying power from their recent decline. Oils were quiet and inclined to lag.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 18.—The listed bond market was active and generally higher today with all classifications participating in the advance.

Many United States government long-term issues closed higher, final prices being up 7-32ds to down 5-32ds points with most of the issues finishing the day close to their best levels for the year. Domestic corporation bonds showed fair strength with the more active issues registering modest gains.

Trading volume was still restricted, transfers totaling $11,184,00, par value, compared with $11,982,000 yesterday.

Germans Move Against Trend.

Although most of the leading foreign loans pointed higher, the German group moved generally lower, a number losing a point or more. The Dawes plan 7s rallied a point while the Young plan 5½s sold off ⅝. French government and United Kingdom issues were steady as were most of the Scandinavian loans.

Domestic industrial, Public utility and railroad bonds averaged higher in the order named. High grade railroad bonds, in most instances, moved higher, while second grade rail issues failed to move in unison.

Many Issues Attain Gains.

Among high grade domestic issues to rise fractionally were Burlington 3½s, Chesapeake and Ohio general 4½s and both issues of refunding 4½s, Santa Fe general 4s, American Smelting 5s, American Sugar 6s, Oregon Washington railroad 4s, Pennsylvania Power and Light 4½s, and Reading 4s of 1951.

Lower prices were paid for Southern Railway general 6s, Chicago and North Western issues and Atlantic Coast line 4s, which suffered a sharp break and partial rally yesterday. Louisville and Nashville bonds were under further pressure and sank under the Tuesday low. Tomorrow the railroad's directors are scheduled to deliberate over a dividend policy.

Chicago Mail Order.

Investors' Guide: Please send me information about Chicago Mail Order stock.—R. R.

Answer: Chicago Mail Order company was incorporated in 1902. It carries on a general wholesale and retail mail order business, specializing in style merchandise and wearing apparel. All business is done on a cash basis.

The company reported sales of $3,869,000 for the first quarter of 1934, a 31 per cent increase over sales of $2,956,000 for the initial quarter of 1933. "On this basis," the management declared, "it is reasonable to assume that the company will earn a profit for the first six months, against a loss of $270,000 in the same 1933 period."

The three year record of earnings follows:

	Net Sales.	Net Income.	Inc. per Share.
1933	$17,973,000	$218,000	$ .63
1932	20,514,000	623,000	1.83
1931	18,886,000	302,000	.87

On Dec. 31, 1933, current assets totaled $4,272,000, about five times current liabilities.

Dividends on the 346,181 shares of $5 par stock to date this year total 50 cents a share. In 1932 they were $1 and in 1931, 50 cents. Nothing was paid in 1930.

The stock is medium grade and somewhat speculative.

Investment Advisory Service.

Investors' Guide: Enclosed find a list of my holdings. The report which is with it was prepared for me without charge. The statistical service furnishing it will render such service for $205 a year. Their representative talks as though they could greatly enhance my position and easily make their service pay for itself. Have always appreciated the good advice you have given heretofore and should very much like to hear from you.—J. V. H.

Answer: We hold no brief for or against investment advisory services of the type you describe. We have always regarded them as fairly valuable more as a means of checking one's own opinion than as a service to be followed blindly.

Your total estate amounts to roughly $20,000. If the service could increase your income to 6 per cent without sacrificing the security of your principal it would accomplish a really difficult job. The conservative investor today finds difficulty in obtaining a yield of 5 per cent on a sizable estate. Earnings from investments of insurance companies range at about 3½ to 4½ per cent.

Yet even if the service should be able to obtain a 6 per cent yield for you the service charge would be 16 per cent of your income. It appears to us that your estate is not large enough to support a service at that price.

PROPOSE HUGE CIVIC CENTER FOR NO. RIVER BANK

Trade Unit Submits Plan to Municipal Groups.

Suggestions for a civic center along the north bank of the Chicago river, between Wells and Wabash, extending north to Kinzie street, have been submitted by the North Central association to other civic and municipal groups for their approval and coöperation.

According to William C. Calvert, secretary of the association, tentative plans call for five large structures, each a block long, linked by bridges at the fifth floor, crossing La Salle, Clark, Dearborn, and State streets.

Could House Government Offices.

The new civic center, it was suggested, could house all city, county, and state offices now scattered about in several buildings throughout the loop. The five units would comprise a criminal court building between Wells and La Salle; a new city hall in the block between La Salle and Clark; a temple of justice, with a huge dome, reminiscent of the state capitol at Springfield, between Clark and Dearborn; a new county building extending from Dearborn to State, and a state office building in the block between State and Wabash.

The architect of the group, Henry J. Schlacks, predicts that real estate in the vicinity of the present city hall and county building would be benefited if those two structures were replaced by an office building.

Submit Proposals.

Announcement of the proposed civic center has been submitted to the federal government, Mayor Kelly, Gov. Horner, the Chicago plan commission, the Chicago Real Estate board, Chicago Federation of Labor, Building Trades council, and others.

Directors of the North Central association will meet shortly to formulate plans for the carrying out of this project. It is hoped to obtain federal aid in its promotion.

DOLLAR RISES AGAINST FRANC; POUND STEADY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 18.—The dollar recovered further today from its reaction on Monday when news of the San Francisco general strike provoked bear selling from abroad. In terms of the franc it rose .07 cents to 100.5 per cent of parity, regaining the price at which it was quoted at the end of last week.

Sterling was steady at $5.04 and the franc was off ½ point to 6.60 cents. Guilders cheapened 4 points to 67.77 cents, belgas 2 points to 23.36 cents, and Swiss francs 3 points to 32.62 cents. Lire were 1 point lower at 8.58 cents. The mark stood out as an exception to the trend. In contrast to its recent weaknes it rose 14 points today to 38.50 cents. The causes of the movement were not apparent to dealers here, but the mark has been so closely restricted that its movements bear little relation to developments in Germany. The Canadian dollar was steady at a 1⅛ cent premium.

Imports of $1,677,200 gold from Canada and $648,600 gold from England and a gain of $350,000 through the release of gold from earmark for foreign account were reported by the federal reserve bank.

BANKERS OFFER $50,000,000 B. & O. NOTES AT PAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 18.—Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Speyer & Co., and Brown, Harriman & Co., Inc., announced today that "as agents for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad," they offered at par $50,000,000 of B. & O. five-year 4½ per cent secured notes due on Aug. 1, 1939. The financing has been submitted to the interstate commerce commission for approval.

The plans for the floatation had previously attracted attention because the RFC had acted to insure the B. & O. favorable syndicate terms and because more provisions of the national securities law are involved than was the case in previous railroad financing under the law.

Continuing its support for the B. & O., the RFC has agreed to buy, subject to I. C. C. approval, unsold notes from the offering.

GRANT FINAL DELAY IN PEORIA LIFE HEARING

Peoria, Ill., July 18.—[Special.]—When the Peoria Life Insurance company asked today that hearing of its petition for leave to resume business with $4,000,000 new capital be again continued, Circuit Judges Joseph E. Daily and Henry J. Ingram made a peremptory setting for Friday morning. The hearing will be held then or the petition will be dismissed.

The two judges stated they had been informed by Judges Charles G. Briggle of the United States district court at Springfield that he would rule today on a petition pending before him to put the insurance company into bankruptcy for reorganization.

If the petition is granted, all proceedings in the state courts will be halted and there will be no need for the hearing Friday.

MASSACHUSETTS GROUP TO ISSUE $8,500,000 IN NOTES

It was revealed yesterday that the registration statement of the Western Massachusetts companies, filed last week with the federal trade commission, covered the proposed issuance of $8,500,000 of notes to be dated Aug. 1, 1934, which will be used to retire the $5,000,000 three year notes due Sept. 15, 1934, and $2,500,000 of 5 per cent notes due Oct. 15, 1937, to be called on or before Oct. 15, 1934.

Underwriters for the new issue are First Boston corporation, White, Weld & Co., F. S. Moseley & Co., Kidder, Peabody & Co., Tifft Brothers, and Arthur W. Wood company.

MUNICIPAL BOND NOTES

State Treasurer John C. Martin announced in Springfield yesterday that an additional $5,000,000 of Illinois revenue notes will be sold on July 31. The notes are a part of the $30,000,000 unemployment relief bonds issue program and the sale will bring to $25,000,000 the total amount of the relief notes that have been turned over to the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. The state on June 5 sold $5,000,000 of 5 per cent relief notes to a syndicate of Chicago banks for $5,102,500. At this price the return was ¾ of 1 per cent—a record low.

An issue of $750,000 Hamilton County, O., selective sales tax bonds was purchased yesterday by the Guaranty Trust company, E. B. Smith & Co., and the Central Trust company of Cincinnati at 100.339 for 2 per cent bonds. The bonds, which mature from Sept. 1, 1934, to March 1, 1938, are being offered at prices to yield from ½ of 1 per cent to 1.75 per cent.

C. W. McNear & Co. bought $2,000,000 of West Virginia 4 per cent road bonds which mature from 1935 to 1959. They are being offered at prices to yield from 1.25 per cent to 3.60 per cent.

Auburn, N. Y., yesterday postponed the sale of $75,000 of notes dated July 16 and due Sept. 1.

Award of a new issue of $275,000 city of Quincy, Mass., bonds was made to Brown, Harriman & Co., incorporated, and F. S. Moseley & Co. The bankers jointly bid 100.059 for $175,000 street bonds, due Aug. 1, 1935 to 1944, as 2¾s, and for $100,000 of water improvement and sidewalk bonds, due Aug. 1, 1935 to 1939, as 3¼s. The bonds will be reoffered at prices to yield 0.75 to 2.91 per cent.

Milwaukee county, Wis., has announced a new issue of $500,000 of Metropolitan district sewerage 4 per cent bonds for award on July 30 at 10 a. m. The bonds will be dated as of Oct. 1, 1933 and will mature from Oct. 1, 1948 to 1951.

The city of Council Bluffs, Iowa, will offer on July 28 a new issue of $140,000 of water works refunding bonds. The issue will carry a 4 per cent coupon.

STOCK CONTROL BOARD NAMES DIVISION HEADS

Washington, D. C., July 18.—(AP)—Chairman Joseph P. Kennedy of the Securities and Exchange commission today announced the appointment of Donald E. Montgomery of Wisconsin as chief of the examination division and David Saperstein of New Jersey as chief of the stock market trading division.

Montgomery is now assistant chief of the securities division of the trade commission. Saperstein was chief associate counsel to Ferdinand Pecora in the senate stock market investigation.

Kennedy also announced that tomorrow the heads of ten accounting firms would confer with the commission on various problems, particularly the forms to be used in registering exchanges and securities.

In response to questions at a press conference, Kennedy said he knew nothing of reports that the federal reserve board had decided to fix margins at 45 per cent on Oct. 1 when the law requires that the federal reserve board set a figure. Reserve board officials also denied that a decision had been reached.

BANK CLEARINGS CONTINUE BELOW TOTAL LAST YEAR

New York, July 18.—(AP)—Dun and Bradstreet reported today that bank clearings for the third successive week have exceeded the figure of the week preceding but the aggregate still continues under last ear. The total this week for all leading cities in the United States, the firm stated, was $5,163,287,000 which was 7.5 per cent below that of a year ago. This contrasts with a reduction of 11.7 per cent a week earlier.

Clearings at New York were $3,433,650,000, a loss of 13.9 per cent, while the aggregate of $1,729,637,000 for all outside centers represented an increase of 8.4 per cent.

Active speculative trading in July, 1933, Dun and Bradstreet said, resulted in swelling bank settlements at that time and accounted for the reduced amount this year.

PARLEY CALLED TO STUDY HUGE BUILDING PROJECT

F. L. Corcoran, in charge of the Rockefeller Center exhibit in the Hall of Social Science at A Century of Progress, yesterday announced that a conference of representative bankers and Chicago business leaders will be called late in July to discuss plans for the construction in Chicago of a project similar to Rockefeller center, which includes Radio City in New York City.

"A study will be made during the conference of surveys of other major cities in behalf of future real estate and building developments throughout the United States" he said. "Through such a study it is believed the erection of other civic centers might be brought about, thus giving assistance to millions of unemployed building tradesmen."

URGE INSURANCE CODE REQUIRE WRITTEN QUIZ

A recommendation that written examinations for insurance brokers be included in the new insurance code being drawn up for presentation to the state legislature was made yesterday at a meeting of the Insurance Brokers of Illinois in the Hotel La Salle.

Arthur Schwartz, president of the organization, said that the laws on the subject were put on the books many years ago and they do not provide for coverages now. He added the examination requirement is just one of several suggested to insure the protection of the public.

Ernest Palmer, state director of insurance, ruled last week that future candidates take the examination, but under present statutes this is optional with the director.

FEDERAL SURVEY REVEALS NEED OF NEW HOUSING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 18.—Housing conditions in the United States amply demonstrate the need for new housing, Acting Secretary Dickinson of the commerce department said today in making public results of a national "real property inventory," now being conducted by the commerce department.

Sixteen per cent of 1,811,462 dwellings in 99 cities are in crowded condition "or worse," Mr. Dickinson said. An additional 16.6 per cent are in need of structural repairs and 44.7 per cent need minor repairs. The incomplete returns show 32,442 houses, or 2.34 per cent of the total, as "unfit for human habitation."

7.8 Per Cent Double Up.

"There are 1,860,294 families living in the 1,725,212 occupied dwelling units, of which 135,082 are extra families occupying quarters with other families," Dickinson said. "In other words, 7.8 per cent of the total number of families are 'doubled up,' having no independent homes of their own.

"There is a very apparent opportunity for improvement of sanitary facilities in many sections. Figures for the fifty-nine cities show that 184,578 residential units, or 10.2 per cent of the 1,811,462 units covered, were without indoor running water; 370,278, or 20.4 per cent, were not provided with indoor water closets, while 479,909 units, or 25.5 per cent, had no tubs or showers.

Prefer Single Family Homes.

"Construction of dwelling units in the last five years have dropped to one-half of the reported amount of construction for the five pre-depression years ending with 1929, according to the real property figures. The survey also shows that American citizens prefer the 'single family' type of dwelling. In new residential construction for the last ten years the percentage of single family type was 87.8 per cent, while apartments built amounted to 8.5 per cent.

"In view of the fact that the sixty-four cities covered by the inventory were carefully selected on a sampling basis in an effort to reflect national conditions, we are safe in assuming there is an obvious derth of small homes, and the average American citizen today has by no means lost his traditional interest in individual home ownership," he concluded.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 18.—Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, and his wife sailed for America today on the Europa. Although Norman's name was not on the passenger list, he said he had made no effort to conceal his plans and was going to spend a holiday in Maine.

He chose the Europa, he said, because his friend, George L. Harrison, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, was also aboard the ship. The announcement of the trip aroused interest in financial circles, since on previous visits Norman has taken the opportunity to consult American bankers and others on current international problems.

As Norman embarked at Southampton the "hush atmosphere" which usually surrounds his journeys was noticeably lacking.

HOLC REPORTS NEW RECORD IN LOAN VOLUME

Washington, D. C., July 18.—(AP)—The Home Owners Loan corporation today announced its field offices had broken all their previous records by doing a total volume of $56,110,571 in mortgage refunding business during the week ended July 13.

Nearly 1,017,440 appraisals of property have been completed, 1,017,438 title reports received, 554,347 applications are in process of adjustment, and 41,565 applications have been held up because of title defects, but may be cleared later.

20,000 EXPECTED AT MERCHANDISE SHOW HERE AUG. 6

Estimates Place Sales at $7,500,000.

Around 20,000 out of town merchants and buyers are expected to attend the Interstate Merchants' council convention and style show here Aug. 6 to 11, which is sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce and eleven other important merchandising exhibits and trade expositions. It is expected that sales of Chicago's wholesalers and retailers will be better than $7,500,000 during the city's annual fall market, which will be held at the Hotel Sherman.

"Orders anticipated by Chicago merchants from out of town retail outlets will probably average 15 to 20 per cent higher at the August show than they did a year ago," according to C. D. Southard, vice president of the Chicago Association of Commerce and general manager of Butler Brothers. Mr. Southard heads the committee supervising plans for the trade gathering which is held twice a year.

Expect Record Attendance.

"With the farm purchasing power greatly improved, and retail sales throughout the entire Chicago wholesale marketing area from 18 to 28 per cent greater than a year ago, there is every evidence to believe that the influx of merchants and buyers will be larger than for many months past," Mr. Southard asserted.

Mr. Southard said that the greatest activity is expected to revolve around the 26th semi-annual convention of the Interstate Merchants' council. He estimated that between 8,000 and 10,000 merchants and buyers will register with this group and will participate in educational sessions dealing with present day retail methods and problems.

Speakers scheduled to address the convention include Mayor Kelly; David Ovens, president of the National Retail Dry Goods association and vice president and general manager of the J. B. Ivey company, Charlotte, N. C.; John McKinlay, president of Marshall Field & Co. and Mr. Southard.

Eighty-five to Exhibit.

Some 85 Chicago manufacturers of apparel, millinery, and accessories are to participate in four style shows which will be held nightly.

Among the other events scheduled for the week are Chicago Merchandise Fair, Palmer house; Glassware, China, and Pottery show, Merchandise Mart; Eastern Manufacturers and Importers' exhibit, Palmer house; Apparel exposition, Hotel Sherman; Gift, Artwares, and Novelties show, Merchandise Mart; Women's, Children's, and Infants' Wear show, Merchandise Mart; House Furnishings and Electrical Appliances market, Merchandise Mart, and Merchandise Exhibit and Style show by the Chicago Wholesale Market council, Union Terminal building.

URGES FEDERAL RADICALISM BAN TO BOOM TRADE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 18.—The government's assurance that it will no longer tolerate the attacks of "radical and irresponsible elements" would be a tremendous boon to business and recovery, it was stated today by C. M. Chester, president of the General Foods corporation, as he sailed on the Bremen for a short trip abroad.

Mr. Chester said he felt the administration should take definite steps to improve the confidence of business throughout the country, and that a definite program would have a salutary effect upon employers. Manufacturers then would relax their present conservative attitude toward appropriating and spending money for plant additions and improvements, and the development of new products, he said.

"I think sound business men believe we cannot spend our way out of the depression," declared Mr. Chester. "Business must take hold and go ahead. We cannot get back to a permanent normal employment level unless industry provides the ways and means for employment. This can be brought about only by the incentive of profit, without which taxes and payrolls cannot be met. Only out of the earnings of the people can the present enormous debt of the country be paid. The value of accumulated wealth is an uncertain factor, as has been proved by the depression."

EARLY STRENGTH IN LARD LOST; CLOSE OFF SLIGHTLY

Early strength in lard futures, resulting in sympathy with higher corn prices, was lost in later dealings. Realizing and hedging by packers proved too heavy a weight to absorb, although declines were held to small proportions. Clear bellies also moved lower. Eastern clearances for export were small. Liverpool was closed. Spot prices here were: Cash lard, $7.00; loose, $6.40; leaf, $6.37, and clear bellies, $10.00. Range of futures prices on the Chicago Board of Trade follows:

ALL LIVE STOCK UNEVEN ON DULL MEAT DEMAND

Hog Average Is Steady Despite Weak Close.

Adversely influenced by bearish reports from the wholesale meat trade and disturbing news from strike areas, live stock markets fluctuated uncertainly again yesterday. Recoveries were scored in places, but the spotted gains were counterbalanced by losses in other sections, with averages for the day in most species little different from Tuesday's.

Hogs showed most uneveness, with the close fully 10 cents under the high point of Tuesday, although the average for the day, tax included, at $6.90 was unchanged. Top sales were down 5 cents at $7.20, this figure being paid sparingly against the $7.25 top on Tuesday, when numerous loads reached that figure. The farmers' price for top loads was $4.95, the $2.25 tax going to the federal government.

Dull Pork Trade Is Factor.

The sluggish condition of the trade for fresh pork the last few days has taken the snap out of the hog market which has been holding around current price levels for the last month. Top grades since mid June have been fluctuating within a 55 cent range.

Local interests were slow in buying particularly the smaller city butchers who deal mostly in fresh pork and keep in close touch with conditions among the retailers. They report that butcher shops had a poor clearance of pork over the week-end and had to carry some stocks into this week. Consequently retailers are cautious buyers.

Packers bought the bulk of yesterday's hogs within a range of $6.45 to $7.15, including the tax, with the range for packing sows at $6.15 to $6.65. Inferior grades of pigs cost packers $3 to $3.50, but only 75 cents to $1.25 of this money went to the farmer.

Cattle Prices Uneven.

Prices in the cattle alleys ranged from 15 cents lower to 25 cents higher, comparing extremes of the two days, but only a meager share of the supply showed the advance. Steers from Nebraska on the specialty order raised yesterday's top cattle price to $10.35, within 5 cents of the highest mark since January, 1932. The next highest price was $9.65, and comparatively few of the total receipts were eligible to sell above $9, a sprinkling going at $9.25 to $9.50. One load of 1,000 pound yearlings reached the latter figure, but few sales of this weight were reported above $8.50.

Receipts of 14,000 cattle included 4,000 "government cows" worth $1.25 to $2, according to traders. Calves sold strong to 25 cents higher.

The competition of low priced veal and the obvious "deadlock" that has developed in the wool industry in many sections of the country held off a recovery in the lamb market. Prices held steady, but trading was slow and buyers reluctantly accepted stock at Tuesday's price list which was lowest of the year. City butchers bought handpicked native lambs up to $7.50 and packers bought to $7.25, and below. Most westerns sold at $6.75 to $7.25.

MEN

DO YOU BELIEVE IF GIVEN A CHANCE YOU COULD SUCCESSFULLY OPERATE YOUR OWN BUSINESS? ARE YOU INDUSTRIOUS ENOUGH TO WORK 8 HOURS A DAY WITH THE OPPORTUNITY TO MAKE $5,000 A YEAR? IF YOU CAN SINCERELY SAY YES TO THE ABOVE QUESTION, MAKE A PERSONAL INVESTIGATION THURSDAY OF A COMPANY AND ITS PRODUCT THAT IS ESTABLISHING MEN IN CHICAGO AND THE WEST.

Here in Chicago we have men representing this company who are in their own business, financed by us and many are earning a percentage of from $35 a week to as high as $916 in four weeks.

Our products are patented and come close to selling themselves. Our electrical hygiene unit is by far the most outstanding—however, we sell air-conditioning, concealed heating, electric mixers, etc.

Our company is rated in millions and operates all over the world and has grown by leaps and bounds because of its unique method of distribution, extremely profitable to our dealers and leaving almost no resistance to the sale.

The men we desire to interview do not have to be business men or salesmen. Our only requirement is good appearance, sincerity and a willingness to work hard and learn.

Our expansion program will create business opportunities for a few men this week. We have nothing to sell you—you can't invest anything but your time and we want you to know straight from the shoulder that we feel you will consider our business the most outstanding opportunity you have ever investigated. Apply
THURSDAY ONLY, 10 to 10:30 and 2 to 2:30. Room 1016 Mather Tower, 75 E. Wacker-dr.

TODAY—11:00 A. M.

Men selected by this larger company to be put into a permanent business, will be backed by several thousand dollars each in corporate working capital, equipment and inventory values. No investment or deposit required. No overhead or advertising. No seasons.

The electrical units manufactured in several plants here and abroad are so thoroughly automatic that no electrical knowledge is required. The method of distribution depends far more on merchandising sense than past sales experience. Therefore, we prefer men with not less than 10 years' past business experience or the equivalent in a trade or a profession, who appreciate and prefer responsibilities. Character, health and a pleasing personality are assets.

Whereas the local retailer depends on only 40 to 100 customers, men in this business have a good will support of approximately 3,000 potential customers, thus insuring continuous successful operations. Such a field of activities is possible on a percentage basis payable frequently, ranging from $2,500.00 up to $7,500.00 and in some instances larger. Initial earnings are necessarily smaller. While we can put you in the profit class very quickly, time, effort and enlarged experience in this business contribute to increasing your income.

If you are interested in examining a program of success, you are invited to call promptly at 11:00 a. m.—no other time—Suite 215-226 at 1046 Wilson-av.—just east of Broadway—today, Thursday, July 19. From an hour to ninety minutes will be required to go into details. But this would permit you to get established this week if we come to an agreement.

SCHOOL TEACHERS.
A national institution with over a thousand branches will employ several teachers either permanently or for the summer to enroll children for music or dancing lessons. Position pays well on commission basis and offers unlimited opportunity for advancement. Apply 10 o'clock sharp Thurs. A. M. 30 N. La Salle, Suite 423.

A MARRIED MAN BETWEEN 28 AND 40. Chicago resident, capable of eventually holding a position of responsibility in new household utility dept. of large local retail institution. Man selected will work under direct supervision of district manager on a drawing account. Apply after 9:30 a. m., Room 1502 Chicago Motor Club Bldg., 66 E. South Water-st.

UNUSUAL HOME DEVICE.
Our men make real money at once on this amazing item. See it—be convinced. But you must have best of references, as we are building a national business and a permanent reputation; good opportunity; big commission to those who qualify. Apply Room 1712, 333 N. Michigan-av.
